Senate Adopts Compromise Tax Bill

Legislation Would Drop Freight Levy

Conferees Decide Against Repealing Passenger Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate gave quick and easy approval Thursday to a compromise tax extension bill that would drop the three per cent tax on freight.

The compromise was worked out by a Senate-House conference committee which decided against dropping the 10 per cent tax on passenger fares for travel by train, bus, plane and ship.

It was adopted by the Senate without objection. The House delayed action until Friday.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla) said he would try again later in the session to get the passenger tax eliminated.

Defeat For Administration

It was the Senate which had voted to repeal the freight and transportation taxes, which were imposed as a war measure to discourage unnecessary shipments or travel.

The administration sought to continue these and other taxes at their present rates in view of the need for revenue.

The administration asked, and was granted, continuation of the corporation income tax rate of 52 per cent. Otherwise it would have dropped to 47 per cent next Tuesday, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

The legislation also continues these rates: 10 per cent on new automobiles, 8 per cent on auto parts and accessories, $4 a thousand on cigarettes, $10.50 a gallon on distilled spirits and $9 a barrel of beer. Otherwise, these rates too would drop next Tuesday.

$485 Million Tax Loss

In all, the corporation and excise rates which the administration sought to continue add up to $2,600,000,000 a year in annual revenue.

The government stands to lose 450 million dollars a year on the basis of repealing the freight tax, plus another 35 million on taxes from pipeline transportation of oil and gas.

It would have lost another 225 million with repeal of the passenger fare taxes.

Alaska Debate Limit Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Southern objection Thursday night blocked an attempt to limit debate and start voting on the Alaska statehood bill next Monday.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) interposed the objection to a unanimous consent request by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), acting majority leader.

Mansfield then said he planned to keep the Senate in session Thursday night until at least midnight and possibly all night. Late sessions also will be held Friday, and the Senate is to meet on Saturday, too.

A principal backer of statehood, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) had said in advance he didn't expect success for the effort to limit debate.

Jackson and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif), comanagers of the bill on the Senate floor, agreed the House-passed bill eventually will pass the Senate without change.

"It's just a matter of time," they said.

Opponents of statehood in both parties monopolized the Senate floor during the day, often with only one or two colleagues in attendance.

Rep. Passman Confirms Aid Funds Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La) confirmed Thursday night that a House Appropriations subcommittee has cut 482½ million dollars from foreign aid funds.

Passman, head of the subcommittee, did so indirectly in saying there has been what he termed an accurate leak of information to that effect. Passman blamed "the spenders and the wasters" for the leak.

Passman said reports of the subcommittee's action were "deliberately leaked to give top-echelon people downtown more time to conduct their unprecedented pressure campaign for more money."

The entire appropriations committee will meet Friday to act on the subcommittee recommendations. Passman said he expected that between now and Friday persons favoring more money will "put plenty of pressure" on committee members.

If sustained, the subcommittee action would mean a total cut of about 750 million dollars from the amount originally requested by President Eisenhower. Congress cut $266,500,000 from the original request in a separate authorization measure.

"It is to be regretted," Passman said, "that the subcommittee action leaked so quickly and so accurately. It makes it difficult for those charged with the responsibility of legislating wisely to discharge their duties in a manner to which the public is entitled."

The subcommittee recommended $3,193,902,500 of the $3,950,092,500 requested by the President.

During hearings on the bill, Secretary of State Dulles said he can foresee no end to the U. S. foreign aid program. Before the recent switch in Soviet tactics, Dulles said, aid cannot safely be ended with the Russians "trying to win their ends by smiling."

Ike Speeds U.S. Experts To A-Parley

Kremlin's Threat To Boycott Talks Is Brushed Aside

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sped three U. S. scientists to Geneva Thursday with instructions to carry on, if possible, a series of nuclear talks with Russia.

He told them the United States must persevere in its quest for controlled disarmament "in the face of whatever difficulties the Soviets may raise."

New Soviet Switch Indicated

However, a Moscow announcement that a Romanian scientist had been named to take part led to speculation here that the Soviets would show up after all. State Department officials said they were not sure that this was the meaning of the announcement but they hoped so.

Press office Lincoln White said the memorandum naming Romanian Professor Horia Hulubei was given to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Wednesday night Moscow time.

That was shortly after Russia threatened to boycott the conference unless the United States agreed that the scientific talks on detection of nuclear tests should lead to an agreement to halt nuclear tests.

Eisenhower wired his message to the three men at New York's Idlewild Airport as they were about to board a plane for Switzerland.

Conditions Uncertain

"You leave under uncertain conditions," Eisenhower messaged, "but I and all the American people continue to hope that the door to understanding is still open."

The departure of the three scientists capped a lightning - fast U.S.-Soviet diplomatic correspondence.

During recent weeks, Russia had indicated readiness to hold technical talks among scientists of four nations from each side at Geneva starting next Tuesday. Their goal was to try to agree on methods, techniques and instruments needed to detect cheating on any East-West agreement to suspend nuclear tests.

Owner Gets Back Auto Impounded In '48 Plus $6,253

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — Ten years ago police confiscated Walter Michalowski's $4,000 Cadillac, after accusing him of stealing it. Even after he proved he didn't steal it, the car remained impounded.

Michalowski went to court. Last week he got the car back. Thursday, the State Supreme Court granted Michalowski $6,253 in depreciation and interest and directed Nassau County to pay in addition court costs totalling $7,000.

Soviet Fisherman Wins Freedom In Close Race

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP)—A Soviet fisherman fled to freedom across dark, spooky moors early Thursday, hotly pursued by Russian crewmen.

Erich Teayn, 32, an Estonian, eluded the guard on a Soviet trawler, one of three offshore, stole a motorboat and headed for shore.

Gilbert Leask, a post office employe, saw it all from the shore.

"I was walking near the seaside cliffs when I saw the fugitive Russian's motorboat nearing the bay," Leask said. "The other boats were close behind him, but he reached quickly and scrambled away into the moors.

"A few minutes later the first of the Russian dinghies reached the shore and I could hear them calling after the man.

"The runaway looked over his shoulder a couple of times and seemed fightened. But he kept running and vanished in the scrub."

The Russians swarmed through the brush after him, beating the bushes with their bare hands. They pounded on village doors.

For several hours the posse searched. Alarmed villagers called the police.

Teayn had reached a small farmhouse and collapsed of exhaustion. The farmer gave him shelter for the night.

In the morning, he turned himself in at police headquarters here and asked permission to stay in Britain.

"If I am taken back to the fleet I will be killed," he said.

Thursday morning the Soviet fishing boats sailed into Lerwick and the three captains stalked into the city hall, demanding a chance to talk to Teayn. The officials refused.

An Arrival From Norway

A replica of an ancient Viking boat sails into sight of lower New York skyline on arriving from Norway yesterday after a 22-day Atlantic crossing. The craft, unlike original Viking ships of 1,000 years ago, had an 80 horsepower auxiliary engine. This was used once in heavy weather. The skipper, Thorvald B. Lihaug, 59, of Bergen, Norway, who made the trip with a crew of six, said the 78-foot open boat was better in some ways than present-day craft. The vessel was one of three built for use in a movie. Bloody Tripoli Battle Sharpens Lebanon Crisis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Fierce fighting blazed in Tripoli Thursday as U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was reported working fast to prevent Lebanon's rebellion from dragging the entire world into a crisis.

At least 10 persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the fighting that broke out almost immediately after the secretary general ended his seven-day visit to the Middle East. An unofficial truce prevailed while he was here.

Government forces in the northern port city shelled rebels entrenched in the circling hills and demolished at least one fortified house. They used armored cars to attack roadblocks.

Skirmishes also were fought Wednesday night in the Bekaa Valley of central Lebanon.

Hammarskjold on his departure for New York took a plea by Premier Sami Solh for an armed U.N. force to stop the border traffic in arms and reinforcements. Solh said the U.N. observer teams were unable to stop it.

But Hammarskjold said on his arrival in New York that he hoped the observers could do the job.

Sources close to the U.N. observer corps here said Hammarskjold was fearful that Lebanese government leaders may create a situation which would invite direct Western military intervention and thereby produce a worldwide crisis.

The Soviet press and radio opened up with an attack on any plan to turn the U.N. observer corps into an armed unit, labeling it an undercover scheme for U.S. and British intervention.

Soviet newspapers called attention to the Soviet Union threats of her nuclear and missile might issued in the crisis over Suez two years ago.

Informants close to the U. N. here said Hammarskjold was as fully concerned in preventing any Western intervention as he was in halting Syrian-Egyptian infiltration.

30 Feared Dead In Africa Train Wreck

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Five passenger cars were smashed Thursday night in a train derailment outside Johannesburg, killing perhaps as many as 30 persons.

Two hours after the crash the South African Railways said seven persons died. Rescue crews estimated, however, that 30 persons had been killed.

4 SAC Jet Tankers Trying For Records

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE Mass. (AP)—Four KC135 jet tankers of the Strategic Air Command take off from this base early Friday in an attempt to better existing speed records for jet aircraft between New York and London and return.

Two of the huge craft will attempt to set a record for a nonstop, round-trip between New York and London.

The other two will try to establish new records for one-way flights between New York and London.

The round trips will cover a distance of 6,994 statute miles.

One of the planes in the nonstop flights will land in Baltimore's Friendship International Airport on the return flight. The other will land at Westover. Both will circle London before heading back to this country.

The tankers on the one-way flights will land at Brize Norton Air Base in England. One craft on the New York - London runs will complete its home flight at New York's Floyd Bennett Field. The other will return to Westover.

The three existing jet aircraft records were established by a British Royal Air Force Canberra bomber, piloted by Capt. J. W. Hackett, on Aug. 23, 1955.

The bomber's time from London to New York was 7 hours, 29 minutes. The return flight was made in 6 hours and 16 minutes. A record elapsed time of 14 hours, 21 minutes was set.

The flights, under the over-all command of Brig. Gen. Donald W. Saunders, of Athens, N.Y., are being made in connection with Air Force participation in air meets scheduled in the next few weeks in the Netherlands and Belgium.

Crack Jakarta Troops Occupy Rebel Capital

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Crack government troops captured the rebel capital of Menado in North Celebes Thursday apparently crushing the last organized resistance in the rebellion.

An army spokesman said the picturesque city of 60,000 people was occupied after what was probably the stiffest fighting of the four-month-old civil war.

Government forces that hit the beaches of North Celebes on June 15 made the final drive into Menado from the town of Kairagi, about 2½ miles east of the city. Army Intelligence sources previously said government troops have been fighting inside the city since Saturday.

No casualty figures have been disclosed in the North Celebes fighting.

Part of the rebel army in North Celebes, originally estimated at 10,000 men, may have retreated to the jungles to begin guerrilla warfare. Rebel forces in Central Sumatra, routed by the government in April, have been fighting on from the jungles there.

Worker Crushed Under Elevator

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harry J. Fenwick, 40-year-old maintenance employe of the Bendix Radio Corp. was crushed to death Thursday under an elevator at the firm's Joppa road plant.

Patrolman Carl Beatty said Fenwick was standing on a ladder in the elevator pit making repairs when the accident occurred.

Catch-All Bill Denounced As "Monstrosity"

WASHINGTON (AP)-Denounced as a tax on milk and bread and derided as "an economic monstrosity," a catch-all farm bill died a sudden death in the House Thursday.

A coalition of Republicans and Northern big city Democrats succeeded in barring it from consideration on the House floor. The 214-171 rollcall vote appeared to erase any chance of general farm legislation at this session of Congress.

Democratic farm leaders backing the bill had conceded in advance that it had little chance of passage. Their fears were quickly confirmed in a brief debate on a resolution which would have cleared the bill for House consideration.

Referring to the proposed higher price support programs for wheat and dairy products, Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) said the bill should be called the milk and bread tax act. "Iniquitous legislation," he said.

The monstrosity label had been applied to the measure by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who hinted President Eisenhower would veto it if Congress passed it.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) described the bill as "one of the most confusing, most complex, most controversial" measures he had ever seen in 20 years as a House member.

Supporters pleaded in vain that it should be allowed to come to the floor so the famers could be given their day in court.

Rep. Charles Hoeven (R-Iowa) told the House the bill would cost consumers and taxpayers an extra $1,700,000,000 a year. He said the consumer-financing provisions of a proposed price support program for wheat would raise the price of bread a penny a loaf.

Adoption of the dairy provisions, he argued, would add 1½ cents to the price of milk, 9 cents a pound on butter and "put every cheese producer out of business."

Fifty-two Democrats joined 162 Republicans in killing the bill. On the other side were 150 Democrats and 21 Republicans.

Negro Attorneys Ask High Court Special Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro attorneys Thursday urged the Supreme Court to hold a special session for quick overturning of a 2½-year delay ordered for school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

A petition filed by the attorneys said the delay ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., was clearly wrong.

It described the legal position taken by Lemley as amounting to "an invitation to violence and to substituting a government of mob for one of laws."

It said his ruling conflicted directly with the Supreme Court's 1955 call for ending compulsory segregation with all deliberate speed.

The Supreme Court had planned to adjourn for summer vacations after its next public session on Monday.

Moon's Surface May Be Huge Chemical Hot Foot

NEW YORK (AP)—The surface of the moon may be a huge chemical hot foot, just waiting for the first space traveler from earth, a scientist suggests.

But the dusty moon's surface may also give us a hint to how life began, two other scientists said.

Both possibilities were reported Thursday in Science, a journal of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

"The first man who plants a rubber boot on a lunar surface may be in for an unpleasant surrpise," reported John R. Platt, University of Chicago physicist.

The moon's surface might be chemically unstable — due to the bombardment of sun's rays—and heat-producing reactions might be easily triggered, he said.

These possibilities can be explored in laboratory experiments before man sets foot on the moon, he added.

Supposing the moon's surface to be covered with cosmic dust, it may hold a continuing record of space history, said Prof. Joshua Lederberg, University of Wisconsin geneticist; and Dean B. Cowie of the Carnegie Institution in Washington.

It's as if the moon were a huge table in space that had never been dusted. For thousands of years its gravity has collected the cosmic debris, undisturbed by earthly elements such as wind, rain or man.

This collected dust could tell the cosmic history much as the layers and fossils of earth tell the evolution of life, the scientists said.

Hotly Denies Any Goldfine Mill Interest

Ike's Aide Brands Testimony Vicious, Malicious, False

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams Thursday night branded as a series of malicious lies testimony by John Fox of Boston that Adams had some interest in Bernard Goldine's mills and once promised to help Goldfine in a federal agency case.

"Deliberate and malicious falsehoods," said Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Later he called newsmen to White House press secretary's office and dictated a statement in which he said:

"Mr. Fox's malicious accusations are made largely in terms of what he alleges someone else told him.

"While I have no way of knowing what someone else is supposed to have said to Mr. Fox, I do know what I myself have said, heard and done.

"It is difficult to separate the many falsehoods in Mr. Fox's incredible testimony. Virtually everything he has said about me—in one way or the other — is false."

Goldfine's attorney, Roger Robb, also challenged the story Fox told the House subcommittee on legislative oversight. The subcommittee has been looking into gifts and other favors bestowed on Adams by Goldfine, a Boston industrialist.

Fox said, among other things, that Adams once promised to help Goldfine in a case pending before the Federal Trade Commission.

"Irresponsible Witness"

Adams, in his denial of Fox's testimony, termed it incredible for any committee of Congress "would permit a completely irresponsible witness to use the committee as a forum for making such vicious accusations."

Fox is former publisher of the defunct Boston Post.

Adams also said:

"1. I categorically deny that I have ever said to Mr. Goldfine or to anyone else that I would take care—or had taken care—of his affairs with any federal agency. I have never said that. I have never done that or attempted to do that.

"2. I categorically deny that Mr. Goldfine has ever helped me or any member of my family financially, while my children were in school. I—and I alone—footed my children's bills.

"3. I categorically deny that Mr. Goldfine has ever bought into any ventures for me. Mr. Goldfine has never purchased for me, or participated with me in the purchase of any security or other property. I do not now have nor have I ever had any financial interest in any property or investment, business or undertaking in which he has any interest.

Fox, Goldfine Feuding

It was the first time Adams ever has formally met with newsmen at the White House. It was just about the first time most of them had even laid eyes on him at the White House since the Adams-Goldfine controversy boiled up more than two weeks ago.

Robb told newsmen after the hearing that Adams doesn't have an interest in any Goldfine mill now and never has had, so far as he knows.

As for a conversation in which Fox said he was told Adams was "going to take care of" a Gold-

GOP "Defeatism" Assailed By Nixon

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, launching an offensive against the Democrats Thursday, called the five years of the Eisenhower administration "the best years of our lives."

A crowd of about 2,000 at the state Republican convention cheered and applauded lustily as the vice president declared: "Economic prospects today are better than they have been at any time since the first of the year. We have reached the bottom of the recession."

Ruddy, smiling and trim, the vice president hammered hard on his contention that the GOP has no reason whatever for going on the defensive.

"I have little patience with those Republicans who have a hangdog down-in-the-mouth attitude about the Republican party's chances in 1958 and 1960," he said.

Catch-All Bill Denounced As "Monstrosity"

WASHINGTON (AP)-Denounced as a tax on milk and bread and derided as "an economic monstrosity," a catch-all farm bill died a sudden death in the House Thursday.

A coalition of Republicans and Northern big city Democrats succeeded in barring it from consideration on the House floor. The 214-171 rollcall vote appeared to erase any chance of general farm legislation at this session of Congress.

Democratic farm leaders backing the bill had conceded in advance that it had little chance of passage. Their fears were quickly confirmed in a brief debate on a resolution which would have cleared the bill for House consideration.

Referring to the proposed higher price support programs for wheat and dairy products, Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) said the bill should be called the milk and bread tax act. "Iniquitous legislation," he said.

The monstrosity label had been applied to the measure by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who hinted President Eisenhower would veto it if Congress passed it.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) described the bill as "one of the most confusing, most complex, most controversial" measures he had ever seen in 20 years as a House member.

Supporters pleaded in vain that it should be allowed to come to the floor so the famers could be given their day in court.

Rep. Charles Hoeven (R-Iowa) told the House the bill would cost consumers and taxpayers an extra $1,700,000,000 a year. He said the consumer-financing provisions of a proposed price support program for wheat would raise the price of bread a penny a loaf.

Adoption of the dairy provisions, he argued, would add 1½ cents to the price of milk, 9 cents a pound on butter and "put every cheese producer out of business."

Fifty-two Democrats joined 162 Republicans in killing the bill. On the other side were 150 Democrats and 21 Republicans.

Bloody Tripoli Battle Sharpens Lebanon Crisis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Fierce fighting blazed in Tripoli Thursday as U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was reported working fast to prevent Lebanon's rebellion from dragging the entire world into a crisis.

At least 10 persons were reported killed and 20 wounded in the fighting that broke out almost immediately after the secretary general ended his seven-day visit to the Middle East. An unofficial truce prevailed while he was here.

Government forces in the northern port city shelled rebels entrenched in the circling hills and demolished at least one fortified house. They used armored cars to attack roadblocks.

Skirmishes also were fought Wednesday night in the Bekaa Valley of central Lebanon.

Hammarskjold on his departure for New York took a plea by Premier Sami Solh for an armed U.N. force to stop the border traffic in arms and reinforcements. Solh said the U.N. observer teams were unable to stop it.

But Hammarskjold said on his arrival in New York that he hoped the observers could do the job.

Sources close to the U.N. observer corps here said Hammarskjold was fearful that Lebanese government leaders may create a situation which would invite direct Western military intervention and thereby produce a worldwide crisis.

The Soviet press and radio opened up with an attack on any plan to turn the U.N. observer corps into an armed unit, labeling it an undercover scheme for U.S. and British intervention.

Soviet newspapers called attention to the Soviet Union threats of her nuclear and missile might issued in the crisis over Suez two years ago.

Informants close to the U. N. here said Hammarskjold was as fully concerned in preventing any Western intervention as he was in halting Syrian-Egyptian infiltration.

30 Feared Dead In Africa Train Wreck

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Five passenger cars were smashed Thursday night in a train derailment outside Johannesburg, killing perhaps as many as 30 persons.

Two hours after the crash the South African Railways said seven persons died. Rescue crews estimated, however, that 30 persons had been killed.

4 SAC Jet Tankers Trying For Records

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE Mass. (AP)—Four KC135 jet tankers of the Strategic Air Command take off from this base early Friday in an attempt to better existing speed records for jet aircraft between New York and London and return.

Two of the huge craft will attempt to set a record for a nonstop, round-trip between New York and London.

The other two will try to establish new records for one-way flights between New York and London.

The round trips will cover a distance of 6,994 statute miles.

One of the planes in the nonstop flights will land in Baltimore's Friendship International Airport on the return flight. The other will land at Westover. Both will circle London before heading back to this country.

The tankers on the one-way flights will land at Brize Norton Air Base in England. One craft on the New York - London runs will complete its home flight at New York's Floyd Bennett Field. The other will return to Westover.

The three existing jet aircraft records were established by a British Royal Air Force Canberra bomber, piloted by Capt. J. W. Hackett, on Aug. 23, 1955.

The bomber's time from London to New York was 7 hours, 29 minutes. The return flight was made in 6 hours and 16 minutes. A record elapsed time of 14 hours, 21 minutes was set.

The flights, under the over-all command of Brig. Gen. Donald W. Saunders, of Athens, N.Y., are being made in connection with Air Force participation in air meets scheduled in the next few weeks in the Netherlands and Belgium.

Crack Jakarta Troops Occupy Rebel Capital

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Crack government troops captured the rebel capital of Menado in North Celebes Thursday apparently crushing the last organized resistance in the rebellion.

An army spokesman said the picturesque city of 60,000 people was occupied after what was probably the stiffest fighting of the four-month-old civil war.

Government forces that hit the beaches of North Celebes on June 15 made the final drive into Menado from the town of Kairagi, about 2½ miles east of the city. Army Intelligence sources previously said government troops have been fighting inside the city since Saturday.

No casualty figures have been disclosed in the North Celebes fighting.

Part of the rebel army in North Celebes, originally estimated at 10,000 men, may have retreated to the jungles to begin guerrilla warfare. Rebel forces in Central Sumatra, routed by the government in April, have been fighting on from the jungles there.

Worker Crushed Under Elevator

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harry J. Fenwick, 40-year-old maintenance employe of the Bendix Radio Corp. was crushed to death Thursday under an elevator at the firm's Joppa road plant.

Patrolman Carl Beatty said Fenwick was standing on a ladder in the elevator pit making repairs when the accident occurred.

13 Boys, Then Girl

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Once the Mathew Wagner family got past that No. 13, they were all right: Child No. 14 is a girl.

Little Mary Anne was born Wednesday to Mrs. Wagner, who during the past 18 years has presented her husband with 13 sons. The new arrival weighs 10 pounds 6¼ ounces.

The Wagners have a 38-acre dairy farm near here.

Negro Attorneys Ask High Court Special Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro attorneys Thursday urged the Supreme Court to hold a special session for quick overturning of a 2½-year delay ordered for school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

A petition filed by the attorneys said the delay ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., was clearly wrong.

It described the legal position taken by Lemley as amounting to "an invitation to violence and to substituting a government of mob for one of laws."

It said his ruling conflicted directly with the Supreme Court's 1955 call for ending compulsory segregation with all deliberate speed.

The Supreme Court had planned to adjourn for summer vacations after its next public session on Monday.

Moon's Surface May Be Huge Chemical Hot Foot

NEW YORK (AP)—The surface of the moon may be a huge chemical hot foot, just waiting for the first space traveler from earth, a scientist suggests.

But the dusty moon's surface may also give us a hint to how life began, two other scientists said.

Both possibilities were reported Thursday in Science, a journal of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

"The first man who plants a rubber boot on a lunar surface may be in for an unpleasant surprise," reported John R. Platt, University of Chicago physicist.

The moon's surface might be chemically unstable — due to the bombardment of sun's rays—and heat-producing reactions might be easily triggered, he said.

These possibilities can be explored in laboratory experiments before man sets foot on the moon, he added.

Supposing the moon's surface to be covered with cosmic dust, it may hold a continuing record of space history, said Prof. Joshua Lederberg, University of Wisconsin geneticist; and Dean B. Cowie of the Carnegie Institution in Washington.

It's as if the moon were a huge table in space that had never been dusted. For thousands of years its gravity has collected the cosmic debris, undisturbed by earthly elements such as wind, rain or man.

This collected dust could tell the cosmic history much as the layers and fossils of earth tell the evolution of life, the scientists said.

Hotly Denies Any Goldfine Mill Interest

Ike's Aide Brands Testimony Vicious, Malicious, False

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams Thursday night branded as a series of malicious lies testimony by John Fox of Boston that Adams had some interest in Bernard Goldine's mills and once promised to help Goldfine in a federal agency case.

"Deliberate and malicious falsehoods," said Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Later he called newsmen to White House press secretary's office and dictated a statement in which he said:

"Mr. Fox's malicious accusations are made largely in terms of what he alleges someone else told him.

"While I have no way of knowing what someone else is supposed to have said to Mr. Fox, I do know what I myself have said, heard and done.

"It is difficult to separate the many falsehoods in Mr. Fox's incredible testimony. Virtually everything he has said about me—in one way or the other — is false."

Goldfine's attorney, Roger Robb, also challenged the story Fox told the House subcommittee on legislative oversight. The subcommittee has been looking into gifts and other favors bestowed on Adams by Goldfine, a Boston industrialist.

Fox said, among other things, that Adams once promised to help Goldfine in a case pending before the Federal Trade Commission.

"Irresponsible Witness"

Adams, in his denial of Fox's testimony, termed it incredible for any committee of Congress "would permit a completely irresponsible witness to use the committee as a forum for making such vicious accusations."

Fox is former publisher of the defunct Boston Post.

Adams also said:

"1. I categorically deny that I have ever said to Mr. Goldfine or to anyone else that I would take care—or had taken care—of his affairs with any federal agency. I have never said that. I have never done that or attempted to do that.

"2. I categorically deny that Mr. Goldfine has ever helped me or any member of my family financially, while my children were in school. I—and I alone—footed my children's bills.

"3. I categorically deny that Mr. Goldfine has ever bought into any ventures for me. Mr. Goldfine has never purchased for me, or participated with me in the purchase of any security or other property. I do not now have nor have I ever had any financial interest in any property or investment, business or undertaking in which he has any interest.

Fox, Goldfine Feuding

It was the first time Adams ever has formally met with newsmen at the White House. It was just about the first time most of them had even laid eyes on him at the White House since the Adams-Goldfine controversy boiled up more than two weeks ago.

Robb told newsmen after the hearing that Adams doesn't have an interest in any Goldfine mill now and never has had, so far as he knows.

As for a conversation in which Fox said he was told Adams was "going to take care of" a Gold-

GOP "Defeatism" Assailed By Nixon

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, launching an offensive against the Democrats Thursday, called the five years of the Eisenhower administration "the best years of our lives."

A crowd of about 2,000 at the state Republican convention cheered and applauded lustily as the vice president declared: "Economic prospects today are better than they have been at any time since the first of the year. We have reached the bottom of the recession."

Ruddy, smiling and trim, the vice president hammered hard on his contention that the GOP has no reason whatever for going on the defensive.

"I have little patience with those Republicans who have a hangdog down-in-the-mouth attitude about the Republican party's chances in 1958 and 1960," he said.

Navy Scientists Probe Fifth Vanguard Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Navy scientists worked feverishly Thursday to piece together shattered bits of evidence on the fifth Vanguard satellite launching failure in six attempts.

All they had, however, was reams of telemetry tape relayed back during the latest Vanguard's short-lived flight into space.

The rocket and its 21½-pound gold plated satellite were somewhere in the Atlantic ocean. Vanguard fizzled early Thursday morning when the second stage vehicle failed in flight after an apparently smooth liftoff.

The only solace came shortly after the Vanguard failure when General Electric Co. announced the development of a new rocket engine which could launch a satellite weighing as much as 10 tons.

The engine, described as a radical new concept in rocketry, is an outgrowth of the Vanguard test program. GE said it will pour out between a half million and a million pounds of thrust and theoretically could carry a satellite seven times heavier than Russia's massive Sputnik III.

The new power package still is under tight security wraps, but the company said it will be comparatively light, weighing only 4,000 pounds. It will use a liquid oxygen - kerosene fuel mixture, the same combination that burns in the first stage Vanguard vehicle.

Western rocket propulsion specialists have estimated that about 500,000 pounds of thrust in a two-stage vehicle were needed to push the 1½-ton Sputnik III into orbit last month. They also predicted that it would be one to three years before the United States would match the Soviet achievement.

It was not known whether GE's announcement would change all this.

At that time Goldfine was having troubles with the federal agency over the alleged mislabeling of fabrics coming out of Goldfine mills.

Fox quoted Goldfine as saying, "Gov. Adams is going to take care of it for me." He testified that after Adams and Goldfine had a private conversation on this occasion the Boston industrialist proposed a toast "to my friend, Gov. Adams, who never lets his friends down and isn't letting me down this time." (Adams is called "governor" by virtue of the two terms he served as governor of New Hampshire.;

Four Men Burned In Gas Explosion

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Four men were burned in an underground gas explosion and fire at a construction project Thursday.

The men were working to connect a gas main to a service pipe for the new Silver Spring Boys Club nearing completion at Forest Glen and Tenbrook roads. It was believed a wrench hit a rock and made a spark which ignited the gas.

The explosion ruptured the main and flames shot 10 to 15 feet into the air for about half an hour until Washington Gas Light Co. workmen could cut off the gas in the main.

Former Head Of State-Closed Bank Arrested

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A white-haired former state bank commissioner was arrested Thursday and accused of juggling the books in a bank which the state closed less than a month after he resigned as president.

Willard D. Rand, 68, former president of the Valley Trust Co. in suburban Penacook, pleaded innocent in Municipal Court.

The bespectacled Rand received a continuance until next Tuesday after telling Judge Donald G. Matson both sides might be saved some embarrassment and trouble if it was granted.

The charges, brought against Rand by Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman after a three-hour conference, stemmed from a transaction involving New England Forest Industries, Inc., a Concord forestry consulting firm.

Rand was accused in two counts of wilfully misapplying credits and making a false entry.

The nine-year-old bank, with total assets estimated at $1,850,000, was closed by the state Wednesday to protect depositors and avert a possible run amid rumors that it was in shaky financial shape.

House Approves Sale Of Land To U. Of Md.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Thursday to authorize the sale of about 14 acres and three buildings at College Park, Md. to the State of Maryland for $1,045,000.

The three brick buildings are used by the government for two Bureau of Mines laboratories and one Fish and Wildlife Service laboratory.

The bill, which goes to the Senate, would allow the sale only after the laboratories have been moved to new proposed facilities.

Scores Evacuated In Oklahoma Flood

GUTHRIE, Okla. (AP) — More than 150 families are without homes because of flood water in and near this north-central Oklahoma city.

Red Cross disaster teams and firemen evacuated stranded persons all night and into the day. Cottonwood Creek, which runs into the Cimarron River north of Guthrie, overflowed from heavy rain in its watershed Wednesday.

Fire Chief Melvin Daniels said the flood was the worst since 1949 and that it caught everyone by surprise. No injuries or fatalities were reported. The Red Cross estimated the number of homeless families.

Union Official Mum On Alleged Grand Jury Fix Plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A vice president of the Carpenters Union cited the Fifth Amendment Thursday in refusing to answer Senate Rackets Committee questions about an alleged plot to fix an Indiana grand jury.

The names of Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa and a Lake County, Ind., prosecutor figured in what the committee chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), said might be a conspiracy to obstruct justice.

One witness pleaded it might incriminate him to tell whether he had discussed with Hoffa a scheme for fixing a grand jury investigating Indiana highway scandals.

Another made a similar plea in refusing to tell the committee whether he had paid Lake County Prosecutor Metro Holovachka after a grand jury at Crown Point, Ind., had refused to return indictments on the ground it lacked jurisdiction.

Carpenters Vice President O. William Blaier of Washington declined to answer questions on the grounds that to do so would aid the prosecution in an Indiana bribery case now pending against him.

Blaier said he is under indictment in Marion County (Indianapolis).

Joseph P. Sullivan, one of Molovachka's assistant prosecutors, testified that:

1. Sullivan is the figure through whom $78,000 restitution was made in the land scandal case. Sullivan said he is not free to tell who did put up the money.

2. He had, as committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy phrased it, told an untruth to committee investigators in a prior denial that he had figured in the restitution.

Sullivan, a portly man, pleaded he could not divulge whether the money came from the Teamsters Union, the Carpenters Union or others, because this is a matter in confidence between him and some client. He said he could not name the client, either.

1. Sullivan is the figure through whom $78,000 restitution was made in the land scandal case. Sullivan said he is not free to tell who did put up the money.

2. He had, as committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy phrased it, told an untruth to committee investigators in a prior denial that he had figured in the restitution.

Sullivan, a portly man, pleaded he could not divulge whether the money came from the Teamsters Union, the Carpenters Union or others, because this is a matter in confidence between him and some client. He said he could not name the client, either.

Air Group Endorses Plan To Modernize Weather Bureau Services

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Coordinating Committee said Wednesday it has endorsed a five-year program to modernize the Weather Bureau's forecasting and reporting services for jet age aviation.

The undertaking would cost more than 100 million dollars, of which 80 million would be required for equipment alone; introduce automatic techniques and equipment; and add 3,524 new positions for aviation weather service to the current 4,800 total.

The committee is President Eisenhower's top aviation advisory group. It is composed of representatives of the Commerce, Defense, State, Treasury and Post Office departments, Budget Bureau, Civil Areonautics Board, Federal Communications Commission and Office of Defense Mobilization. It is headed by I.R. (Pete) Quesada, retired Air Force general who heads the recently created Airways Modernization Board.

The Weather Bureau study and program outline approved by the committee made note of "the remarkable developments appearing on the horizon which could revolutionize the methods for determining the state of the atmosphere."

These developments include:

1. Earth satellites serving as global weather observing platforms. The bureau said these will soon be in existence.

2. A fleet of unmanned balloons, floating free at a constant level, to provide almost continuous observations of wind circulation patterns and other upper air phenomena.

3. Indirect soundings of the vertical temperature and moisture structure of the atmosphere, by applying refraction or radiation techniques.

The Weather Bureau is preparing details of its five-year program for submission to Congress.

Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, Weather Bureau chief, has described the plan as essential to close a growing gap between the weather services now available and those needed by private, general, airline and military aviation.

Asia stretches about six thousand miles from east to west and more than 5,300 miles from north to south.

The U. S. Military Academy at West Point is America's oldest permanent military post.

Australian Boom

MELBOURNE (AP)—New York and California investors are pouring millions of dollars into building projects in Australia. Desmond Collings-Power, managing director of a company handling the investments, says the projects include a $21,600,000 block of 2,000 apartments at East Melbourne to be the biggest single apartment project in the world.

He declined to disclose who the investors are.

Alaska So Big It Could, But Probably Won't, Humble Texan

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Aleuts had a word for it. They called it Alakhskhak, or "The Great Land." Alakhskhak never became a popular word, fortunately, and the great land now is known as Alaska.

No one here seems to know the Aleut term for "49th state," which is too bad. For the Senate is again debating whether to admit Alaska to statehood, and the word, or words, might come in handy. The House has voted to make Alaska a state.

Possibly the most surprising thing about Alaska is its vast size. It's so big it could even, but undoubtedly won't, humble a Texan. Why, pardner, you could carve two Texases out of Alaska, and have enough trimmings left over for a couple of dozen Delawares.

Plop Alaska over the United States proper, and you'll fill most of the Mississippi Valley. The right-hand tail of Alaska, the part that stretches along Canada's western border, would reach to the Atlantic. The left-hand tail of islands would reach to the Pacific.

Alaska has had a hard time living down the legend that it's exclusively a land of ice and snow. It gets cold up there, all right, but it can get hot, too. In Fairbanks it has been as hot as 99 and as cold as 66 below.

Loyal Alaskans maintain that anyone who can live through a rugged New England winter will have no trouble in Alaska. The main problem, they say, is getting used to these long summer days and those seemingly longer winter nights.

Modern history began in Alaska at 4 a.m., March 30, 1867. Even then, it seems, the Russians were great ones for doing business in the dead of the night. Baron de Stoeckl of Russia and William Seward of the United States signed the papers that completed a fantastic real estate deal. The whole place, 375,296,000 acres, had been bought for $7,200,000.

At that time Alaska had a population of 30,000, Eskimos, Aleuts —who are closely akin to the Eskimos—and assorted Indians.

The Tlingit Indians had a curious custom. They didn't want to get rich. So when one of them got in the chips—or, more specifically, in the blankets—he held a potlatch and gave them all away.

Clever people, these Tlingits. For those who received the potlatcher's gifts had to come to his aid when he was in need. This may have been one of the earliest social security systems.

Oddity: After all these years, the native population still is reckoned at 30,000, out of an estimated total of 200,000.

Living in Alaska is no bargain. Ninety per cent of all perishable produce is imported, and transportation costs on all goods are high. Potatoes grow well there, but the season is too short for corn or tomatoes.

If Alaska comes into the Union, the flag will have to be remodeled.

Which brings to mind that Alaska's flag—eight gold stars in a field of blue—is the result of a 1927 contest to draw up an appropriate design.

Former Administrative Aide Pleads Guilty In $18,066 Shortage At U. Of Md.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Eliott M. Elliott, 46, a former administrative assistant at the University of Maryland, pleaded guilty today to charges filed in connection with an $18,066 shortage at the university.

Prince Georges Circuit Court Judge John R. Fletcher postponed sentencing pending receipt of a pro-sentencing report as requested by Defense Attorney Arthur King. Elliott will disclose plans to make full restitution at his sentencing, King said.

The charges include two counts of grand larceny and three counts of forgery.

The money was taken from funds of the Maryland agricultural society, an account on which Elliott could write checks with the approval of Dr. Gordon M. Cairns, dean of the College of Agriculture.

Elliott, of Takoma Park testified that when he began working for the university in 1947 he received a salary of $2,800. He could not explain how the missing money was used other than for "normal living expenses."

Lee J. Maisel, head of the internal audit at the university, testified the $18,066 shortage was discovered in October 1956, and Elliott was immediately discharged. A succeeding audit showed the first known shortage in the account to be in January of 1947.

Elliott, who has two sons, 16 and 11, has been working for about the last 15 months as an office manager for a maintenance service company in Silver Spring. He told the court he now handles between $12,000 and $16,000 a month in company funds.

James R. Mitchell, Elliott's present employer, said Elliott is the "best employe we've had as office manager and we've been in business about 12 years."

Elliott does not sign checks, but makes the payroll and handles all the office cash after the checks are signed, Mitchell said.

Choked with emotion and barely audible, Elliott testified he asked his wife for a separation to save her and the family the stigma of his actions. They reconciled within a year and are living together now.

The New York Stock Exchange was organized in 1792.

Slipup Permits Boy To Go Free For Nine Days

BALTIMORE (AP) — A slipup permitted a teenage boy to go free nine days although he was to have been confined again after his trial on charges of raping three small girls, authorities admitted Thursday.

The 14-year-old Negro youth, Earl Edward Corporal, finally was picked up by police Wednesday and returned to Boys Village, a correctional institution in Southern Maryland.

He was to have been returned there after his trial, at which he was acquitted of raping three girls, 9 and 11 years old. Capt. Millard Horton of the Baltimore police, admitted there had been a "slip-up" somewhere which allowed the boy to walk out of the courthouse after his acquittal.

Lawson J. Veney, head of Boys Village, said police had assumed responsibility for his return after taking him into custody at the institution in April.

He was in the village on a breaking and entering charge. Police had accused him of raping the three girls while on leave from the village.

Capt. Horton said Boys Village officials were in court the day the youth was acquitted of the rapes.

Veney said he waited vainly for police to bring him back, then on June 20 contacted Richard Wickes, Baltimore County probation chief.

Police picked up the boy Wednesday on a bench warrant from Baltimore County Juvenile Court.

Warden Charles Price said the boy was freed after a check showed no detainers were on file against him at City Jail.

The boy had been committed to Boys Village last July by the county court on a break-and-entering charge.

During his period of freedom the boy said he stayed home or visited friends.

Four Boys Indicted In 'Squealer's' Death

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Four teen-agers, serving time in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for stealing, were indicted Thursday for murder in the fatal beating of a fellow prisoner who had testified against them.

William Clark, 18, of Baltimore, died last Friday from a beating he took last May 23 in a dormitory basement at the reformatory.

The four accused in the slaying are Louis O. J. Shuman, 19; Averly L. Lee, 18; Robert C. Hartman Jr., 19, and Lawrence D. Beach, 18, all of Baltimore.

Clark was arrested last year and charged with buying a stolen watch from a gang. He testified in court against the four and was placed on probation. The four members of the gang were given reformatory sentences.

Last spring, Clark was brought into court on parole violation. He was sentenced to the reformatory and reportedly placed in the same dormitory building with the four he had testified against.

His beaten body was found in the basement by other prisoners.

State's Attorney Tom Kaylor said he would ask for first degree murder convictions.

"Tommy" Denies Staying At Hotel Free Of Charge

BALTIMORE (AP)—Democratic Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro produced one receipted bill in denying Thursday that he stayed twice at a Miami Beach hotel free of charge.

Hyman Pressman, a Democratic lawyer who has frequently criticized the D'Alesandro administration, told a meeting of teachers that the mayor was a free guest twice at the Shelbourne Hotel in Miami.

Pressman said the hotel was owned by the "Food Fair people . . . who have matters coming up before the city officials of Baltimore."

Mayor D'Alesandro showed a receipted bill for $221.04 for himself and his wife at the hotel from Jan. 27 to Feb. 8 in 1957. He said he stayed at the same hotel about a year before, but didn't know if he had a receipt because he usually doesn't keep them that long.

The mayor said he did not know who owned the Shelbourne.

An official of Food Fair in Philadelphia told the Baltimore Evening Sun that the hotel once was owned as a private investment by Samuel Friedland, chairman of the board of the chain.

D'Alesandro is seeking election in November to the U.S. Senate.

Pressman said that "vicuna coats and hotel bills" will be an issue in the national elections.

Gifts of vicuna cloth and payment of hotel bills by Bernard Goldfine, New England industrialist, to officials have been a source of Congressional investigation. Among those receiving the unusual cloth was President Eisenhower and hotel bills were paid for his assistant, Sherman Adams.

6,156 Apply For Extended Jobless Pay

BALTIMORE (AP)—Only 6,156 applications for extended jobless benefits have been filed by Marylanders, the Department of Employment Security reported Thursday.

There were 19,400 persons on Jan. 21 who had used up the regular benefits for 26 weeks. Starting last Thursday, the state offered them 13 more weeks.

The fact that two-thirds of those presumably eligible did not apply indicated that they had either been taken back to work or found other jobs, said Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security.

Baltimore City unemployed filed 4,155 of the claims for the extra 13 weeks of benefits.

Unemployed now receiving the weekly benefits will be eligible to file claims for 13 weeks more when they run through the 26 weeks and are still out of work.

The additional benefits will be available only through next April.

Kimble also reported that fewer claims were filed last week for the regular benefits than the week previous. The claims declined from 44,462 to 40,078 of which 33,505 were approved.

Long Crisis Appears In Store For Revolt-Torn Lebanon

Editor's Note —The Lebanese crisis holds the seeds of a fateful turn in the cold war. In this analysis William L. Ryan appraises some of the elements at work and focuses on Lebanese leaders opposing the pro-Western regime of President Chamoun.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

BEIRUT (AP)—A big rebel effort may be coming as President Chamoun says, but this country appears in for a long siege crisis. By the time it is over the country's economy could be wrecked and Lebanon could become a sitting duck for Gamal Abdel Nasser's big propaganda guns.

Nasser still denies interfering here. Available evidence seems to point to the opposite direction. But Nasser's principal, immediate aim here is not to annex this country to his United Arab Republic. He would likely be satisfied with the installation of a regime which would go down the line for U.A.R. foreign policy — in effect joining what Nasser calls the liberated Arab bloc.

The biggest difficulty here is that no avenue of compromise is apparent. Various disparate groups of rebels seem to want all or nothing. They appear willing and ready to see this little country torn apart rather than give an inch.

The government opposition was not pro-Nasser when it started out. In the beginning there was a quarrel over the spoils of political office.

Chamoun, whom the combined opposition seeks to throw out once was a passionate Arab nationalist standing for all the slogans now put forward in Nasser's name.

Some of the international furor over Lebanon arises not so much from United States support of Lebanon as it does from the fact that Lebanon's government has insisted upon supporting the United States. This makes the opposition more pan-Arab nationalist than Nasser—at the moment.

The opposition to Chamoun includes Sunni Moslem,, Shi'ite Moslem, Druse, Najjada and Christian elements.

The Sunni Moslem leaders include:

Saeb Salam—An excitable but brilliant man who is a former premier. In this country's unwritten law, the president must be a Maronite Christian. The opposition has put forward no particular candidate for president, but Salam wants to be premier again. Salam once was considered pro-Western. The policy he supports now sounds like Nasser's.

Abdullah Yaffi—A former premier, Yaffi also was pro-Western. His newspaper, As Sayessah, has turned extreme in tone. Yaffi's political differences with Salam are below the surface for now.

Hussein Oweini—A former premier, a millionaire businessman, once pro-Western. He dislikes violence.

Adnan Hakim — Leader of a dissolved terrorist organization called the Najjada, a Moslem counterpart of the Christian Falange, which is on the other side of the fence. He preaches violence, appeals to the rabble, espouses Nasser causes.

Raschid Karami—Leader of the opposition in Tripoli, a former premier who inherited his leadership from his father, once the Moslem Mufti of Lebanon. His father leaned Westward. Young Karami—still in his 30s—doesn't make his choice between East and West abundantly clear. He is just against Chamoun, at the moment.

The Druse opposition:

Kamal Jumblatt — A young eccentric, shy and peaceful appearing but breathing fire with his words. He heads the Progressive Socialists, is fascinated by figures like India's Nehru and Yugoslavia's Tito. He holds both the government and the rest of the opposition in contempt. Jumblatt's followers aren't Socialists, necessarily. They recognize him as a member of an important Druse family. He gets arms and supplies from the Jebel Druse people in Syria who are his blood relations.

Shibli Aryan — Leads Druse fighters near the Syrian border. His men move back and forth across the frontiers.

The Shi'ite opposition:

Ahmad el Assad—a feudal landlord in the south and a former speaker of Parliament. He has a strong following which holds down former gendarmerie stations, but his links to the Shi'ite sect in Iraq seem to inhibit his activities.

Sabri Hamadeh—Married to Assad's daughter, but Iraqi links don't stop him from fighting. He leads opposition forces in the northern Akkar region. His followers include fierce Dandash tribesmen.

The Christian opposition:

Patriarch Paul Meouchi — Appointed three years ago by Pope Pius XII as head of the Maronites. Some of his bishops oppose him but he contends Chamoun's 100 per cent pro-Western policies raise the danger of upsetting the traditional Moslem - Christian balance here and thus the danger of religious conflict. He once was pastor of a parish in Los Angeles.

Bouad Ammoun — Former Foreign Office secretary general, resigned to run for Parliament last summer, lost to a Chamoun man. His sympathies remain with the West. He is a contender for the presidency.

The government side:

President Chamoun — Began to change from ardent Arab nationalism during the Suez crisis when this country was under severe Nasser pressure.

Premier Sami Solh — Never a violent nationalist. About 70 years old, pro-Western, he seems to want above all to remain premier. Once the most popular Moslem leader in Beirut, he has lost much of his Moslem following. But the Christians now support him.

In between the two forces is stern Maj. Gen. Fouad Shehab. First and last a soldier, he remains aloof to the argument, considers it his job to keep the country in one piece.

Double Winner

LONDON (AP) Giovanni Mansueto won $86,800 in a football lottery in April but had to keep plugging away at his $25-a-week laboring job at an iron works. As an Italian immigrant, the law held, he must have regular employment for four years.

The Home Office relented this week and ruled Giovanni can quit if he wants to. He plans to be married July 5 to an English girl.

Potato Pays Off

VENICE (AP)—An Italian housewife, Signora Vicenzo de Pierri of nearby Mogliano Veneto, struck gold while slicing spuds for dinner. A gold Napoleon popped out of one. She figured it was a long-lost coin that a growing potato bumped into and absorbed underground.

The Liberty Bell was thrice cast and thrice cracked.

Challenge Accepted

LONDON (AP) — A British plane builder, Hunting Aircraft, has taken up a challenge to make five Peruvians into jet pilots in a month.

Peru's air force was interested by a South American tour of Hunting's jet Provost model and offered five candidates: three who had never flown before and two with a little nonjet flying.

Hunting trains RAF pilots in a month and has only the added language barrier with the Peruvians, Managing Director W. A. Summers says.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Best Foot Forward

In the good ol' summertime, footnotes take a light turn. This time of year, not only white but pastel shoes are worn. They're not only more delicate in color, but lighter weight than the dark ones worn all winter long.

With heightened hems giving a leggier look, shoes are very much in the limelight. Women require a larger wardrobe of them.

If in leather, shoes will last much longer if polished before the first wearing. Then, they should be kept clean and polished thereafter for good grooming sake, too. Polish has always been a good preservative, but remember to apply it on a clean shoe surface.

This year the colored patent leather shoes are most attractive. Cherry trimmed red ones couldn't be gayer. They should be cleaned with a damp cloth and then wiped dry. Every few wearings, an application of a soft cream polish or petroleum jelly should be used. This is particularly important if patents aren't worn regularly.

More and more fabric shoes will appear. Many dress designers are shipping an extra piece of fabric along so matching shoes can be made of it. These fabric styles must be brushed softly after each wearing—often soiled places can be removed by using art gum. Some styles can be cleaned with careful use of a mild soap suds, and keep them clean between wearings by placing in plastic bags (you can spot them easier when in a hurry) or in the shoe box.

When possible, don't wear any of your good shoes in the rain unprotected. If you do get caught in a shower, remember not to allow the shoes to dry near any source of direct heat. Wipe as dry as possible—then stuff with paper and let dry naturally at room temperature.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Best Foot Forward

In the good ol' summertime, footnotes take a light turn. This time of year, not only white but pastel shoes are worn. They're not only more delicate in color, but lighter weight than the dark ones worn all winter long.

With heightened hems giving a leggier look, shoes are very much in the limelight. Women require a larger wardrobe of them.

If in leather, shoes will last much longer if polished before the first wearing. Then, they should be kept clean and polished thereafter for good grooming sake, too. Polish has always been a good preservative, but remember to apply it on a clean shoe surface.

This year the colored patent leather shoes are most attractive. Cherry trimmed red ones couldn't be gayer. They should be cleaned with a damp cloth and then wiped dry. Every few wearings, an application of a soft cream polish or petroleum jelly should be used. This is particularly important if patents aren't worn regularly.

More and more fabric shoes will appear. Many dress designers are shipping an extra piece of fabric along so matching shoes can be made of it. These fabric styles must be brushed softly after each wearing—often soiled places can be removed by using art gum. Some styles can be cleaned with careful use of a mild soap suds, and keep them clean between wearings by placing in plastic bags (you can spot them easier when in a hurry) or in the shoe box.

When possible, don't wear any of your good shoes in the rain unprotected. If you do get caught in a shower, remember not to allow the shoes to dry near any source of direct heat. Wipe as dry as possible—then stuff with paper and let dry naturally at room temperature.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

PARIS — Gen. Charles de Gaulle is prepared to tell Secretary of State Dulles when the two meet July 5 in Paris that France will enter into a trade pact with Red China.

Sources close to the French Premier-strongman revealed to this writer that de Gaulle feels this agreement will be in meter with his determination to keep France as free as possible from hitherto heavy American influence and yet not be a full step toward recognition of Mao Tse-Tung's Stalinistic regime.

It will not mean that France, whose largest single voting bloc is Communist, is going any further to the Left. Rather, it was explained, de Gaulle proposes to show his independence in foreign affairs in several ways that do not compromise his pro-Western position. Modest trade relations with Red China will therefore be encouraged despite the probability that Dulles will frown. It is not likely, however, that the U.S. Secretary of State will threaten another "agonizing reappraisal" of Franco-American relations.

De Gaulle was pictured here as depending on a sharp alteration of France's recent consumption of humble pie in international affairs as a means of strengthening his domestic position. The French people have longed for a world figure since Briand and Clemenceau but the hopelessly divided National Assembly has made the creation of such a man impossible.

For five months and three weeks more at least, de Gaulle has the legal muscles of a strongman. But he must exhibit that strength to his people before they will truly believe, and what better way could he find than to tell the United States that, thanks just the same, France will write her own foreign policies.

De Gaulle's show of independence has begun at home of course. He has forced the unconditional surrender, for a period at least, of the crackpot Assembly that upset 24 governments since the end of World War Two. He has put the bitter pill of submission to his will on the tongue of the tough French colonials in Algeria and their Fascist-minded followers in France proper.

His next job in that case is to make them swallow the pill. These are people who believe that France should have only one political party, now called the "Committee of Public Safety," with de Gaulle as its head as a kind of French Fuehrer. De Gaulle says to hell with that business, disband your 400 agencies of that committee and go back to work.

The committees have been slow in liquidating their hastily formed cadres. De Gaulle has a plan for splitting the hard nuclei. On July 2 he flies to Algiers again for a quick swing around the troubled territory and eye-level talks with the French officers who have allied themselves with the rabble and the sincere insurrectionists there.

De Gaulle takes the traditionally dim view of the professional military man toward all politicking. He is certain he can bring the likes of Generals Salan and Massu back to such St. Cyr orthodoxy.

If those two wash their hands clean of the committees their presence and support originally encouraged, de Gaulle should make quick work of the unarmed political elements. As if to prove he wants no nonsense from the latter, he will take Guy Mollet, head of the Socialist Party, with him to Algeria. Mollet now is one of de Gaulle's chief ministers though the Socialist Party fought his demand for extraordinary powers almost as vigorously as the Communists did.

Mr. Dulles and other Western leaders have some surprises coming to them when they begin mixing with Frere de Gaulle.

Knows Javelin Men

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Fred Memmelaar, star center on last year's freshman football team at the University of Wyoming, was watching the Denver-Wyoming track meet.

Track Coach John Melton, in a shrewd piece of on-the-spot recruiting, asked Memmelaar if he'd like to throw the javelin.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

PARIS — Gen. Charles de Gaulle is prepared to tell Secretary of State Dulles when the two meet July 5 in Paris that France will enter into a trade pact with Red China.

Sources close to the French Premier-strongman revealed to this writer that de Gaulle feels this agreement will be in meter with his determination to keep France as free as possible from hitherto heavy American influence and yet not be a full step toward recognition of Mao Tse-Tung's Stalinistic regime.

It will not mean that France, whose largest single voting bloc is Communist, is going any further to the Left. Rather, it was explained, de Gaulle proposes to show his independence in foreign affairs in several ways that do not compromise his pro-Western position. Modest trade relations with Red China will therefore be encouraged despite the probability that Dulles will frown. It is not likely, however, that the U.S. Secretary of State will threaten another "agonizing reappraisal" of Franco-American relations.

De Gaulle was pictured here as depending on a sharp alteration of France's recent consumption of humble pie in international affairs as a means of strengthening his domestic position. The French people have longed for a world figure since Briand and Clemenceau but the hopelessly divided National Assembly has made the creation of such a man impossible.

For five months and three weeks more at least, de Gaulle has the legal muscles of a strongman. But he must exhibit that strength to his people before they will truly believe, and what better way could he find than to tell the United States that, thanks just the same, France will write her own foreign policies.

De Gaulle's show of independence has begun at home of course. He has forced the unconditional surrender, for a period at least, of the crackpot Assembly that upset 24 governments since the end of World War Two. He has put the bitter pill of submission to his will on the tongue of the tough French colonials in Algeria and their Fascist-minded followers in France proper.

His next job in that case is to make them swallow the pill. These are people who believe that France should have only one political party, now called the "Committee of Public Safety," with de Gaulle as its head as a kind of French Fuehrer. De Gaulle says to hell with that business, disband your 400 agencies of that committee and go back to work.

The committees have been slow in liquidating their hastily formed cadres. De Gaulle has a plan for splitting the hard nuclei. On July 2 he flies to Algiers again for a quick swing around the troubled territory and eye-level talks with the French officers who have allied themselves with the rabble and the sincere insurrectionists there.

De Gaulle takes the traditionally dim view of the professional military man toward all politicking. He is certain he can bring the likes of Generals Salan and Massu back to such St. Cyr orthodoxy.

If those two wash their hands clean of the committees their presence and support originally encouraged, de Gaulle should make quick work of the unarmed political elements. As if to prove he wants no nonsense from the latter, he will take Guy Mollet, head of the Socialist Party, with him to Algeria. Mollet now is one of de Gaulle's chief ministers though the Socialist Party fought his demand for extraordinary powers almost as vigorously as the Communists did.

Mr. Dulles and other Western leaders have some surprises coming to them when they begin mixing with Frere de Gaulle.

Knows Javelin Men

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Fred Memmelaar, star center on last year's freshman football team at the University of Wyoming, was watching the Denver-Wyoming track meet.

Track Coach John Melton, in a shrewd piece of on-the-spot recruiting, asked Memmelaar if he'd like to throw the javelin.

Ridgeley Takes Action On Licenses

An ordinance establishing business licenses has passed its first reading in the Ridgeley town council.

The second reading is scheduled for Monday, June 30, and the third and final one for Thursday, Jul. 3. The ordinance is posted in the office of Mayor Charles H. Fryer for inspection.

Composed of two articles, the first deals with the license for operation of stores and has 14 sections. Article Two includes licenses on businesses, activities, trades and employments. It consists of 28 separate sections.

Other sections deal with store operations without a license, penalties, exemptions, method of application, filing fees, expiration and renewals, enforcement of collection and criminal liability for violations.

A change has been made in licenses for hawkers and peddlers as defined in Article Two, Section Eight. Covered by Article Two are such varied establishments as circuses, carnivals, selling or offering of trading stamps, fortune telling, junk dealers, pawnbrokers, itinerant vendors, theatres and public shows, collection agencies, employment agent, bowling alleys, billiard, pool or bagatelle tables, insurance, wholesale and retail, mill and products, general stores and retail stores through the first 18 sections.

Sections 19 through 23 deal with the applicants for and the issuance of licenses covering the evidence of licenses, conditions precedent to doing business, time for which license is granted, exhibition of license and method of collection.

Sections 24 and 25 list penalties for transactions without license and criminal liability. Section 26 repeals all ordinances or parts of ordinances not consistent with the provisions of the present one as being repealed.

The effective date of the ordinance, as listed in Section 28, the concluding paragraph, is July 1, two days before the final reading.

Dick Says Orr 'Jumped Gun' In Statement

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday criticized County Commissioner James Orr for what he termed "jumping the gun."

Magistrate Dick said Orr's public statement Tuesday concerning the closing of the Trial Magistrates Court this weekend was "a little premature."

This past Tuesday, Commissioner Orr at a regular meeting of the County Commissioners inquired if the magistrates have the authority to close their offices while they are attending a State Association of Magistrates meeting in Ocean City.

Orr said the offices should remain open with the various clerks on duty to handle the normal business affairs of these offices. He said the general public should be given this service.

Magistrate Dick said yesterday that five weeks ago he contacted Jack Mullan, substitute trial magistrate, concerning the matter. This past Monday, Dick said, Mullan informed him that he was not planning to attend the state conference and would be available to handle the court duties.

Magistrate Dick said the action is proven by the fact that no notices were posted on the court doors. In the past notices have been posted concerning the court's closing as much as a week in advance.

Magistrate Dick said that as far as the office personnel is concerned the magistrates do not have any authority over these men since they come under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

Dick stated that he and Donald W. Mason, former trial magistrate, have appeared before the county commissioners in the past concerning some members of the office personnel, but no action has been taken.

Dick said: "It seems that Mr. Orr's concern over the Trial Magistrate's Court has developed only in the past two weeks, and if the court is given the help it needs it will function properly."

This past Tuesday, Commissioner Orr at a regular meeting of the County Commissioners inquired if the magistrates have the authority to close their offices while they are attending a State Association of Magistrates meeting in Ocean City.

Orr said the offices should remain open with the various clerks on duty to handle the normal business affairs of these offices. He said the general public should be given this service.

Magistrate Dick said yesterday that five weeks ago he contacted Jack Mullan, substitute trial magistrate, concerning the matter. This past Monday, Dick said, Mullan informed him that he was not planning to attend the state conference and would be available to handle the court duties.

Magistrate Dick said the action is proven by the fact that no notices were posted on the court doors. In the past notices have been posted concerning the court's closing as much as a week in advance.

Magistrate Dick said that as far as the office personnel is concerned the magistrates do not have any authority over these men since they come under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

Dick stated that he and Donald W. Mason, former trial magistrate, have appeared before the county commissioners in the past concerning some members of the office personnel, but no action has been taken.

Dick said: "It seems that Mr. Orr's concern over the Trial Magistrate's Court has developed only in the past two weeks, and if the court is given the help it needs it will function properly."

Woman Fined On Charge Of Slow Driving

Being careful on the highway is an excellent idea, just as long as you're not too careful.

A Frostburg woman yesterday found out in Trial Magistrate Court that being too careful while driving a car may lead to a lot of headaches.

The woman was driving the family auto on Martin's Mountain two Sundays ago when a State Trooper pulled up behind her. She immediately slowed down and started to be extra careful since she was driving on a beginner's permit.

The trooper in court yesterday testified they were traveling in a 50 mile per hour zone, and that the lady was operating between 20 and 25 miles an hour.

Within a short time traffic started to "back up" and before long some 30 cars were traveling bumper-to-bumper. The trooper said he was unable to get around the vehicle because of oncoming traffic.

Another state trooper, 25 cars behind the lead vehicle, started to radio to the first trooper concerning the tie-up. The second trooper said the cars were weaving in and out of traffic trying to pass, but being blocked by oncoming traffic.

After traveling some distance the first trooper reached a spot where he was able to pass and wave the woman off the road. She was charged with traveling too slow and the hearing was set for yesterday.

The woman informed Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick that she was driving only for a short time, and when she noticed the State Police car, she just wanted to be "extra careful."

Magistrate Dick found the woman guilty, fined her $1 and then suspended the fine.

The British Personality

LONDON

One of the unexpected successes of British television over the past six months has been Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Horrocks who is a triumph of British personality. Gen. Horrocks, a very good fighting man who is now retired, simply faces a camera and talks about battles he has been in. By sheer knowledge and enthusiasm he makes the last war come alive again.

I can't believe the British public is that enamored of old battles. I think they just like Gen. Horrocks. In this case, he is a throwback to the early days of television when performers had to get along on enthusiasm and very little else. Without much except a bit of film now and then, the viewer finds himself wholly caught up in the ideas.

I think the British are unwise not to exploit British personality more than they do. One of the most fascinating things I have seen on television here was a British vicar, who might have stepped right out of Charles Dickens, explaining with overpowering self-confidence exactly how a person who is possessed by demons should go about getting rid of them. In case any of you are possessed by demons (and I'm beginning to wonder if that isn't what's been the matter with me all these years), call your bishop. No, don't go near your psychiatrist. He couldn't help a bit. Demons are quite a different problem.

TV has always been a personality medium and the British are loaded with the stuff. One of their long-standing TV stars is Gilbert Harding, who is not everyone's dish of tea. Harding is a prickly pear of a man who has his own variety program called "I Know What I Like," and what he likes is not necessarily what the great mass of people will like. Harding reminds me quite a bit of Monte Woolley or of the late Alexander Woollcott.

A program called "Tonight" on the BBC every night is in the BBC's own words a mixture of "sports, music, people, theater, argument" and it, too, bristles with ideas and ginger. The "Tonight" staff, for instance, devoted its program to Venice one night and, far from mooning around about the fairy-like qualities of Venice, the staff got quite sharp-tongued about the smells and the dirt.

These prickly qualities, I think, give British TV their own distinction and should be preserved. When Granada broadcast a program entitled "Homosexuality and the Law," probably the most outspoken airing of that problem ever put on the air, the chairman of the program said bluntly: "I have four people with me tonight who have very strong views, and who are going to discuss this subject absolutely frankly. If you don't like frankness on this subject, you had better switch off now."

Among other things, this program contained a filmed interview with a homosexual who spoke of his problem, his feelings and his life with great candor. Not that such sensational stuff is always good television but avoidance of it, I think, leads to grave omissions in the responsibility of the broadcaster.

Another Granada program was called "Thou Shalt Not Kill." It was about euthanasia and it opened with the words: "There are millions of people in this world and there is one thing certain about all of them. They are going to die. No one yet has found a way out of it. This program is about death and about the pain that may precede death. If you don't like thinking about those things, then you'd better switch off."

The reason I bring it all up is that we seem headed in exactly the opposite direction from these blunt words. Blandness is the hallmark of our most successful programs. You can hardly get blander than Perry Como short of falling asleep and you cannot imagine Mr. Como saying anything that would offend your grandmother.

Flintstone Girl Will Attend FHA Convention

Maryland will be well represented at the national convention of Future Homemakers of America in Kansas City, Mo., July 7 to 11, according to Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the Allegany County public schools.

Lorraine Smith of Flintstone, a 1959 senior of Flintstone High School, will be one of the Maryland delegates. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith, RFD 2, Flintstone, Miss Smith is state FHA reporter.

A girl from the Eastern Shore who has Cumberland relatives will be a candidate for national FHA president at the Kansas City convention. She is Joanna Cato of Salisbury, who will be a senior next school year at Wicomico High School. She is the current state fifth vice-president.

Miss Cato is a cousin of Mrs. James Weber, this city, and visits here each summer. She's expected here after the Kansas City convention. Mrs. Weber formerly taught home economics at Mt. Savage High School.

"Teens With a Purpose" is the convention theme for the 450 FHA girls from 47 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico who will attend the convention. They will represent 500,000 youth who are members of this high school organization for pupils studying homemaking education.

At meetings planned and carried on by the teen-agers themselves, the Future Homemakers of America will clearly demonstrate that they are "Teens With a Purpose," working toward an over-all goal of helping individuals to improve personal, family and community living.

Thorugh general sessions and group discussion work they will focus their attention on the value of an education, career opportunities in home economics, becoming better citizens, improving their human relations and broadening spiritual values.

Among outstanding educators scheduled to work with the group are Hubert Wheeler, Missouri commissioner of education, who will make the opening address, and Dr. Charles Koerble, dean of faculty, Northwest Missouri State College, Maryville, Mo., who will discuss "Why An Education?" Dr. Royden C. Braithwaite, director, College of Southern Utah, Cedar City, Utah, will stress ways to improve human relations in his talk, "You And Others."

Some 150 adult FHA advisers will accompany the students to Kansas City.

The peak strength of the armed forces of the United States in World War II was 12 million, 300 thousand.

Bloodhounds Added

HART, Mich. (AP)—The Oceana County Sheriff's Department has added two bloodhounds to track children.

"We can always eventually catch criminals," said Sheriff William O. Carr Monday, "but kids lost in the woods are a real problem.

Oceana County is a heavily forested area along the Lake Michigan shore.

Maryland will be well represented at the national convention of Future Homemakers of America in Kansas City, Mo., July 7 to 11, according to Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the Allegany County public schools.

Lorraine Smith of Flintstone, a 1959 senior of Flintstone High School, will be one of the Maryland delegates. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith, RFD 2, Flintstone, Miss Smith is state FHA reporter.

A girl from the Eastern Shore who has Cumberland relatives will be a candidate for national FHA president at the Kansas City convention. She is Joanna Cato of Salisbury, who will be a senior next school year at Wicomico High School. She is the current state fifth vice-president.

Miss Cato is a cousin of Mrs. James Weber, this city, and visits here each summer. She's expected here after the Kansas City convention. Mrs. Weber formerly taught home economics at Mt. Savage High School.

"Teens With a Purpose" is the convention theme for the 450 FHA girls from 47 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico who will attend the convention. They will represent 500,000 youth who are members of this high school organization for pupils studying homemaking education.

At meetings planned and carried on by the teen-agers themselves, the Future Homemakers of America will clearly demonstrate that they are "Teens With a Purpose," working toward an over-all goal of helping individuals to improve personal, family and community living.

Thorugh general sessions and group discussion work they will focus their attention on the value of an education, career opportunities in home economics, becoming better citizens, improving their human relations and broadening spiritual values.

Among outstanding educators scheduled to work with the group are Hubert Wheeler, Missouri commissioner of education, who will make the opening address, and Dr. Charles Koerble, dean of faculty, Northwest Missouri State College, Maryville, Mo., who will discuss "Why An Education?" Dr. Royden C. Braithwaite, director, College of Southern Utah, Cedar City, Utah, will stress ways to improve human relations in his talk, "You And Others."

Some 150 adult FHA advisers will accompany the students to Kansas City.

The peak strength of the armed forces of the United States in World War II was 12 million, 300 thousand.

Potomac River Quality Shows Improvement

Early sampling of the Potomac River downstream from Cumberland's sewage treatment plant indicates a noticeable improvement in the quality of the water.

Preliminary reports were presented on the testing by Julian G. Patrick, Luke, to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. Patrick is chairman of the industrial committee of the interstate commission.

Six new sampling stations were established in the Cumberland area by the commission this spring. They were needed due to the operation of the city's sewage treatment plant and the waste treatment plant at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The latter handles waste from the paper mill and within a year the installation of a plant to handle industrial wastes from the pulp mill end of the Luke plant will be in operation. This one under construction will also handle sanitary wastes from Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

Patrick's review of the samples from the new stations shows that pH readings of the water have risen to about neutral. The pH factor indicates the amount of akalinity or acidity of the liquid being tested.

The samples also show that the quantity of dissolved oxygen in the river has increased to about double the amount that was present before the treatment works went into effect.

The biochemical oxygen demand figure shows a corresponding decrease, the commission noted. This figure indicates the amount of organic matter, such as industrial wastes and sewage in the water that consumes oxygen.

The suspended solids have been reduced by about 90 per cent and the total solids have been decreased by 85 per cent.

The commission stated that "This is very good news indeed." A complete analysis of current conditions on the North Branch will be published before the end of the summer, the river board stated.

When the sewage treatment plant for the Luke mill and Tritowns is completed, Keyser will be the only municipality upstream from Hancock that does not have a sewage plant on the North Branch.

How To Train Enough Doctors?

National Fund for Medical Education, which is trying to raise money for medical schools, recently tackled the question of "How many doctors are enough?"

The fund pointed out that today's doctor can serve more patients than the doctor of a generation ago. He can cover more territory and his office is accessible to people in a wider radius.

More people see the doctor in his office, instead of having him come to their homes.

Also, drugs and other therapeutic aids undreamed of 20—or even 10—years ago are great time-savers for the doctor. A case of pneumonia, for example, once required 11 hours of a doctor's attention. Now it requires about an hour and a half, the fund says.

But there is another side to it, says the fund. There is more for the doctor to do. People see the doctor more frequently; regular checkups are common; people do not wait as long as they once did before calling the doctor when pain strikes.

Also, doctors are employed today in industrial plants, schools, health departments and many other places where formerly medical attention was not available.

But the overriding factor is that population is increasing rapidly. New medical schools in operation or in prospect can bring the rate of increase of doctors up to 3,500 a year. But that is only two-thirds of the need if by 1975 even the present ratio of one doctor to every 370 persons is to be maintained.

Those who have found their doctor so busy he scarcely has time for them now have informed backing for their impression that there aren't enough doctors. Providing the tremendous amount of money needed for new facilities to right the situation is the problem.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

I Don't Know Suzy

Amid all our troubles — de Gaulle takes France, Sherman Adams takes a vicuna coat, 800,000 automobiles unsold, too much gold at Fort Knox earmarked—just to mention a few—it seems important too to know something about a gal named Suzy.

Personally, being a peaceful, quiet citizen, the name of Suzy Parker never before made any impression upon me. Now I discover that she is a sister to Dorian Leigh who bore somebody called Portago a child out of wedlock. So, what am I to do? Shout "Three cheers and a tiger!" Also I am told that this Suzy gal insists on living her own life which is about all that anybody can do, as nature has made us that way. I read about Suzy for the sociological implications of a gal who insists on living her own life.

I was thinking of this Suzy the other day when I attended a wedding of a young lady I know and it was a very pretty wedding and we all had a breakfast which unfortunately I could only look at, for my sins. Now, this wedding was simple and quiet and peaceful as, most likely, will be the lives of the people there because that is the way they are. They do not go in for divorce, which is always a symbol of a psychological defeat. They regard marriage not merely as a matter of sex relations but to establish and maintain a family. And if there are differences, as there always are among human beings, the differences are resolved in favor of the family which is a true acceptance of the doctrine that charity, which comes from the Latin word for love, begins at home.

Of course, the new rich are always with us and are always a disturbing element in any society because usually they do not know what to do with their money and verily believe that the mere spending of money attracts favorable attention. Thus, between World War I and World War II, the ancient virtues of the Japanese were dissipated by the shameless conduct of the narikin, just as in our own country during the same period, the war profiteers acted as though betrayal of their country should be justly rewarded.

The peep-hole columnists in the United States have, in recent years, stimulated this wickedness by giving undue and I sometimes feel indecent notice to trivial people whose only virtue is that they have the price to pay a waiter and whose newsworthiness depends upon the degree of the absurdity of their private conduct.

Such people often are envious of those who make the peep-hole columns and wonder why they do not until they discover that an outrageous divorce, a shameless pursuit of sex in public, brawling in crowded places, and similar marks of guttersnipe conduct, often unnatural with them, attract attention. They even hire press agents to give them bad names, so that they will be noticed.

If people want to live that way, that is really their own affair, but when they break up homes, destroy families, make children derelict, they are involving the entire community and then it is everybody's business.

It is true that many human beings do not know how to handle money. They are at their best, as human beings, during their early years of struggle, when they are building their careers. Many such people, when they can actually buy Russian sables and Dior dresses and trinkets from the most expensive shops, have forgotten where they started and how human beings really behave. The miseries they bring upon themselves are theirs alone and nobody can sympathize with them too much because when they gave up God for dollars, they got nothing for their effort.

These people are the froth of our society and contribute little to its growth, but they do set bad examples for the young and they do form a disturbing element in the communities where they exhibit themselves. They stimulate envy. They excite distaste. As the nouveaux riches are universal, in some countries they have produced mass outbreaks of violence. In the United States, so far, they are only objects of good-natured ridicule. In an era when high taxes are everyone's problem, the sudden-rich do things which, to use Sherman Adams' good, old New England word, are not prudent.

Things Are Stirring Under There Again

Lebanese Strife Like A Reactor Out Of Hand

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON AIRPORT

An airport between planes, shortly after dawn, is not a cheerful place. In fact this reporter is privately convinced that his own eternal punishment will take the form of eternal condemnation to a flight-standby list, probably a Saudi Arabian flight-standby list.

Just being in airports influences the judgment, and these words are undeniably written in London Airport, with the memory of the armed convoy that took the passengers to the plane in Beirut still clearly and recently in mind. All the same, it seems about time to say, in plain words, that American foreign policy is on the naked brink of a really major disaster.

Judging by the very small quantity of news that reaches Beirut, the American public has been largely kept in ignorance of the acute dangers of the Lebanese crisis. Yet the situation has reached a stage which virtually assures a disaster of some sort. There is still a little room for choice between different kinds of disaster; but there is hardly a single ray of hope.

The most likely kind of disaster is a landing of American Marines and British paratroopers in Lebanon, by invitation of the government of President Chamoun, to protect Lebanese independence from the attack that has been so ably organized by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Make no mistake about it; this prospect of an Anglo-American landing in Lebanon is no reporter's nightmare, but a hard, immediate possibility. When the fighting in Lebanon started, the British and American governments solemnly promised the Lebanese government that they would land troops if requested to do so, providing certain conditions were met. These conditions —principally the prior Lebanese appeal to the U. N.—now have been met in full.

The Anglo-American commitment to the Lebanese government has not been altered or diluted in any way, either, by the U. N. intervention in the Lebanese fighting. Immediately after the U. N. Security Council voted to send observers, the U. S. Ambassador to Beirut, Robert McClintock, gave the most specific renewed assurances to President Chamoun. The U. N. resolution, he declared, in no way affected the validity of the Anglo-American commitment. The troops were still ready to land when requested, he said.

A U. N. solution and a local Lebanese solution of the crisis in Lebanon are equally difficult to imagine. Yet President Chamoun is determined not to surrender. Hence it is very easy to imagine the moment when President Chamoun will ask Washington and London to land the Marines and paratroopers now in readiness in the Mediterranean.

It is reasonable to say that such a landing will be a disaster, mainly because Gamal Abdel Nasser has skillfully given his attack on Lebanese independence the outward semblance of a civil war. There will be local support for a landing in Lebanon, but there is no use pretending there will be support by any heavy majority of the people. There is no use pretending, either, that this kind of Anglo-American use of force will be anything but a nasty business, which may result in a long entanglement.

The question remains whether this kind of disaster is or is not preferable to the other kind of disaster which also threatens in Lebanon. The American and British representatives on the spot, with their attention concentrated on the Lebanese scene, mainly see the arguments against a landing. They have labored, perhaps too successfully, to delay the Lebanese government's call for a landing. They have been allowed to do this, no doubt, because of the goose-fleshy and Micawberish state of mind of the Washington and London policy-makers.

But the Washington and London policy-makers gave their original commitment to President Chamoun because they thought a military landing in Lebanon would be much less disastrous than the loss of all the Middle East. Total, final Western defeat throughout the Middle East is the other disaster which now threatens. That is what will almost surely happen if Gamal Abdel Nasser is allowed to gain another striking victory in little Lebanon, with or without the help of U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold.

In short, this is a situation like the situation that confronts the crew tending an atomic reactor, when the reactor begins to get out of hand. If immediately control measures are taken, a lot of people will get badly burned. But if the chain reaction is allowed to continue, the whole show will blow up. That is what we have come to in the Middle East, nineteen months after Suez.

Dig that crazy island of Corsica throwing its weight around like a tied calf in a tornado.

For a hundred years it went along as quietly as a librarian on a ladder.

Now it contributes its iota of ferment by tossing a political wing-ding for de Gaulle. It gave us that other dictator Napoleon who traded it for a much smaller island.

Another hero was Pascal Paoli who followed Teddy Neuhoff, the first quarry of Skip Tracers, who kicked off in a London debt prison.

Ted left the island to his creditors in fee simple and unto all the inhabitants thereof. Even George the Third kinged it up for two years.

What the Corsicans wanted was non-resident representation with delinquent taxes. That's tonic to them.

If Corsica wants de Gaulle to campaign there it will have to put in a nice boulevard.

Care And Feeding Of Children In Summer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Modern summer living has produced a new syndrome among children who are spending too much time watching television. According to Dr. Floyd A. Norman and Dr. Edward L. Platt of Dallas, these youngsters look pale and flabby and complain of weariness.

The answer is that they sit in an air conditioned house all day, instead of playing outside. In addition they nibble on snacks, which add poundage but not strength.

Northerners can learn a lesson on feeding children from physicians who practice in areas where the weather is hot much of the time. Youngsters do not mind the heat and should be encouraged to play out of doors.

They use good sense in selecting foods that help keep them cool. They not only reduce their caloric intake, which affects weight but not height, but prefer cold foods and liquids. It may be necessary for the parents to limit the intake of peanut butter, ice cream, and other high caloric delicacies. The same applies to snacks between meals, which spoil the appetite and disturb the development of good mealtime habits and attitudes.

The Dallas pediatricians found that active children need considerable fluids in summer. Cool but not cold drinks are recommended. Water is the best thirst quencher but many children prefer milk and pop.

The physicians also recommend that boys and girls who have been playing out of doors in the heat be given a short cooling off period before meals. This helps relax the tot and renews the desire to eat. Dinner should be served in the evening when the temperature is lower than in midday.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Mrs. E. writes: When my husband has an out of door job he eats, sleeps, and looks well. But after a few weeks on inside work he loses his vitality, dark circles form under his eyes, and his skin becomes pale. The doctor can find nothing wrong with him. Do some people require more fresh air and sunshine than others?

REPLY

Yes, and it's a pity these people can't have jobs that keep them out of doors most of the time. Why doesn't he take the initiative and find an outside job?

SURGICAL CORRECTION OF DEAFNESS

N. W. writes: I had fenestration in one ear and now the doctor wants to do a stapes in the other. Please describe the difference.

REPLY

Stapes manipulation is simpler; the affected bone is loosened so that it can vibrate again. Fenestration is more time consuming and calls for a new opening in the hearing apparatus. If stapes doesn't work, the fenestration technique can be done later. For this reason, many ear specialists make the same recommendation that your physician has.

SITE OF LESION

W. R. writes: What does a doctor mean when he says "you have hemorrhoids at 7 o'clock?"

REPLY

Physicians often use the face of a clock as a symbol to pinpoint a lesion in the eye, for example, or elsewhere in the body. The site of the three pairs of hemorrhoidal veins frequently is described as at 10, 2, or 5 o'clock or 5, 7, or 10 o'clock, depending upon the position of the patient.

CYSTS USUALLY BENIGN

Mrs. F. writes: Can a cyst become malignant?

REPLY

Yes. There are many varieties of cysts but only a few become malignant. Some ovarian cysts, for example, become cancerous but those that affect the oil secreting glands (sebaceous) rarely if ever become malignant.

LOWERED CHOLESTEROL

F. W. writes: If the blood cholesterol level has been reduced, will the accumulated plaques in the arteries disappear?

REPLY

This never has been determined. Some attempts to reverse the atherosclerotic process in laboratory animals have been successful.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An Army draftee was observed by his lieutenant methodically depositing dimes in a PX soft drink machine. As each bottle was delivered, the recruit carefully lined it up on the table and put in another dime. When the lineup had reached a total of 14 bottles, the lieutenant figured the time had come to interfere.

"Don't you think that will hold you for the time being?" he inquired.

"What?" protested the draftee. "You want I should quit right in the middle of a winning streak?"

All day long Mr. Shaugnessy sat fishing from the end of the recreation pier, and all day long a stranger sat behind him, watching intently. Finally Mr. Shaugnessy turned and asked with sarcastic politeness, "Did it ever occur to you to do some fishing of your own?"

"Never," admitted the kibitzer cheerfully. "I haven't the patience for it."

Hagerty Is Best Press Secretary, But Not Always Perfectly Accurate

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This column has sometimes referred to James C. Hagerty as the most efficient press relations officer ever to serve in the White House. I stand by that statement and hope it's one that Jim will not deny. Hagerty is the man who first persuaded Ike that he could and should hold press conferences when the newly elected President almost trembled at the idea of meeting with the press. Jim is so efficient that at the San Francisco GOP convention he did everything for newsmen except tuck them in bed every night.

Efficiently, however, is not to be confused with accuracy. Sometimes it best serves Jim's boss for him to be inaccurate. However, people should not throw stones who live in glass houses, and since Hagerty recently charged me with 10 errors in reporting on the Goldfine vicuna gift to Ike, here are 11 of Jim's denials which either turned out not to be denials or else fuzzed up the truth:

ADAMS' VICUNA COAT—On Friday, June 13, Hagerty was queried by the press re the reported Goldfine gift of a coat to Adams. He consulted Adams, but did not comment. On that day he learned for the first time that Ike also got a vicuna.

IKE'S VICUNA — By Monday, June 16, it was finally confirmed that Adams had received a coat, and on that day Hagerty was asked whether anyone else in the White House had received a coat. "I can speak only for myself," he replied. "My answer is 'no.'" He was then asked by the correspondent of the Manchester, N. H., Union Leader if Goldfine had not offered some suits to the President himself. "I have no knowledge of that," Hagerty replied. Yet on the preceding Friday, Hagerty had learned that Ike had accepted a coat from Goldfine, or at least the material for it.

ADAMS' MATS — In the course of explaining that Ike had given his vicuna cloth to a friend whose name he couldn't remember, Hagerty said: "He (Pearson) says Adams received several rugs. That is also a lie." Later that same day Adams testified that he had received what he called "mats."

IKE'S HEART CONDITION — Jim vigorously denied, August 4, 1953, this column's report that the President had a heart condition. Subsequent events speak for themselves.

BIKINI H-BOMB TEST — Hagerty blasted me publicly, April 1, 1954, for allegedly breaking the release on the results of H-bomb tests at Bikini. To have the White House charge a newspaperman with breaking a confidential release is very serious. A newspaperman must keep his confidences. To be so charged by the White House could ruin him with editors. Hagerty telephoned me later to say he was wrong and apologized. He did not make his apology public.

IKE'S DENVER ILLNESS — On September 24, 1955, the White House announced that the President had suffered a "slight digestive upset," and stuck to this story until after noon. Later it was officially admitted that "the first symptom" of a heart attack was known as early as 2:45 a. m.

IKE'S ILEITIS ATTACK — On June 14, 1956, after the President went to the hospital with Ileitis, Hagerty was asked why this stomach condition wasn't announced at the time of his "head-to-toe" examination. He blandly replied, "It didn't show up." Yet the doctors explained they were able to operate in a hurry because they knew of this previous condition.

CHICAGO DEFENDER DENIAL — Hagerty publicly denied a column, April 27, 1955, that he had bawled out Ethel Payne of Chicago Defender for doing election campaign work for the CIO-PAC at the same time she held credentials as a member of the White House correspondents — which he had every right to do. Later he called me and apologized privately. He never apologized publicly.

CHARLEY WILLIS' RESIGNATION — On January 12, 1955, after this column reported that Charley Willis would soon leave the White House, Hagerty issued a categoric denial. On June 14, Willis resigned.

GOLF AT WHITE SULPHUR—When the President entertained the President of Mexico and the Premier of Canada at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on March 26, 27, 1956, Hagerty emphatically denied that Ike had spent more time golfing than he had conferring with the two heads of state. Actual clocking of the President's time showed he spent three and a half hours conferring with the two dignitaries, five hours on the golf course.

KHRUSHCHEV'S TELECAST—Hagerty told the press on June 3, 1957, that Ike had not seen the Khrushchev telecast on CBS from Moscow, but was aware of it. On June 5, the President told his press conference: "All I have seen was what you saw on television." He then commented at length on what Khrushchev said, regarding which Hagerty had just said: "It does not need any comment."

This is not by way of saying that Jim doesn't do a good job. He does an excellent job and under difficult circumstances. But it should also be remembered that what he says is not necessarily the gospel truth.

Under The Dome

Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri, former president of the St. Louis chapter of Big Brothers and chosen "Big Brother of The Year 1955," has reported a bill unanimously out of the Senate Judiciary Committee granting a federal charter to the "Big Brothers of America." The organization gives advice and counsel to fatherless boys or boys in trouble. . . . Secretary of Agriculture Benson didn't have to stage a fake pose when photographers shot him drinking milk from the automatic buffet of the Vendo Company at the National Press Club. Benson is a strict teetotaller, always drinks milk. The Vendo Company has perfected such neat gadgets for selling soft drinks and hot food that RCA, Dodge and American Motors have given up their cafeterias in favor of food machines.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Big sports . . .

We sat at table B-11 in the clubhouse section. Monmouth Park is a beautiful track; a big green and white Easter egg on the Jersey Coast. The fancy hedges in the infield were boxed in odd shapes. Around the lake, the swans sat staring at the special trains pulling into the sidings. Dark men led beautiful horses along the loam of the track, the nags' heads nodding with each step.

Ginny had never been to a track. Her baby isn't expected until August, but she looks big in a white skirt and a blue blouse which hangs like a spinnaker. To the world, she is Mrs. Charles Frechette; to me, she is my little girl, my first girl, the one who once stood on a bathroom seat while I shaved and sang The Last Roundup. She wept and I could never figure whether it was the lyrics or the singing.

Today, she looked healthy and happy and in love, things which make all girls beautiful. Jerry the headwaiter arranged for the captain to ask the waiter to bring some lunch. We ate and studied the Morning Telegraph and the program. Ginny knows nothing about racing, but she loves horses. The sight of a jet filly lifting dainty feet and curving her neck toward the side can bring a large lump to my daughter's throat.

"I like Belfaster in the first," she said.

"Who's that?" I said.

"A horse," she said, pointing to his name. "What else, daddy?"

"According to the board," I said pontifically, "Uncle Ev is the favorite."

"According to Charlie, nobody wins playing a favorite."

"Who's Charlie?" I growled.

"My husband."

"Oh," I said. "At the age of 21, he's a horse expert."

"I'm playing Belfaster to come in next to Uncle Ev. What do you call it when they come in second?"

"Place."

"And third is—"

"Show."

"Where is the man where I bet the money?"

I took her up to the big lobby. She doled out her little two dollars as though she were paying the rent. "This," I said, "is the best way I know to be cured of racing fever before you get it. I never had it. Your mother never had it. Your Grandpa Dunning had it so bad that pictures of Zev and Man O'War and Twenty Grand and Papyrus hung in the hall and the bedroom.

Belfaster came in second. Ginny tried to suppress a smile as she collected $12.40. In the next race she played a poor horse named Docteur to come in third. That's how he arrived. She played Arrowette and he won. Joyful Memories lost. So did Tehran Bey. On-the-Ready wasn't.

In the seventh, Nickel Boy and Martin's Gold were the favorites. "I'm playing Sky Light," she said. I shook my head. "I've got to play him," she said. "His mother was Miss Jim and his father was Sir Jim James."

"That's what I like," I said sarcastically. "A good hunch player."

"How," she asked sweetly, "are you doing?"

"Don't get fresh," I said. "I'm still your father."

Sky Light came down the stretch in pouring rain, his gray ears flattened against his head, his hooves tossing mud at the field, and he won and paid $24.20 for each $2.

I tore up my tickets and tossed them on the floor. My Ginny looked at me and said: "Would you cash these for me?" I did. My knees creaked all the way to the windows. She won a total of $50 that day.

We drove back to her new house on Rose Street in Lincroft, N. J. It was still drizzling. In the big picture window was a lamp, held aloft by a proud rooster. Below, two noses were pressed against the window. One was Flirt, her freckle-faced Cocker Spaniel. The other was Kelly, her black German Shepherd. You couldn't see the wagging hind ends. Just the noses and the eager, unblinking eyes.

"Thanks for taking me, Dad," my girl said. "You're welcome to stop for dinner, but we're only having fishcakes."

Big sports . . .

How To Train Enough Doctors?

National Fund for Medical Education, which is trying to raise money for medical schools, recently tackled the question of "How many doctors are enough?"

The fund pointed out that today's doctor can serve more patients than the doctor of a generation ago. He can cover more territory and his office is accessible to people in a wider radius.

More people see the doctor in his office, instead of having him come to their homes.

Also, drugs and other therapeutic aids undreamed of 20—or even 10—years ago are great time-savers for the doctor. A case of pneumonia, for example, once required 11 hours of a doctor's attention. Now it requires about an hour and a half, the fund says.

But there is another side to it, says the fund. There is more for the doctor to do. People see the doctor more frequently; regular checkups are common; people do not wait as long as they once did before calling the doctor when pain strikes.

Also, doctors are employed today in industrial plants, schools, health departments and many other places where formerly medical attention was not available.

But the overriding factor is that population is increasing rapidly. New medical schools in operation or in prospect can bring the rate of increase of doctors up to 3,500 a year. But that is only two-thirds of the need if by 1975 even the present ratio of one doctor to every 370 persons is to be maintained.

Those who have found their doctor so busy he scarcely has time for them now have informed backing for their impression that there aren't enough doctors. Providing the tremendous amount of money needed for new facilities to right the situation is the problem.

I Don't Know Suzy

Amid all our troubles — de Gaulle takes France, Sherman Adams takes a vicuna coat, 800,000 automobiles unsold, too much gold at Fort Knox earmarked—just to mention a few—it seems important too to know something about a gal named Suzy.

Personally, being a peaceful, quiet citizen, the name of Suzy Parker never before made any impression upon me. Now I discover that she is a sister to Dorian Leigh who bore somebody called Portago a child out of wedlock. So, what am I to do? Shout "Three cheers and a tiger!" Also I am told that this Suzy gal insists on living her own life which is about all that anybody can do, as nature has made us that way. I read about Suzy for the sociological implications of a gal who insists on living her own life.

I was thinking of this Suzy the other day when I attended a wedding of a young lady I know and it was a very pretty wedding and we all had a breakfast which unfortunately I could only look at, for my sins. For a hundred years it went along as quietly as a librarian on a ladder.

Now it contributes its iota of ferment by tossing a political wing-ding for de Gaulle. It gave us that other dictator Napoleon who traded it for a much smaller island.

Another hero was Pascal Paoli who followed Teddy Neuhoff, the first quarry of Skip Tracers, who kicked off in a London debt prison.

Ted left the island to his creditors in fee simple and unto all the inhabitants thereof. Even George the Third kinged it up for two years.

What the Corsicans wanted was non-resident representation with delinquent taxes. That's tonic to them.

If Corsica wants de Gaulle to campaign there it will have to put in a nice boulevard.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This column has sometimes referred to James C. Hagerty as the most efficient press relations officer ever to serve in the White House. I stand by that statement and hope it's one that Jim will not deny. Hagerty is the man who first persuaded Ike that he could and should hold press conferences when the newly elected President almost trembled at the idea of meeting with the press. Jim is so efficient that at the San Francisco GOP convention he did everything for newsmen except tuck them in bed every night.

Efficiently, however, is not to be confused with accuracy. Sometimes it best serves Jim's boss for him to be inaccurate. However, people should not throw stones who live in glass houses, and since Hagerty recently charged me with 10 errors in reporting on the Goldfine vicuna gift to Ike, here are 11 of Jim's denials which either turned out not to be denials or else fuzzed up the truth:

ADAMS' VICUNA COAT—On Friday, June 13, Hagerty was queried by the press re the reported Goldfine gift of a coat to Adams. He consulted Adams, but did not comment. On that day he learned for the first time that Ike also got a vicuna.

IKE'S VICUNA — By Monday, June 16, it was finally confirmed that Adams had received a coat, and on that day Hagerty was asked whether anyone else in the White House had received a coat. "I can speak only for myself," he replied. "My answer is 'no.'" He was then asked by the correspondent of the Manchester, N. H., Union Leader if Goldfine had not offered some suits to the President himself. "I have no knowledge of that," Hagerty replied. Yet on the preceding Friday, Hagerty had learned that Ike had accepted a coat from Goldfine, or at least the material for it.

ADAMS' MATS — In the course of explaining that Ike had given his vicuna cloth to a friend whose name he couldn't remember, Hagerty said: "He (Pearson) says Adams received several rugs. That is also a lie." Later that same day Adams testified that he had received what he called "mats."

IKE'S HEART CONDITION — Jim vigorously denied, August 4, 1953, this column's report that the President had a heart condition. Subsequent events speak for themselves.

BIKINI H-BOMB TEST — Hagerty blasted me publicly, April 1, 1954, for allegedly breaking the release on the results of H-bomb tests at Bikini. To have the White House charge a newspaperman with breaking a confidential release is very serious. A newspaperman must keep his confidences. To be so charged by the White House could ruin him with editors. Hagerty telephoned me later to say he was wrong and apologized. He did not make his apology public.

IKE'S DENVER ILLNESS — On September 24, 1955, the White House announced that the President had suffered a "slight digestive upset," and stuck to this story until after noon. Later it was officially admitted that "the first symptom" of a heart attack was known as early as 2:45 a. m.

IKE'S ILEITIS ATTACK — On June 14, 1956, after the President went to the hospital with Ileitis, Hagerty was asked why this stomach condition wasn't announced at the time of his "head-to-toe" examination. He blandly replied, "It didn't show up." Yet the doctors explained they were able to operate in a hurry because they knew of this previous condition.

CHICAGO DEFENDER DENIAL — Hagerty publicly denied a column, April 27, 1955, that he had bawled out Ethel Payne of Chicago Defender for doing election campaign work for the CIO-PAC at the same time she held credentials as a member of the White House correspondents — which he had every right to do. Later he called me and apologized privately. He never apologized publicly.

CHARLEY WILLIS' RESIGNATION — On January 12, 1955, after this column reported that Charley Willis would soon leave the White House, Hagerty issued a categoric denial. On June 14, Willis resigned.

GOLF AT WHITE SULPHUR—When the President entertained the President of Mexico and the Premier of Canada at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on March 26, 27, 1956, Hagerty emphatically denied that Ike had spent more time golfing than he had conferring with the two heads of state. Actual clocking of the President's time showed he spent three and a half hours conferring with the two dignitaries, five hours on the golf course.

KHRUSHCHEV'S TELECAST—Hagerty told the press on June 3, 1957, that Ike had not seen the Khrushchev telecast on CBS from Moscow, but was aware of it. On June 5, the President told his press conference: "All I have seen was what you saw on television." He then commented at length on what Khrushchev said, regarding which Hagerty had just said: "It does not need any comment."

This is not by way of saying that Jim doesn't do a good job. He does an excellent job and under difficult circumstances. But it should also be remembered that what he says is not necessarily the gospel truth.

Under The Dome

Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri, former president of the St. Louis chapter of Big Brothers and chosen "Big Brother of The Year 1955," has reported a bill unanimously out of the Senate Judiciary Committee granting a federal charter to the "Big Brothers of America." The organization gives advice and counsel to fatherless boys or boys in trouble. . . . Secretary of Agriculture Benson didn't have to stage a fake pose when photographers shot him drinking milk from the automatic buffet of the Vendo Company at the National Press Club. Benson is a strict teetotaller, always drinks milk. The Vendo Company has perfected such neat gadgets for selling soft drinks and hot food that RCA, Dodge and American Motors have given up their cafeterias in favor of food machines.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

We sat at table B-11 in the clubhouse section. Monmouth Park is a beautiful track; a big green and white Easter egg on the Jersey Coast. The fancy hedges in the infield were boxed in odd shapes. Around the lake, the swans sat staring at the special trains pulling into the sidings. Dark men led beautiful horses along the loam of the track, the nags' heads nodding with each step.

Ginny had never been to a track. Her baby isn't expected until August, but she looks big in a white skirt and a blue blouse which hangs like a spinnaker. To the world, she is Mrs. Charles Frechette; to me, she is my little girl, my first girl, the one who once stood on a bathroom seat while I shaved and sang The Last Roundup. She wept and I could never figure whether it was the lyrics or the singing.

Today, she looked healthy and happy and in love, things which make all girls beautiful. Jerry the headwaiter arranged for the captain to ask the waiter to bring some lunch. We ate and studied the Morning Telegraph and the program. Ginny knows nothing about racing, but she loves horses. The sight of a jet filly lifting dainty feet and curving her neck toward the side can bring a large lump to my daughter's throat.

"I like Belfaster in the first," she said.

"Who's that?" I said.

"A horse," she said, pointing to his name. "What else, daddy?"

"According to the board," I said pontifically, "Uncle Ev is the favorite."

"Who's Charlie?" I growled.

"My husband."

"Oh," I said. "At the age of 21, he's a horse expert."

"I'm playing Belfaster to come in next to Uncle Ev. What do you call it when they come in second?"

"Place."

"Show."

"Where is the man where I bet the money?"

I took her up to the big lobby. She doled out her little two dollars as though she were paying the rent. "This," I said, "is the best way I know to be cured of racing fever before you get it. I never had it. Your mother never had it. Your Grandpa Dunning had it so bad that pictures of Zev and Man O'War and Twenty Grand and Papyrus hung in the hall and the bedroom.

Belfaster came in second. Ginny tried to suppress a smile as she collected $12.40. In the next race she played a poor horse named Docteur to come in third. That's how he arrived. She played Arrowette and he won. Joyful Memories lost. So did Tehran Bey. On-the-Ready wasn't.

In the seventh, Nickel Boy and Martin's Gold were the favorites. "I'm playing Sky Light," she said. I shook my head. "I've got to play him," she said. "His mother was Miss Jim and his father was Sir Jim James."

"That's what I like," I said sarcastically. "A good hunch player."

"How," she asked sweetly, "are you doing?"

"Don't get fresh," I said. "I'm still your father."

Sky Light came down the stretch in pouring rain, his gray ears flattened against his head, his hooves tossing mud at the field, and he won and paid $24.20 for each $2.

I tore up my tickets and tossed them on the floor. My Ginny looked at me and said: "Would you cash these for me?" I did. My knees creaked all the way to the windows. She won a total of $50 that day.

We drove back to her new house on Rose Street in Lincroft, N. J. It was still drizzling. In the big picture window was a lamp, held aloft by a proud rooster. Below, two noses were pressed against the window. One was Flirt, her freckle-faced Cocker Spaniel. The other was Kelly, her black German Shepherd. You couldn't see the wagging hind ends. Just the noses and the eager, unblinking eyes.

"Thanks for taking me, Dad," my girl said. "You're welcome to stop for dinner, but we're only having fishcakes."

Care And Feeding Of Children In Summer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Modern summer living has produced a new syndrome among children who are spending too much time watching television. According to Dr. Floyd A. Norman and Dr. Edward L. Platt of Dallas, these youngsters look pale and flabby and complain of weariness.

The answer is that they sit in an air conditioned house all day, instead of playing outside. In addition they nibble on snacks, which add poundage but not strength.

Northerners can learn a lesson on feeding children from physicians who practice in areas where the weather is hot much of the time. Youngsters do not mind the heat and should be encouraged to play out of doors.

They use good sense in selecting foods that help keep them cool. They not only reduce their caloric intake, which affects weight but not height, but prefer cold foods and liquids. It may be necessary for the parents to limit the intake of peanut butter, ice cream, and other high caloric delicacies. The same applies to snacks between meals, which spoil the appetite and disturb the development of good mealtime habits and attitudes.

The Dallas pediatricians found that active children need considerable fluids in summer. Cool but not cold drinks are recommended. Water is the best thirst quencher but many children prefer milk and pop.

The physicians also recommend that boys and girls who have been playing out of doors in the heat be given a short cooling off period before meals. This helps relax the tot and renews the desire to eat. Dinner should be served in the evening when the temperature is lower than in midday.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Mrs. E. writes: When my husband has an out of door job he eats, sleeps, and looks well. But after a few weeks on inside work he loses his vitality, dark circles form under his eyes, and his skin becomes pale. The doctor can find nothing wrong with him. Do some people require more fresh air and sunshine than others?

REPLY

Yes, and it's a pity these people can't have jobs that keep them out of doors most of the time. Why doesn't he take the initiative and find an outside job?

SURGICAL CORRECTION OF DEAFNESS

N. W. writes: I had fenestration in one ear and now the doctor wants to do a stapes in the other. Please describe the difference.

REPLY

Stapes manipulation is simpler; the affected bone is loosened so that it can vibrate again. Fenestration is more time consuming and calls for a new opening in the hearing apparatus. If stapes doesn't work, the fenestration technique can be done later. For this reason, many ear specialists make the same recommendation that your physician has.

SITE OF LESION

W. R. writes: What does a doctor mean when he says "you have hemorrhoids at 7 o'clock?"

REPLY

Physicians often use the face of a clock as a symbol to pinpoint a lesion in the eye, for example, or elsewhere in the body. The site of the three pairs of hemorrhoidal veins frequently is described as at 10, 2, or 5 o'clock or 5, 7, or 10 o'clock, depending upon the position of the patient.

CYSTS USUALLY BENIGN

Mrs. F. writes: Can a cyst become malignant?

REPLY

Yes. There are many varieties of cysts but only a few become malignant. Some ovarian cysts, for example, become cancerous but those that affect the oil secreting glands (sebaceous) rarely if ever become malignant.

LOWERED CHOLESTEROL

F. W. writes: If the blood cholesterol level has been reduced, will the accumulated plaques in the arteries disappear?

REPLY

This never has been determined. Some attempts to reverse the atherosclerotic process in laboratory animals have been successful.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An Army draftee was observed by his lieutenant methodically depositing dimes in a PX soft drink machine. As each bottle was delivered, the recruit carefully lined it up on the table and put in another dime. When the lineup had reached a total of 14 bottles, the lieutenant figured the time had come to interfere.

"Don't you think that will hold you for the time being?" he inquired.

"What?" protested the draftee. "You want I should quit right in the middle of a winning streak?"

All day long Mr. Shaugnessy sat fishing from the end of the recreation pier, and all day long a stranger sat behind him, watching intently. Finally Mr. Shaugnessy turned and asked with sarcastic politeness, "Did it ever occur to you to do some fishing of your own?"

Dial System Project Aired

FROSTBURG—The conversion of Frostburg's telephone system to dial operations was the subject of a talk given Wednesday to the Lions Club by Thomas W. Dwyer, district commercial manager of the telephone company.

It was explained that the latest dial equipment will be installed in the operation which will conclude with the actual conversion late in November.

Tieing in Frostburg's growth with the expanding telephone system, Dwyer pointed out that the last few years have seen greatly accelerated increases in requests for new and improved service. "We plan to offer the people of Frostburg every opportunity to avail themselves of the additional telephones, telephones in color and upgrades of service to one and two party lines which we will be able to provide with the conversion," Dwyer said. "We are calling all of our customers and will review their service requirements with them, so they may take advantage of the elimination of connection charges for additional service while our men are doing the conversion work," he continued.

The various work items associated with the conversion were reviewed. The new exchange name for Frostburg will be Overbrook 9. Frostburg customers will be able to dial Cumberland, Mt. Savage, Wellersburg and Lonaconing directly after the cutover, Dwyer explained.

The slogan "safety first" was originated in a steel plant some 46 years ago.

OES Chapter Dines Tonight

LONACONING — Martha Washington Chapter No. 10, Order of Eastern Star, will hold their dinner at the Presbyterian church at 6 p. m. today.

Dial System Project Aired

FROSTBURG—The conversion of Frostburg's telephone system to dial operations was the subject of a talk given Wednesday to the Lions Club by Thomas W. Dwyer, district commercial manager of the telephone company.

It was explained that the latest dial equipment will be installed in the operation which will conclude with the actual conversion late in November.

Tieing in Frostburg's growth with the expanding telephone system, Dwyer pointed out that the last few years have seen greatly accelerated increases in requests for new and improved service. "We plan to offer the people of Frostburg every opportunity to avail themselves of the additional telephones, telephones in color and upgrades of service to one and two party lines which we will be able to provide with the conversion," Dwyer said. "We are calling all of our customers and will review their service requirements with them, so they may take advantage of the elimination of connection charges for additional service while our men are doing the conversion work," he continued.

The various work items associated with the conversion were reviewed. The new exchange name for Frostburg will be Overbrook 9. Frostburg customers will be able to dial Cumberland, Mt. Savage, Wellersburg and Lonaconing directly after the cutover, Dwyer explained.

The slogan "safety first" was originated in a steel plant some 46 years ago.

Keyser Guard Wins Honor At Breckinridge

KEYSER—Battery C, local National Guard unit, has been designated as second best marching unit in the Governor's Day parade last Saturday at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., according to Major Wilson H. Morris, commanding officer of the 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion.

The review of the National Guard troops at the summer field training site, under command of Gen. William E. Blake, adjutant general of West Virginia, was in honor of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, commander in chief of the West Virginia National Guard.

The Keyser unit completed three days of range firing this week, according to Capt. Henry E. Wilt, commanding officer of Battery C, who said the primary weapon used was the 155-mm self-propelled howitzer.

Spanish-American War Vets Honored By Legion

WESTERNPORT—Four Spanish American War veterans were honored last night during a special program held at the home of Victory Post 155, American Legion.

They are Norris Bruce, Gideon Rietz, Charles Ross and Fred W. Wiseman, who were presented citations by John Sloan, commander of the Maryland Department, American Legion.

Sam W. Widmer, of Luke, historian of the West Virginia Department, American Legion, and past commander of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, of Piedmont, gave the principal address.

Legionnaires from posts in the Mountain District, Maryland, nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania attended.

Legionnaire Day was observed yesterday in conjunction with the week-long celebration of the third anniversary of the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of the legion post.

Frostburg Needs Blood Donors Tuesday

FROSTBURG — A special appeal is being made here for new blood donors to help Frostburg attain its Red Cross bloodmobile quota of 120 pints.

The bloodmobile unit will be at the American Legion home Tuesday afternoon on its regularly scheduled visit, according to Mrs. Perry W. Myers. It is urgent that many new donors volunteer Tuesday, since many regularly scheduled donors are away vacationing.

Mrs. Myers, who is Red Cross Blood Bank chairman for Frostburg, said that unless Frostburg reaches its assigned quota of 120 pints of voluntarily donated blood Tuesday, residents will not be included in the program of receiving blood out-of-state, in the event of an emergency.

Under the Red Cross blood program, she explains, donated blood is used in local hospitals, for the Armed Forces, for plasma and for replacement of blood used by residents who might become ill or injured away from home. When quotas are not reached, local needs are taken care of first, and then no blood is left for replacement. At present, any Frostburger, whether he is a donor or not, is entitled to free blood if needed, anywhere in the country. This life-saving factor, she said, is possible, because a few donors have kept the program going for the full benefit of everyone.

Piano wires support a strain of 390 thousand pounds per square inch.

MOOREFIELD — Loring Hines and Raymond Orndorff caught a bear cub in a fox trap Thursday morning. The little animal, a female, weighed fourteen pounds and is estimated to be about five months old. The cub was caught by its right forepaw in a number two trap.

Conservation officer Bart Townsend took the little animal to Dr. W. B. Homan who gave it a shot of penicillin as the paw was infected. The cub was taken to the French Creek Game Farm operated by the Conservation Commission.

Keyser Guard Wins Honor At Breckinridge

KEYSER—Battery C, local National Guard unit, has been designated as second best marching unit in the Governor's Day parade last Saturday at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., according to Major Wilson H. Morris, commanding officer of the 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion.

The review of the National Guard troops at the summer field training site, under command of Gen. William E. Blake, adjutant general of West Virginia, was in honor of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, commander in chief of the West Virginia National Guard.

The Keyser unit completed three days of range firing this week, according to Capt. Henry E. Wilt, commanding officer of Battery C, who said the primary weapon used was the 155-mm self-propelled howitzer.

Frostburg Needs Blood Donors Tuesday

FROSTBURG — A special appeal is being made here for new blood donors to help Frostburg attain its Red Cross bloodmobile quota of 120 pints.

The bloodmobile unit will be at the American Legion home Tuesday afternoon on its regularly scheduled visit, according to Mrs. Perry W. Myers. It is urgent that many new donors volunteer Tuesday, since many regularly scheduled donors are away vacationing.

Mrs. Myers, who is Red Cross Blood Bank chairman for Frostburg, said that unless Frostburg reaches its assigned quota of 120 pints of voluntarily donated blood Tuesday, residents will not be included in the program of receiving blood out-of-state, in the event of an emergency.

Under the Red Cross blood program, she explains, donated blood is used in local hospitals, for the Armed Forces, for plasma and for replacement of blood used by residents who might become ill or injured away from home. When quotas are not reached, local needs are taken care of first, and then no blood is left for replacement. At present, any Frostburger, whether he is a donor or not, is entitled to free blood if needed, anywhere in the country. This life-saving factor, she said, is possible, because a few donors have kept the program going for the full benefit of everyone.

She urgently urges every able Frostburger to visit the blood bank Tuesday and donate a pint of blood.

Yankees Win On Siebern's Circuit Belt

Wallop In Seventh Beats Chisox, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Norm Siebern's solo homer in the seventh proved the victory margin in a 4-3 New York Yankee triumph over the Chicago White Sox Thursday before a crowd of 31,535, including 18,214 paid.

The ladies' Day throng saw the first-place Yankees held by Dick Donovan to one hit until a four-hit spurt in the sixth produced three runs, two on a sharp single by Bill Skowron.

Neither Donovan nor starter and winner Johnny Kucks, who notched his sixth victory against three defeats, finished. Donovan was followed by Gerry Staley and Kucks, who left in a threatening Sox seventh, by Bobby Shantz and Art Ditmar.

Coach Bean Retires Yanks Help Gate

Reunion For Bisons The Marshal Writes

By C. V. BURNS

FROM Royal Oak, Mich., comes the news that Tom Bean, a native of Barton, Md., is retiring as baseball coach of St. Mary's High School, a post he has held for 18 years.

The 61-year-old mentor, who managed the Barton Big Five in the 1920s, led the Michigan nine to the parochial city titles in 1943 and 1950.

In the past four years Bean's teams have won 49 games and lost six.

Bean, also a long term basketball coach, says he hasn't yet decided whether he would give up his cage post, but "doubted" he would continue.

THEY TALK about the Yankees' big lead hurting the rest of the clubs. Actually the Yankees are the club which draws best and helps the other teams at home.

For example, the recent three-game series drew 61,058 at Cleveland. A total of 127,387 saw the New Yorkers play three games in Detroit which topped the 127,387 the same clubs attracted in their four games at Yankee Stadium.

The first two games of the White Sox-Yankees series at Chicago this week attracted 57,903 customers.

In their first eight games of the current road trip the Yankees played to 246,348 or an average of 30,793 a game.

BEDFORD High School's 1945 football team, probably the best in the history of the Pennsylvania school, is planning a reunion during the Bedford Bicentennial Celebration in August.

Coach Bruce Fisher's team reeled off 10 consecutive wins 13 years ago and yielded only one touchdown, which still stands as the best defensive record in the tri-state area.

The Bisons of 1945 played their final game of the season here, beating LaSalle by the score of 33-0.

Jack Faust, who led the team in scoring and was named on the all-state team, is now deputy prothonotary of Bedford county.

JACK "Marshal" Dillon writes from Stamford, Conn., that his only claim to fame is that he lives on the same street as Charles "Chuck" Symeon, right-handed pitcher of Notre Dame University, who recently was signed by the Baltimore Orioles for a bonus of approximately $50,000.

Symeon, known to his Stamford neighbors as "Zeke" will get his start in organized ball with the Aberdeen (SD) club of the Class C Northern League. He won 14 games and lost five at Notre Dame.

Dillon says he's doing road work now in preparation for the races at Fairgo in September.

Incidentally, Jack's letter came in a Windsor Hotel envelope and we think Tom Mullaney should bill him for this.

WHEN Walt Hansgen, of Westfield, N. J., drove a Lister Jaguar sports car to victory in the 150-mile race at Elkhart Lake, Wis., last Sunday at an average speed of 75.4 miles per hour, it was the seventh big event won this year by the New Jerseyite who copped the feature at the Cumberland Municipal Airport in May.

Eddie Brennan, who was racing secretary at the local half miler for 21 years, is general manager at Monmouth. John Turner, Jr., is racing secretary, and Eddie Blind, who was here as late as last year, is the official starter.

"Ty" Shea, who was one of Brennan's aides here for many years, is racing secretary at Narragansett Park, Pawtucket, R. I., which opens a 24-day session on Monday, June 30.

Johnny Antonelli Whips Cincy, 5-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Orlando Cepeda's 15th homer of the season, a three-run blast in the eighth inning, provided the big punch in a four-run San Francisco Giant uprising that sank Cincinnati's Redlegs Thursday night 5-1. Johnny Antonelli went all the way, doling out seven hits for the victory.

Redleg starter Harvey Haddix ran into trouble in the eighth.

Wallop In Seventh Beats Chisox, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Norm Siebern's solo homer in the seventh proved the victory margin in a 4-3 New York Yankee triumph over the Chicago White Sox Thursday before a crowd of 31,535, including 18,214 paid.

The ladies' Day throng saw the first-place Yankees held by Dick Donovan to one hit until a four-hit spurt in the sixth produced three runs, two on a sharp single by Bill Skowron.

Neither Donovan nor starter and winner Johnny Kucks, who notched his sixth victory against three defeats, finished. Donovan was followed by Gerry Staley and Kucks, who left in a threatening Sox seventh, by Bobby Shantz and Art Ditmar.

Coach Bean Retires Yanks Help Gate

Reunion For Bisons The Marshal Writes

By C. V. BURNS

FROM Royal Oak, Mich., comes the news that Tom Bean, a native of Barton, Md., is retiring as baseball coach of St. Mary's High School, a post he has held for 18 years.

The 61-year-old mentor, who managed the Barton Big Five in the 1920s, led the Michigan nine to the parochial city titles in 1943 and 1950.

In the past four years Bean's teams have won 49 games and lost six.

Bean, also a long term basketball coach, says he hasn't yet decided whether he would give up his cage post, but "doubted" he would continue.

THEY TALK about the Yankees' big lead hurting the rest of the clubs. Actually the Yankees are the club which draws best and helps the other teams at home.

For example, the recent three-game series drew 61,058 at Cleveland. A total of 127,387 saw the New Yorkers play three games in Detroit which topped the 127,387 the same clubs attracted in their four games at Yankee Stadium.

The first two games of the White Sox-Yankees series at Chicago this week attracted 57,903 customers.

In their first eight games of the current road trip the Yankees played to 246,348 or an average of 30,793 a game.

If the Yankees are hurting baseball the gate receipts fail to show it.

BEDFORD High School's 1945 football team, probably the best in the history of the Pennsylvania school, is planning a reunion during the Bedford Bicentennial Celebration in August.

Coach Bruce Fisher's team reeled off 10 consecutive wins 13 years ago and yielded only one touchdown, which still stands as the best defensive record in the tri-state area.

The Bisons of 1945 played their final game of the season here, beating LaSalle by the score of 33-0.

Jack Faust, who led the team in scoring and was named on the all-state team, is now deputy prothonotary of Bedford county.

JACK "Marshal" Dillon writes from Stamford, Conn., that his only claim to fame is that he lives on the same street as Charles "Chuck" Symeon, right-handed pitcher of Notre Dame University, who recently was signed by the Baltimore Orioles for a bonus of approximately $50,000.

Symeon, known to his Stamford neighbors as "Zeke" will get his start in organized ball with the Aberdeen (SD) club of the Class C Northern League. He won 14 games and lost five at Notre Dame.

Dillon says he's doing road work now in preparation for the races at Fairgo in September.

Incidentally, Jack's letter came in a Windsor Hotel envelope and we think Tom Mullaney should bill him for this.

WHEN Walt Hansgen, of Westfield, N. J., drove a Lister Jaguar sports car to victory in the 150-mile race at Elkhart Lake, Wis., last Sunday at an average speed of 75.4 miles per hour, it was the seventh big event won this year by the New Jerseyite who copped the feature at the Cumberland Municipal Airport in May.

Eddie Brennan, who was racing secretary at the local half miler for 21 years, is general manager at Monmouth. John Turner, Jr., is racing secretary, and Eddie Blind, who was here as late as last year, is the official starter.

"Ty" Shea, who was one of Brennan's aides here for many years, is racing secretary at Narragansett Park, Pawtucket, R. I., which opens a 24-day session on Monday, June 30.

Card "B's" Win, 9-2

"Spunk" Perlozzo pitched a one-hitter and struck out 13 Wildcats. Chris Pfeiffer had the losers' lone safety.

Deffenbaugh, Wildcats' relief pitcher, hurled hitless ball after relieving Lynch in the fourth inning.

Johnny Antonelli Whips Cincy, 5-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Orlando Cepeda's 15th homer of the season, a three-run blast in the eighth inning, provided the big punch in a four-run San Francisco Giant uprising that sank Cincinnati's Redlegs Thursday night 5-1. Johnny Antonelli went all the way, doling out seven hits for the victory.

Redleg starter Harvey Haddix ran into trouble in the eighth.

Joe Gordon Replaces Bragan As Manager Of Indians

Four Coaches Are Retained By Cleveland

New Tribe Leader Starred In Majors From 1938 To 1950

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians fired Bobby Bragan as manager Thursday night and hired Joe Gordon, former Indian and New York Yankee second baseman and now an insurance salesman in Sacramento, Calif.

"We are making this change with the hope that there will be a general improvement in the club," General Manager Frank Lane said. The Indians lost to the Boston Red Sox 2-1 Thursday and are now 12 games behind the New York Yankees and tied with Baltimore for seventh in the American League.

To Arrive Friday

Lane said Gordon would leave San Francisco Thursday night and arrive in Cleveland at 10:20 a.m. Friday.

The 43-year-old Gordon has been hired for the remainder of this season and all of next, Lane said. Gordon already has indicated, Lane added, that he will keep the present Tribe coaching staff of Mel Harder, Eddie Stanky, Red Kress and Bill Lobe.

Lane said he made the decision to fire Bragan because he felt "Bobby wasn't getting out of the club what he might have gotten despite injuries to key men." Most important among the injuries has been arm trouble for Herb Score, the Indians' southpaw strikeout king, and an ankle fracture that has kept first baseman Vic Wertz, most valuable Indian of 1957, sidelined since spring training.

Bragan took the decision well, Lane said, and was "possibly less shocked than I was."

This is the first time since 1935 when Walter P. Johnson and Steve O'Neill shared the field chief's job that the Indians have changed managers during the season. Lane said it was "no overnight decision" to cut Bragan adrift and was not "the result of any big thing, but a succession of little things."

"After all, if you have a sales manager and he isn't making the sales, you get rid of him and get somebody else," Lane said.

Starred For Two Clubs

Gordon, a member of the Indians' 1948 world championship team, played second base for the New York Yankees and Cleveland during his 1938-50 career in the American League. In 1951 he was a player-manager for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League. After two seasons there he became West Coast scout for the Detroit Tigers and in 1956 was with the Tigers as coach.

Last year Gordon piloted San Francisco to a Pacific Coast League championship.

Shipley is a hefty 240 pounds. At Maryland, he excelled on defense.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Williams' ninth-inning home run and Dick Gernert's game-tying round-trip blow in the seventh won the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 decision Thursday over Cleveland in a pitchers' duel between Ike Delock and the tribe's Cal McLish.

Williams led off the ninth with his ninth home run of the season high into the upper right field stands.

Ortiz To Fight Busso Tonight

Lightweights Meet In New York Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, a flashy Puerto Rico-born lightweight who was reared in New York, risks his record as an unbeaten contender Friday night in a 10-round match with Johnny Busso, another New Yorker.

Both young fighters are on the way up with impressive records to make their claims for consideration after Joey Brown defends his title against Kenny Lane in Houston next month.

Fight fans will remember both from recent outings on the same television (NBC at 9 pm (EST) program that will carry this bout from Madison Square Garden.

Busso stopped Larry Boardman in a wild struggle at Boston, April 11 and proceeded to win a decision over Algerian Lahouari Godih in the Garden May 23.

Ortiz outpointed busy Tommy Tibbsin February and earned a decision over Joey Lopes, who once fought for the title. He beat Lopes in Hollywood, Calif., May 9.

This figures to be a real tight one although Ortiz is favored at 7-5. At 5-7 Ortiz is an inch and a half shorter than the solid-punching Busso. Ortiz is fast, a ready aggressor and no mean puncher himself.

Mickey Wright Leads Women's Open Tourney

Californian Posts Opening Round 74

DETROIT (AP)—Lanky Mickey Wright grabbed a one-stroke lead in the first round of the U. S. Women's Open Golf Tournament Thursday at Forest Lake Country Club.

The long-hitting blonde from Chula Vista, Calif., battled strong winds and rugged competition and finished the first day with a 74, one over par at the hilly layout.

Miss Wright, winner of the recent ladies' PGA championship but seldom an outstanding player in the Open, had a stroke advantage over a pair of former Open titlists, Betty Jameson of San Antonio and Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., and uncrowned champion Jackie Pung.

It was Mrs. Pung who apparently had won the 1957 Open only to lose it on a scoring technicality. Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S.C., who was declared the winner after the Hawaiian housewife was disqualified, had a 79 Thursday.

The name badminton, the game resembling lawn tennis, came from Badminton, England.

Harshman Blanks Tigers

Yields Five Hits, Orioles Win, 2-0

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Harshman returned to winning form for the Baltimore Orioles Thursday, blanking the Detroit Tigers 2-0 with a master five five-hitter.

The veteran lefthander won his first game since May 10. He had lost six straight decisions after opening the season with five consecutive victories.

The Orioles nicked lower Billy Hoeft for the only run they needed on a first inning walk to Gene Woodling, Dick Williams' single and Gus Triandos' sacrifice fly.

Bob Boyd drove home the other run with his second homer — a belt into the upper rightfield deck off relief pitcher Herb Moford in the sixth.

Lightweights Meet In New York Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, a flashy Puerto Rico-born lightweight who was reared in New York, risks his record as an unbeaten contender Friday night in a 10-round match with Johnny Busso, another New Yorker.

Both young fighters are on the way up with impressive records to make their claims for consideration after Joey Brown defends his title against Kenny Lane in Houston next month.

Fight fans will remember both from recent outings on the same television (NBC at 9 pm (EST) program that will carry this bout from Madison Square Garden.

Busso stopped Larry Boardman in a wild struggle at Boston, April 11 and proceeded to win a decision over Algerian Lahouari Godih in the Garden May 23.

Ortiz outpointed busy Tommy Tibbsin February and earned a decision over Joey Lopes, who once fought for the title. He beat Lopes in Hollywood, Calif., May 9.

This figures to be a real tight one although Ortiz is favored at 7-5. At 5-7 Ortiz is an inch and a half shorter than the solid-punching Busso. Ortiz is fast, a ready aggressor and no mean puncher himself.

Mickey Wright Leads Women's Open Tourney

Californian Posts Opening Round 74

DETROIT (AP)—Lanky Mickey Wright grabbed a one-stroke lead in the first round of the U. S. Women's Open Golf Tournament Thursday at Forest Lake Country Club.

The long-hitting blonde from Chula Vista, Calif., battled strong winds and rugged competition and finished the first day with a 74, one over par at the hilly layout.

Miss Wright, winner of the recent ladies' PGA championship but seldom an outstanding player in the Open, had a stroke advantage over a pair of former Open titlists, Betty Jameson of San Antonio and Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., and uncrowned champion Jackie Pung.

It was Mrs. Pung who apparently had won the 1957 Open only to lose it on a scoring technicality. Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S.C., who was declared the winner after the Hawaiian housewife was disqualified, had a 79 Thursday.

The name badminton, the game resembling lawn tennis, came from Badminton, England.

Harshman Blanks Tigers

Yields Five Hits, Orioles Win, 2-0

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Harshman returned to winning form for the Baltimore Orioles Thursday, blanking the Detroit Tigers 2-0 with a master five five-hitter.

The veteran lefthander won his first game since May 10. He had lost six straight decisions after opening the season with five consecutive victories.

The Orioles nicked lower Billy Hoeft for the only run they needed on a first inning walk to Gene Woodling, Dick Williams' single and Gus Triandos' sacrifice fly.

Althea Gibson Advances In British Net Tourney

Eight U.S. Tennis Players Survive Wimbledon Tests

By STERLING SLAPPEY

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Defending champion Althea Gibson was far off form Thursday but still had more than enough to defeat Mexico's Yolande Ramirez in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The tall, 30-year-old New Yorker began clicking in the second set as she overcame the tiny, 23-year-old Mexican senorita, 9-7, 6-2, and gained the fourth round of singles.

Miss Gibson's victory was one of five scored by Americans in singles play Thursday. Four other Yanks were eliminated, including pain-wracked Janet Hopps of Seattle.

8 U.S. Players Left

This cut Uncle Sam's dwindling tennis forces to four men and four women. America's main hopes rest with the women. Only Barry MacKay, blistered racket hand and all, is rated a slight possibility to break through the Australians and Europeans in men's play.

Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., and veterans Budge Patty and Gardnar Mulloy were the other American winners today. Beaten in addition to Miss Hopps, who was seeded seventh, were Bob Perry and Gregory Grant of Los Angeles, and Nick Carter of San Francisco. The male losses were expected.

Miss Hopps and Chile's Luis Ayala were the only seeded players to lose Thursday and the third so far in the tournament. Third-seeded Dorothy Head Knode of New York was eliminated Wednesday.

Australia's high-ranking Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser, Sweden's Sven Davidson, and Denmark's Kurt Neilsen, all had fairly easy victories. Top-seeded Ashley Cooper of Australia didn't play.

Plays Despite Injury

Miss Hopps has a slipped disc but played despite the injury. She bowed to Norma Marsh, a second-rate Australian player, 7-5, 9-7, in the second round. After the match she defaulted from doubles.

Patty, 34, eliminated Perry, 25, a fellow Californian, in a hard-fought five setter, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4. Mulloy, 44, of Coral Gables, Fla., coasted to a 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 victory over South African John Hurry. Both were second-round matches. They will play their third rounders Friday along with MacKay who was idle.

Two young Australians knocked out Carter and Grant in second-round matches. Rod Laver beat Carter, 4-6, 6-3, 12-10, 6-4. Bob Mark ousted Grant, 15-13, 0-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Miss Arnold joined Miss Gibson in the fourth round by downing Erika Vollmer of West Germany, 6-2, 8-6.

Dodgers Down Milwaukee, 4-1

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Don Drysdale socked his first homer of the year and tamed the Braves on eight hits Thursday night as the last place Los Angeles Dodgers took a 4-1 victory that trimmed Milwaukee's hold on first place in the National League to a game and a half.

Rain delayed the start of the game an hour and 27 minutes. Once the Dodgers got to bat they scored a run in each of the first three innings to hand the world champion Braves their second straight defeat.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Don Drysdale socked his first homer of the year and tamed the Braves on eight hits Thursday night as the last place Los Angeles Dodgers took a 4-1 victory that trimmed Milwaukee's hold on first place in the National League to a game and a half.

Rain delayed the start of the game an hour and 27 minutes. Once the Dodgers got to bat they scored a run in each of the first three innings to hand the world champion Braves their second straight defeat.

Tops Salvation Army, Ridgeley Wins, 5-3

Don McIntyre's tossers took over sole possession of second place in the Rec Softball League yesterday when they notched their sixth win in eight outings at the expense of the Salvation Army in a game played on the Rolling Mill Diamond. The score was 7-5.

Van Parsons belted a homer and double, Dale Fuller hit a roundtripper and single, Jim Poland hit for the circuit and Jack Gilmore blasted a three-bagger for the victors. Judy had two of the losers' four safeties.

An over-the-shoulder catch by Jim Sheehe in deep right field in the third inning with the bases loaded was the fielding highlight.

Ridgeley American Legion tied Western Maryland for third place at 5-3 by trimming the railroaders at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 7-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Gene Hess, who registered his fifth triumph of the campaign.

Hess walloped a 3-run homer in the third frame and also had a single to his credit. Jack Hudson and Joe Gobeli also obtained a pair of safeties while Bob Pomroy excelled at second base for the winners. "Turtle" Slonaker's triple in the fifth scored both of Western Maryland's tallies. Scores:

$40,000 Colt Cops Feature At Monmouth

Nasomo Comes From Behind To Triumph

STANTON, Del., June 26 (AP)—A 2-year-old colt that cost $40,000 at last year's Keeneland yearling sales looked as if he might be worth that price when he won at Delaware Park today.

Third, sixth and tenth in his three previous efforts in New York, the expensive youngster, named Nasomo, carried Mrs. Pauline E. Woolworth's Pine Tree Stable silks to a thrilling come-from-behind triumph in today's five-and-a-half furlong dash for maiden juveniles.

It was the way he won that impressed some 9,800 spectators. The chestnut son of the famed Nasrullah, from Blue Eyed Momo, has a long way to go to win back his purchase price but he added $2,275 to his earlier earnings of $400.

Far back early, Nasomo still appeared hopelessly beaten inside the last furlong where C. Mahlon Kline's favored Night Spy led by five lengths with Mrs. Woolworth's colt running fourth. But Nasomo staged a remarkable spurt under Logan Batcheller in the final sixteenth of a mile and beat the choice by three-quarters of a length. Count Nero was a non-threatening third. The time was 1:07 2/5.

Nasomo paid $10.20, $5.60 and $3.20. Night Spy was worth $3.40 and $2.40, with Count Nero $2.40 third. Just after this race, rain deluged the track and it was almost dark for several minutes.

$40,000 Colt Cops Feature At Monmouth

Nasomo Comes From Behind To Triumph

STANTON, Del., June 26 (AP)—A 2-year-old colt that cost $40,000 at last year's Keeneland yearling sales looked as if he might be worth that price when he won at Delaware Park today.

Third, sixth and tenth in his three previous efforts in New York, the expensive youngster, named Nasomo, carried Mrs. Pauline E. Woolworth's Pine Tree Stable silks to a thrilling come-from-behind triumph in today's five-and-a-half furlong dash for maiden juveniles.

It was the way he won that impressed some 9,800 spectators. The chestnut son of the famed Nasrullah, from Blue Eyed Momo, has a long way to go to win back his purchase price but he added $2,275 to his earlier earnings of $400.

Far back early, Nasomo still appeared hopelessly beaten inside the last furlong where C. Mahlon Kline's favored Night Spy led by five lengths with Mrs. Woolworth's colt running fourth. But Nasomo staged a remarkable spurt under Logan Batcheller in the final sixteenth of a mile and beat the choice by three-quarters of a length. Count Nero was a non-threatening third. The time was 1:07 2/5.

Nasomo paid $10.20, $5.60 and $5.20. Night Spy was worth $3.40 and $2.40, with Count Nero $2.40 third. Just after this race, rain deluged the track and it was almost dark for several minutes.

Chilled Soups Are Ideal For Good Summer Coolers

History does not tell us the originator of the first cold soup . . . but opinions are many. One theory is that the gluttonous King Louis XIV created cold soup. Terrified of poison he employed a group of tasters. By the time the food reached his table it was often lukewarm . . . especially the soup. Once, instead of fuming, he ordered the soup returned to the kitchen to be chilled. Thus our introduction to cold soups.

Today we have frozen condensed soups . . . chock full of flavor and goodness, no matter how you serve them. For chilly days serve them piping hot. For summer days join the leaders of the hot weather soup society . . . serve a summer soup cooler.

Potato Soup Cooler

- 1 can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
- 1 soup can water
- ½ cup chopped avocado
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

In saucepan, combine soup and water; heat until thawed, stirring now and then. Place in refrigerator for about 4 hours. Add remaining ingredients; beat until smooth with rotary beater, electric mixer, or blender. Place in refrigerator for another 30 minutes. Serve in chilled bowls. Thin to desired consistency with milk (about ½ to ¾ cup) before serving. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

This soup is also drinkable and is quite appealing when served from a punch bowl into cups.

Tips For Chilled Soup:

(a) Allow plenty of time for soup to chill and develop flavor.

(b) Chill bowls, plates, or cups if at all possible. The drops of moisture which cling to the glass suggest coolness.

Of course, your birthday cake has to be delicious as well as pretty—so here's a recipe that was inspired by a birthday for a birthday! It's devil's food and it's superb. When you serve it, just make certain that there's plenty of fragrant, hot coffee on hand. Your party wouldn't be complete without it!

Happy Birthday Cake

- 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 1 cup milk, divided
- 2 egg yolks, beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 5 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1⅔ cups sifted enriched flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking soda
- Few grains salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cut chocolate in small pieces and put in saucepan with ½ cup milk and beaten egg yolks. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat, add sugar and butter and stir until butter melts. Stir in flour gradually and stir until smooth. Dissolve baking soda in remaining milk, adding slowly. Mix well. Add salt and vanilla. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layer-cake pans in moderate oven, 350°, 25 minutes or until done. Cool on cake racks. Fill and frost with cooked icing (made with 2 egg whites). Decorate sides of cake with flaked coconut. Put candle holders through cream mints of any desired colors and set on cake.

Now that summer beads are back in circulation, it's well to know that you can locate and retrieve those from a broken strand by running a bar of wet soap along the floor.

Chilled Soups Are Ideal For Good Summer Coolers

History does not tell us the originator of the first cold soup . . . but opinions are many. One theory is that the gluttonous King Louis XIV created cold soup. Terrified of poison he employed a group of tasters. By the time the food reached his table it was often lukewarm . . . especially the soup. Once, instead of fuming, he ordered the soup returned to the kitchen to be chilled. Thus our introduction to cold soups.

Today we have frozen condensed soups . . . chock full of flavor and goodness, no matter how you serve them. For chilly days serve them piping hot. For summer days join the leaders of the hot weather soup society . . . serve a summer soup cooler.

Potato Soup Cooler

1 can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
1 soup can water
½ cup chopped avocado
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 teaspoon lemon juice

In saucepan, combine soup and water; heat until thawed, stirring now and then. Place in refrigerator for about 4 hours. Add remaining ingredients; beat until smooth with rotary beater, electric mixer, or blender. Place in refrigerator for another 30 minutes. Serve in chilled bowls. Thin to desired consistency with milk (about ½ to ¾ cup) before serving. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

The frost is on the punch bowl! What a wonderfully cool way to start dinner . . . with a bowl of chilled soup made from frozen condensed cream of potato soup. Touched with the subtle flavor of avocado, it's a gourmet's delight.

This soup is also drinkable and is quite appealing when served from a punch bowl into cups.

Tips For Chilled Soup:

(a) Allow plenty of time for soup to chill and develop flavor.

(b) Chill bowls, plates, or cups if at all possible. The drops of moisture which cling to the glass suggest coolness.

(c) Be original in your soup service. Use a punch bowl or tall pitcher occasionally . . . in place of your soup tureen.

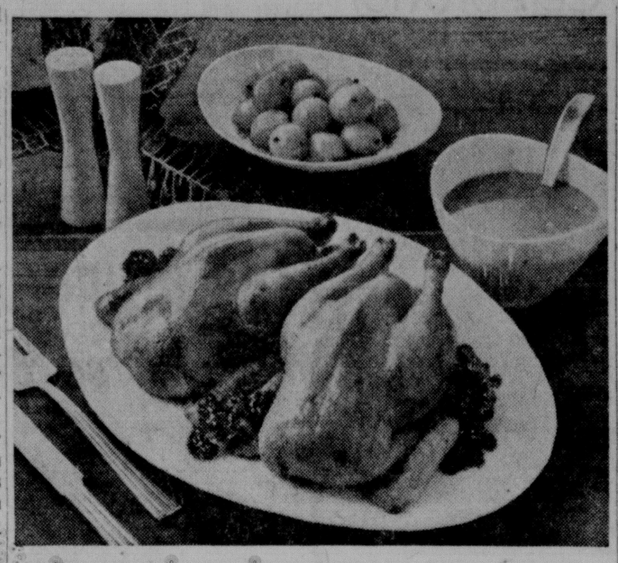
Broiler-Fryer Chickens Convenient, Economical

Today, when both thrift and convenience are becoming common words in everyone's vocabulary, new notice should be taken of an old friend — chicken. Not the "old time" chicken, but the new "meat type chicken," a chicken which has been developed after much research for just one purpose — good, hearty eating.

This chicken known as a broiler-fryer is not an egg-laying chicken, nor a barnyard chicken —it is raised with just one goal in mind, to have a thrifty, delicious, and meaty chicken for the dinner table. The broiler-fryer is a high value product. In few protein rich foods your super market can give so much flavor and so many nutritives for so little money — plus such top quality.



Sunday or special occasion treat for an everyday price. Two tantalizing roasted chickens, with an extra-special stuffing for added menu magic.

Margins Lower

Within the past ten years the broiler-fryer has accomplished another feat — its retail price has actually dropped. In contrast with almost all other foods, retail prices and marketing margins for broilers are below 1947-49 averages, while margins for red meats are up about a third from 1947-49 levels.

Slaughtering and eviscerating, formerly done in retail stores or in the home, have been taken over by the broiler industry. This has converted chicken meat into a convenient, ready-to-cook product that fits the merchandising techniques of the modern supermarket and makes shopping and cooking more thrifty and convenient for the consumer.

Better nutrition and feeding methods have reduced the amount of food required to produce one pound of meat from 4 pounds to 2.5 pounds in just a few years. Broiler-fryer chickens convert feed into meat more efficiently than any other commercially produced animal and this saving is passed on to the consumer.

Industry technology has reduced the time required to raise a flock of broiler-fryers to market weights from 14 weeks to 9 weeks, again effecting a considerable saving. Production efficiency is constantly being improved through better breeding, more positive control of chicken health, and improved management practices.

Since broilers-fryers are eviscerated before they are shipped, the consumer is not paying for the transportation of any waste materials, which also brings final market prices down.

The broiler industry has its own production line operation made up of hatcheries, growers, feed dealers and processors. Each member of the team is dependent on every other for quality and degree of efficiency. Through combined efforts the industry team strives to put out the best product possible, keeping production cost to a minimum.

Tuna-Cheesettes Lend Variety To Grill Cooking

Preparing hot sandwiches on an outdoor grill is easy and fun. When the usual hamburger rolls or franks begin to pall, you might like to try these tuna cheesettes.

Since the filled buns need only be heated until the process cheese is melted, lay the buns on the grill fairly near the briquets. Their foil wrapping offers good protection.

Tuna Cheesettes

For 8 sandwiches butter 8 split buns on cut sides. Cube ¼ pound process American cheese and chop 3 hard cooked eggs.

Combine cheese and eggs with one 7-ounce can tuna, flaked; 2 tablespoons each of chopped green pepper, chopped onion, stuffed olives and sweet pickle; bind mixture lightly with ½ cup cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise. Spread filling on buns.

Wrap buns in aluminum foil and lay close together on hot grill. Grill them approximately 20 minutes, turning once.

Frankfurter Rockets For Fourth Of July Picnic

Your Fourth of July barbecue menu will hit right on target with frankfurter - sauerkraut rockets. Family and friends will patriotically launch them over the barbecue grill's bed of coals. No doubt of their success in the third stage — the savoring of their extra good eating.

As they get into orbit around the picnic table, their secret is out: Beneath the foil wrapping is a bakers' frankfurter bun spread with tasty caraway seed-butter. Once unwrapped, the hot bun is filled with a juicy frankfurter, hot from over the coals, and a forkful of sauerkraut—this, too, is steaming hot and should be well drained.

Frankfurter-Sauerkraut Rockets

- 3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
- ¾ teaspoon caraway seeds
- 6 sliced frankfurter buns
- 1 (No. 2) can sauerkraut
- 6 frankfurters

Combine butter and caraway seeds. Spread butter mixture on buns and wrap in heavy foil. At picnic time: Remove label and top from sauerkraut can and place over the grill to heat. Place wrapped roll on skewer, along with a frankfurter. Turn frequently over hot coals until frankfurter is cooked and bun is hot. To serve: Place one frankfurter and ¼ cup drained and heated sauerkraut in each hot roll.

Yield: 6 Frankfurter-Sauerkraut Rockets.

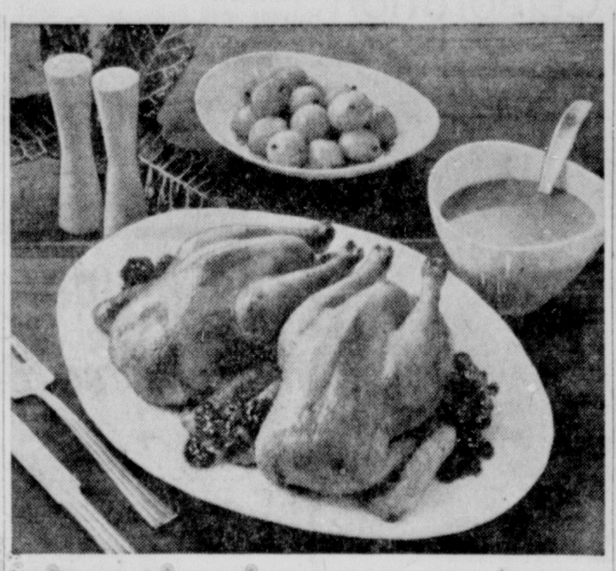
Broiler-Fryer Chickens Convenient, Economical

Today, when both thrift and convenience are becoming common words in everyone's vocabulary, new notice should be taken of an old friend — chicken. Not the "old time" chicken, but the new "meat type chicken," a chicken which has been developed after much research for just one purpose — good, hearty eating.

This chicken known as a broiler-fryer is not an egg-laying chicken, nor a barnyard chicken —it is raised with just one goal in mind, to have a thrifty, delicious, and meaty chicken for the dinner table. The broiler-fryer is a high value product. In few protein rich foods your super market can give so much flavor and so many nutritives for so little money — plus such top quality.



Sunday or special occasion treat for an everyday price. Two tantalizing roasted chickens, with an extra-special stuffing for added menu magic.

Margins Lower

Within the past ten years the broiler-fryer has accomplished another feat — its retail price has actually dropped. In contrast with almost all other foods, retail prices and marketing margins for broilers are below 1947-49 averages, while margins for red meats are up about a third from 1947-49 levels.

Slaughtering and eviscerating, formerly done in retail stores or in the home, have been taken over by the broiler industry. This has converted chicken meat into a convenient, ready-to-cook product that fits the merchandising techniques of the modern supermarket and makes shopping and cooking more thrifty and convenient for the consumer.

Better nutrition and feeding methods have reduced the amount of food required to produce one pound of meat from 4 pounds to 2.5 pounds in just a few years. Broiler-fryer chickens convert feed into meat more efficiently than any other commercially produced animal and this saving is passed on to the consumer.

Industry technology has reduced the time required to raise a flock of broiler-fryers to market weights from 14 weeks to 9 weeks, again effecting a considerable saving. Production efficiency is constantly being improved through better breeding, more positive control of chicken health, and improved management practices.

Since broilers-fryers are eviscerated before they are shipped, the consumer is not paying for the transportation of any waste materials, which also brings final market prices down.

The broiler industry has its own production line operation made up of hatcheries, growers, feed dealers and processors. Each member of the team is dependent on every other for quality and degree of efficiency. Through combined efforts the industry team strives to put out the best product possible, keeping production cost to a minimum.

Tuna-Cheesettes Lend Variety To Grill Cooking

Preparing hot sandwiches on an outdoor grill is easy and fun. When the usual hamburger rolls or franks begin to pall, you might like to try these tuna cheesettes.

Since the filled buns need only be heated until the process cheese is melted, lay the buns on the grill fairly near the briquets. Their foil wrapping offers good protection.

Tuna Cheesettes

For 8 sandwiches butter 8 split buns on cut sides. Cube ¼ pound process American cheese and chop 3 hard cooked eggs.

Combine cheese and eggs with one 7-ounce can tuna, flaked; 2 tablespoons each of chopped green pepper, chopped onion, stuffed olives and sweet pickle; bind mixture lightly with ½ cup cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise. Spread filling on buns.

Wrap buns in aluminum foil and lay close together on hot grill. Grill them approximately 20 minutes, turning once.

Frankfurter Rockets For Fourth Of July Picnic

Your Fourth of July barbecue menu will hit right on target with frankfurter - sauerkraut rockets. Family and friends will patriotically launch them over the barbecue grill's bed of coals. No doubt of their success in the third stage — the savoring of their extra good eating.

As they get into orbit around the picnic table, their secret is out: Beneath the foil wrapping is a bakers' frankfurter bun spread with tasty caraway seed-butter. Once unwrapped, the hot bun is filled with a juicy frankfurter, hot from over the coals, and a forkful of sauerkraut—this, too, is steaming hot and should be well drained.

Frankfurter-Sauerkraut Rockets

- 3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
- ¾ teaspoon caraway seeds
- 6 sliced frankfurter buns
- 1 (No. 2) can sauerkraut
- 6 frankfurters

Combine butter and caraway seeds. Spread butter mixture on buns and wrap in heavy foil. At picnic time: Remove label and top from sauerkraut can and place over the grill to heat. Place wrapped roll on skewer, along with a frankfurter. Turn frequently over hot coals until frankfurter is cooked and bun is hot. To serve: Place one frankfurter and ¼ cup drained and heated sauerkraut in each hot roll.

Yield: 6 Frankfurter-Sauerkraut Rockets.

Barbecue idea — alternate pitted prunes and cubes of cooked ham on skewers. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with brown sugar and broil.

Veal chops, braised until fork-tender, are succulent dinner fare. Add new potatoes, cooked in jackets, and bibb lettuce salad studded with mandarin oranges, if you like. Use the flavorful meat drippings to make gravy.

Braised Veal Chops Offer Succulent Dinner Entree

Succulent veal chops, cooked slowly and gently until the fine delicate flavor so characteristic of the young beef is at its best, are the trademarks of a good cook.

Veal cookery is no hurry-up process. The young beef needs moist heat, low temperatures, and slow cooking because it is fine grained and has less fat and moisture than most meats.

Veal chops and steaks, unlike lamb chops and beef steaks, should be braised for top flavor. Some cooks like to give the meat a quick dip in a mixture of beaten egg and water before coating with fine cracker or bread crumbs for a cooked-on crisp crust. Other cooks prefer to marinate the meat in a French dressing for half an hour before cooking, or rub the meat with a cut clove of garlic for a flavor variation.

Regardless of their precooking treatment, veal chops should be browned in a little hot fat, then cooked in a covered pan with a small amount of liquid—water, bouillon, fruit, or vegetable juice, sour cream, or tomato sauce—until the meat is easily pierced with a fork.

In the following recipe, veal rib chops are specified, but the method of preparation for loin or T-bone veal chops as well as those cut from the shoulder, and easily recognized by their round or blade bone, is the same.

Braised Veal Chops

6 veal rib chops, ½ inch thick
¼ cup lard or bacon drippings
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup water, milk, tomato or fruit juice

Sprinkle chops with salt, pepper and paprika. (If you like, dip them in a mixture of egg yolk beaten with 2 tablespoons milk, then in fine bread or cracker crumbs.) Brown chops in hot fat in a large skillet. When chops are golden brown on both sides, add liquid, cover pan, and cook over low heat or in a 325° oven about 45 minutes.

When chops have cooked tender, remove to serving plate and use drippings in the pan to prepare gravy. Add 1 cup milk to drippings and thicken with a mixture of 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup water for each cup of liquid in pan. Heat to boiling, stirring until gravy is thickened. 6 servings.

Quick 'n Easy in the dessert line: Open can or jar of ready-prepared prunes, top with ground nuts (peanuts are fine). Serve with cream. Good!

Prunes Used In Variety Of Summertime Treats

1 qt. chilled prune juice
1 qt. chilled gingerale
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Vanilla ice cream

Combine prune juice, gingerale, and lemon juice. Pour into tall glasses. Top each with a large scoop of vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

PRUNE CHEWIES

½ cup butter
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup prune juice
1½ cups chopped plumped prunes
1 cu chopped walnut meats
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 eggs
1 4-oz. can angel flake coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream together butter and ½ cup brown sugar and flour until thoroughly crumbly. Pat out into greased 9"x9"x2" pan, having mixture 1" high around edge. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., 20 minutes. Combine remaining ½ cup brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, prune juice, prunes, lemon rind and juice; cook until thickened. Add walnuts; spread out over baked mixture. Beat eggs; add coconut and vanilla extract. Spoon evenly over prune mixture. Bake at 350°F., 35 minutes. Cool. Cut in squares. Makes 16 squares.

Honey-Orange Sauce

Honey-orange sauce is excellent with ham or pork roast. For ¾ of a cup of sauce, use ½ cup liquid honey, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, and a few grains of salt. Blend well.

A drink fit for the gods, and for your dearest friends, is honey fruit punch, recommended by USDA home economists. This recipe will make about 24 half-cup servings.

1 quart boiling water
1½ teaspoons black tea
5 whole cloves
1 cup orange juice
1 quart lime juice
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup liquid honey
1 cup cold water

Pour boiling water over tea and cloves. Cover, let steep for 5 minutes, then strain. Combine tea with other ingredients and pour over cracked ice to chill. Garnish with thin orange slices, red cherries, or mint leaves.

For Dieters

Instead of giving up milk and valuable nutrients when dieting use the non-fat milk in crystal form or skimmed milk you can get from your grocer. The instant crystals adds only 81 calories a glass. It's got all the minerals and is minus only the butterfat of whole milk.

Meringue

2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Beat in sugar slowly until smooth and glossy.

To bake on pie: Spread meringue over slightly cooled filling in a baked pastry shell. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for about 12 minutes or until meringue is set and browned.

For topping desserts. Pile meringue lightly on a greased baking sheet in 6 large or 12 small mounds. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 10 to 15 minutes or until set and browned. Place on dessert, hot or cold.

Another way to cook the meringue is to drop mounds of it on simmering water, cover, and cook for 10 to 15 minutes or until set. Remove from the water immediately.

Care Of Eggs

Four good rules for maintaining quality in eggs are: store them in the refrigerator, keep the small end down, keep them covered, remove only eggs to be used.

Veal chops, braised until fork-tender, are succulent dinner fare. Add new potatoes, cooked in jackets, and bibb lettuce salad studded with mandarin oranges, if you like. Use the flavorful meat drippings to make gravy.

Braised Veal Chops Offer Succulent Dinner Entree

Succulent veal chops, cooked slowly and gently until the fine delicate flavor so characteristic of the young beef is at its best, are the trademarks of a good cook.

Veal cookery is no hurry-up process. The young beef needs moist heat, low temperatures, and slow cooking because it is fine grained and has less fat and moisture than most meats.

Veal chops and steaks, unlike lamb chops and beef steaks, should be braised for top flavor. Some cooks like to give the meat a quick dip in a mixture of beaten egg and water before coating with fine cracker or bread crumbs for a cooked-on crisp crust. Other cooks prefer to marinate the meat in a French dressing for half an hour before cooking, or rub the meat with a cut clove of garlic for a flavor variation.

Regardless of their precooking treatment, veal chops should be browned in a little hot fat, then cooked in a covered pan with a small amount of liquid—water, bouillon, fruit, or vegetable juice, sour cream, or tomato sauce—until the meat is easily pierced with a fork.

In the following recipe, veal rib chops are specified, but the method of preparation for loin or T-bone veal chops as well as those cut from the shoulder, and easily recognized by their round or blade bone, is the same.

Braised Veal Chops

6 veal rib chops, ½ inch thick
¼ cup lard or bacon drippings
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup water, milk, tomato or fruit juice

Sprinkle chops with salt, pepper and paprika. (If you like, dip them in a mixture of egg yolk beaten with 2 tablespoons milk, then in fine bread or cracker crumbs.) Brown chops in hot fat in a large skillet. When chops are golden brown on both sides, add liquid, cover pan, and cook over low heat or in a 325° oven about 45 minutes.

When chops have cooked tender, remove to serving plate and use drippings in the pan to prepare gravy. Add 1 cup milk to drippings and thicken with a mixture of 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup water for each cup of liquid in pan. Heat to boiling, stirring until gravy is thickened. 6 servings.

Prunes Used In Variety Of Summertime Treats

1 qt. chilled prune juice
1 qt. chilled gingerale
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Vanilla ice cream

PRUNE CHEWIES

½ cup butter
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup prune juice
1½ cups chopped plumped prunes
1 cu chopped walnut meats
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 eggs
1 4-oz. can angel flake coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream together butter and ½ cup brown sugar and flour until thoroughly crumbly. Pat out into greased 9"x9"x2" pan, having mixture 1" high around edge. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., 20 minutes. Combine remaining ½ cup brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, prune juice, prunes, lemon rind and juice; cook until thickened. Add walnuts; spread out over baked mixture. Beat eggs; add coconut and vanilla extract. Spoon evenly over prune mixture. Bake at 350°F., 35 minutes. Cool. Cut in squares. Makes 16 squares.

Honey-Orange Sauce

Honey-orange sauce is excellent with ham or pork roast. For ¾ of a cup of sauce, use ½ cup liquid honey, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, and a few grains of salt. Blend well.

A drink fit for the gods, and for your dearest friends, is honey fruit punch, recommended by USDA home economists. This recipe will make about 24 half-cup servings.

1 quart boiling water
1½ teaspoons black tea
5 whole cloves
1 cup orange juice
1 quart lime juice
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup liquid honey
1 cup cold water

Pour boiling water over tea and cloves. Cover, let steep for 5 minutes, then strain. Combine tea with other ingredients and pour over cracked ice to chill. Garnish with thin orange slices, red cherries, or mint leaves.

For Dieters

Instead of giving up milk and valuable nutrients when dieting use the non-fat milk in crystal form or skimmed milk you can get from your grocer. The instant crystals adds only 81 calories a glass. It's got all the minerals and is minus only the butterfat of whole milk.

Meringue

2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Beat in sugar slowly until smooth and glossy.

To bake on pie: Spread meringue over slightly cooled filling in a baked pastry shell. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for about 12 minutes or until meringue is set and browned.

For topping desserts. Pile meringue lightly on a greased baking sheet in 6 large or 12 small mounds. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 10 to 15 minutes or until set and browned. Place on dessert, hot or cold.

Another way to cook the meringue is to drop mounds of it on simmering water, cover, and cook for 10 to 15 minutes or until set. Remove from the water immediately.

Care Of Eggs

Four good rules for maintaining quality in eggs are: store them in the refrigerator, keep the small end down, keep them covered, remove only eggs to be used.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diam.	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 heart	1 spade	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Jack of spades.

Major suit trump support should rarely be concealed from partner. When a choice is presented between bidding a second suit and supporting partner's major suit take-out, the latter should in a vast majority of cases be preferred, though the holding is but three to an honor.

Four card trump support should hardly ever be kept a secret and failure to raise with five of partner's suit is virtually unheard of. However, even such a drastic procedure may at times become indicated as witness a bid made today by South in a hand taken from tournament competition.

West managed to eke out an opening bid of one diamond and East holding only one jack decided not to keep the bidding alive. South naturally doubled and North's response of one heart was strictly routine.

East now took the liberty of "backing in" with one spade. This was somewhat risky but on the other hand partner could not take him seriously because he had not kept the opening diamond bid alive.

It is at this point that South made the bid worthy of our attention, two no trump, in preference to supporting hearts. It was quite evident that if hearts were supported the king of diamonds would be led thru at the opening. In point of fact at most tables North became declarer at a contract of four hearts. With a diamond opening, the defense cashed ace-queen of diamonds and a ruff, with the ace of hearts still to score.

At no trump there was no way to prevent South from taking nine tricks for an excellent score.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diam.	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 heart	1 spade	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Jack of spades.

Major suit trump support should rarely be concealed from partner. When a choice is presented between bidding a second suit and supporting partner's major suit take-out, the latter should in a vast majority of cases be preferred, though the holding is but three to an honor.

Four card trump support should hardly ever be kept a secret and failure to raise with five of partner's suit is virtually unheard of. However, even such a drastic procedure may at times become indicated as witness a bid made today by South in a hand taken from tournament competition.

West managed to eke out an opening bid of one diamond and East holding only one jack decided not to keep the bidding alive. South naturally doubled and North's response of one heart was strictly routine.

East now took the liberty of "backing in" with one spade. This was somewhat risky but on the other hand partner could not take him seriously because he had not kept the opening diamond bid alive.

It is at this point that South made the bid worthy of our attention, two no trump, in preference to supporting hearts. It was quite evident that if hearts were supported the king of diamonds would be led thru at the opening. In point of fact at most tables North became declarer at a contract of four hearts. With a diamond opening, the defense cashed ace-queen of diamonds and a ruff, with the ace of hearts still to score.

At no trump there was no way to prevent South from taking nine tricks for an excellent score.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Husband and Father, Alonzo C. Fleegle, who died June 27, 1956.

And helps you to forget.
But time has only proved to us
How much we miss him yet.
Sadly missed by his Wife,

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

ROBERT O. BONNELL, Chairman, EDGAR T. BENNETT and JOHN J. McMULLEN, Constituting the STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. GEORGE ROTONDARO and HENRIETTA ROTONDARO, his wife, No. 2756 Law in The Circuit Court for Allegany County. (Filed June 26, 1958)

PETITION NO. 2756

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 2160 square feet, more or less, which is being taken for stream changes and facilities as shown on Plat No. 18563 (revised 4-25-58).

TOGETHER with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched on said plats, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining and together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the bed of Park Avenue lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the aforesaid plat.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from George F. Hazelwood, Jr., et al. to George and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, dated August 27, 1951 and recorded on November 6, 1951 in Liber 236, Folio 45, among the Land Records of Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 40, Maryland Route 36 to Long, in Allegany County, Maryland.

That your Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check under the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland in the amount of Five Hundred and Sixty-Five ($565.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purpose.

That your Petitioners have attempted to set forth the interests or estates of all other parties having an interest, in the hereinbefore described and that the defendants George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 2312 Pitt Avenue, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, non-residents of the State of Maryland, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1958, and show cause, if any they have why said property or said defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

/s/ Joseph E. Boden
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

True Copy,
Test: Joseph E. Boden, Clerk.

Wrong Interpretation

LONDON (AP) — A Britisher just back from a visit to America says he was warned not to leave his shoes outside his hotel room at night with the expectation they would be polished and returned.

In a magazine article E. P. Ward said: "I was told how in Texas an Englishman put his shoes outside the door. The chambermaid thought he had finished with them and just threw them away."

Archangel's Patrons

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII has named the archangel Michael to watch over Italian bankers. The official periodical Acts of the Apostolic See pointed out in the annou ement that money can be for good or evil and expressed hope that bankers would act with justice in money matters under Michael's patronage.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

ROBERT O. BONNELL, Chairman, EDGAR T. BENNETT and JOHN J. McMULLEN, Constituting the STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. GEORGE ROTONDARO and HENRIETTA ROTONDARO, his wife, No. 2756 Law in The Circuit Court for Allegany County. (Filed June 26, 1958)

PETITION NO. 2756

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 2160 square feet, more or less, which is being taken for stream changes and facilities as shown on Plat No. 18563 (revised 4-25-58).

TOGETHER with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched on said plats, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining and together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the bed of Park Avenue lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the aforesaid plat.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from George F. Hazelwood, Jr., et al. to George and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, dated August 27, 1951 and recorded on November 6, 1951 in Liber 236, Folio 45, among the Land Records of Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 40, Maryland Route 36 to Long, in Allegany County, Maryland.

That your Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check under the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland in the amount of Five Hundred and Sixty-Five ($565.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purpose.

That your Petitioners have attempted to set forth the interests or estates of all other parties having an interest, in the hereinbefore described and that the defendants George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 2312 Pitt Avenue, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, non-residents of the State of Maryland, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1958, and show cause, if any they have why said property or said defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

/s/ Joseph E. Boden
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

True Copy,
Test: Joseph E. Boden, Clerk.

Wrong Interpretation

LONDON (AP) — A Britisher just back from a visit to America says he was warned not to leave his shoes outside his hotel room at night with the expectation they would be polished and returned.

In a magazine article E. P. Ward said: "I was told how in Texas an Englishman put his shoes outside the door. The chambermaid thought he had finished with them and just threw them away."

Archangel's Patrons

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII has named the archangel Michael to watch over Italian bankers. The official periodical Acts of the Apostolic See pointed out in the announcement that money can be for good or evil and expressed hope that bankers would act with justice in money matters under Michael's patronage.

Cut In School Aid

Numerous aid penalties have been imposed since the 1955 act was passed. Any cutdown on Class I assessments would lower a county's percentage average for all classes and thereby could result in a cut in state school aid. County courts must sit as boards of equalization and review not later than July 5 to hear taxpayers' complaints against 1958 valuations proposed by assessors. Some assessors reportedly have already received requests for cuts in Class I assessments as a result of the court decision.

At the meeting today, the assessors undoubtedly will want advice as to how to proceed in such cases.

Tax Department officials are expected to take this position:

The appraisal survey, based on a sampling of properties, is intended only as an indication of local assessment effort for purposes of school aid computations.

This line of argument goes on to say that the assessor and not the appraisal survey is, under the constitution, the judge of property valuations. The conclusion is that if an assessor testifies that he has assessed property at actual value, he cannot be refuted by an appraisal survey figure showing 40 per cent, for example.

Ten Counties Affected

Only 10 counties had adopted the property transfer tax, upset by the other court decision. No others are affected. Based on first - half collections, the 10 counties figured to take in $292,500 from the tax in the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

The 10 counties which had adopted the property transfer tax were Boone, Hancock, Marshall, Mineral, Mingo, Ohio, Putnam, Tucker, Webster and Wood.

The Supreme Court said nothing about refunds to taxpayers who have paid the now invalidated tax. Field has asked for an attorney general's opinion on the question of refunds, and it may be ready in time for today's meeting with the assessors.

A ruling that refunds must be paid would confront the 10 counties with serious budget problems. On the other hand, a decision not to pay refunds very likely could result in another court case to settle the issue finally.

County Candidates

of the expendtures were listed in the harmony ticket report filed by Leslie J. Clark as treasurer. He showed contributions of $5,768 and expenditures of $5,403.52.

The five Democratic candidates for the three nominations for county commissioners reported spending a total of $527.44, an average of $105.49. They included John Tucker Mason, $143.01; William J. Brode, $112.43; James P. Russell, $105.50; John J. Rowan, $92, and Francis J. Duckworth, $74.50.

Seven candidates for the six positions on the Democratic State Central Committee spent a total of $102.19, an average of $14.60 each. They included Thomas B. Finan, $25; Alex E. Patton, $19.69; William P. Kelly, $17.50; C. William McDermott, John R. Kelly, F. Allan Weatherholt and Edward J. Ryan, $10 filing fee each.

Graydon S. Dunlap was the only one of four Democratic candidates for the House of Delegates reporting more than his $25 filing fee. He spent $128.20. The $25 fees were reported by William Walsh, Edward P. Flanigan and Thomas F. Conlon Jr.

Five candidates for the State Democratic Convention, all unopposed, listed only their $10 filing fees. They were Julius E. Schindler, Leslie J. Clark, Edward V. Welsh, F. Patrick Allender and Anne Barley Everline.

NEW YORK (AP)—Good news for the railroads sparked their shares and inspired the stock market to a good rally Thursday.

Prior to this aircrafts were up as Wall Street had war jitters over the crisis in Lebanon but the market as a whole was irregular. Trading up to that point was distinguished by great demand for lower-priced stocks and specially situated issues which have been favored lately.

By the close much of the bloom had worn off the advance by aircrafts but rails were still nicely ahead. The more speculative issues dominated the list of favorites, with five of the top 15 selling for 8¼ or less.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $173.60 with the industrials up $1.30, the rails up $1.10 and the utilities up 20 cents.

The number of gainers expanded to 625 compared with 294 losers among the 1,169 issues traded. There were 72 new highs for the year and only three new lows.

Despite the preponderance of gainers the advance looked irregular judging by the performance of key stocks. There were many small losers among these issues. The gains ran generally from fractions to about a point.

Market Rallies With Rail Issues Providing Spark

NEW YORK (AP)—Good news for the railroads sparked their shares and inspired the stock market to a good rally Thursday.

Prior to this aircrafts were up as Wall Street had war jitters over the crisis in Lebanon but the market as a whole was irregular. Trading up to that point was distinguished by great demand for lower-priced stocks and specially situated issues which have been favored lately.

By the close much of the bloom had worn off the advance by aircrafts but rails were still nicely ahead. The more speculative issues dominated the list of favorites, with five of the top 15 selling for 8¼ or less.

Volume climbed to 2,910,000 shares compared with 2,720,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $173.60 with the industrials up $1.30, the rails up $1.10 and the utilities up 20 cents.

The number of gainers expanded to 625 compared with 294 losers among the 1,169 issues traded. There were 72 new highs for the year and only three new lows.

Despite the preponderance of gainers the advance looked irregular judging by the performance of key stocks. There were many small losers among these issues. The gains ran generally from fractions to about a point.

West Virginia Tax Assessors Meeting Today

Emergency Session Called At Capitol

Frank A. Hott, assessor for Mineral County, and J. Harold Felton, assessor for Tucker County, are among the West Virginia county assessors called to Charleston for an emergency meeting with state tax officials to discuss the impact of two recent decisions of the State Supreme Court.

The Associated Press at Charleston reported the meeting called by State Tax Commissioner John A. Field Jr. is scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) in the House of Delegates chamber at the capitol.

Of principal concern will be a June 17 Supreme Court decision which re-emphasized a provision of the state constitution: "No one species of property from which a tax may be collected shall be taxed higher than any other species of property of equal value."

The other court decision, handed down the same day, threw out as unconstitutional a tax law enacted by the 1957 Legislature. The act had authorized county boards of education to impose a tax on the recording of property transfers to raise money for schools.

Equal Taxation Principle

The decision reaffirming the principle of equal taxation has far-reaching implications for all 55 counties. It reversed a Kanawha County decision involving the stock of the Kanawha Valley Bank of Charleston.

Kanawha Cicuit Court set six million dollars as the actual value of the bank's shares and also fixed the assessed value for tax purposes at six million, 100 per cent of value. The bank successfully complained that this was contrary to the constitution in the neighborhood of 40 per cent.

While the record in the case before the Supreme Court showed the bank stock was assessed at 100 per cent, the same record included testimony by Kanawha Assessor John M. Slack Jr. that the over-all level of assessments in the county was only 40 per cent of value.

The percentage figures tie in with those in the tax commissioner's annual county-by-county property appraisal survey, based on a relatively small sampling of properties in each county.

1957 Survey Is Cited

The 1957 survey would indicate the inequality complained of in the Kanawha case is statewide. The survey showed a statewide average of 88 per cent for Class I property, which includes bank stock, compared with percentages of 39 for Class II, 49 per cent for Class III and 44 per cent for Class IV.

Class I property carries the lowest tax levy rate of the four property classes. The direct loss of revenue from lowering Class I assessments to bring them in line with the survey - indicated percentages for the other classes would not be as serious as the effect on state school aid allocations.

Under a 1955 legislative act, counties must have this year's assessments of property other than that owned by public utilities up to 45 per cent of the value indicated by the appraisal survey. Failure to do so brings corresponding losses in school aid grants.

Girls State Elects Officers

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The American Legion Auxiliary's 13th annual Girls State Thursday elected a Hagerstown girl as governor and set up a mock legislature.

Jeanne Damm of North Hagerstown High School was chosen governor by the 162 high school juniors attending the sessions. She ran on the Nationalist party ticket and defeated Carol Latona of Chevy Chase, Federalist nominee.

Other administrative officers are Mary Louise Chesley of St. John's High in Frederick, attorney general, and Paula Prusch of Westminster's Northwest High, comptroller.

Giving the girls instruction in state government procedures were Dels. Myron Bloom and Howard Ankeney of Washington County, J. Waters Parrish, secretary of the Maryland Senate, and Lee Benson, assistant director of the Depatrment of Legislative Reference.

The delegates have been studying government processes all week. Friday they'll continue their experiment in state government and will journey to College Park Friday night for a social visit to Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion.

DR. JOHN A. STEHLEY

Dentist Retires After 44 Years In Profession

A local dentist, who became interested in dentistry at the age of 14 when he began working in his father's laboratory, has retired after 44 years in the profession.

Dr. John A. Stehley, who maintained an office at 1 Decatur Street for many years, thought at first he would like to be an engineer, and completed a year of study in the School of Engineering at West Virginia University.

But back in those days, he said, the prospects of a secure future in the field of engineering were not encouraging, so he decided to follow in his father's footsteps.

He enrolled in the School of Dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania, where his granddad, the late Dr. John A. Stehley, of Harrisburg, Pa., had completed his studies to become a physician.

In 1914 he completed the three-year course, and after receiving his degree as doctor of dental surgery, added his name to the shingle of his father, Dr. Frazier P. Stehley, on North Centre Street.

He and his father worked together until the father's retirement in 1926. A brother-in-law, Dr. W. R. Sollers, also practiced dentistry with them.

A brother, the late Dr. Roszel Stehley, practiced in Fairmont, and an uncle, the late Dr. Haldiman Stehley, had a practice in Keyser for years. At present a niece, Dr. Virginia Stehley Davis, is a dentist in Germantown, Pa.

Dr. Stehley is a member of the American Dental Association, the Maryland State Dental Association and the Allegany-Garrett Counties Dental Society, having been president of the organization one year.

He is also a member of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks.

Looking back over his 44 years of drilling, filling and extracting teeth, Dr. Stehley believes the greatest strides in dentistry were the introduction of novocain, a local anesthetic; and X-ray equipment.

He is married to the former Martha E. Sullivan of Saxton, Pa., and they live at 502 Frederick Street. For the past 38 years he and his wife have taken time off during the winter for relaxation in Florida.

Condemnations, Damage Suits Docketed Here

Two minor condemnation suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission along with a $1,000 suit for damages brought by a Hagerstown woman.

Margaret Long, RFD 3, Hagerstown, filed the $1,000 damage suit against Gerald Ruckman, 457 Waverly Terrace. In her declaration, filed by Attorney Thomas N. Berry, Mrs. Long charged that a collision in the dual highway segment of U. S. Route 40 within the Hagerstown city limits demolished her car on May 25.

Mrs. Long said that her son, Eric Long, was driving her car east-bound on Route 40 when Ruckman, also driving east, made a left turn from the right-hand lane causing the collision which demolished her car.

One of the condemnation suits, filed for the state agency by Attorney Robert MacDonald Bruce, is against George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, Johnstown, Pa., who own property on Park Heights off the south side of U. S. Route 40.

The SRC seeks about 2,160 square feet owned by the Johnstown couple for an easement area for an outlet ditch in conjunction with improvements to Route 40 from the Mt. Savage Road to Long. The agency deposited a check for $565 with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, as representing a fair price for the needed property.

The other condemnation suit, filed by Attorney Milton Gerson, concerns about 150 square feet on the south side of Route 40 just beyond its intersection with Route 36, the Mt. Savage Road. Defendants in this action are Ernest C. Staley and Levada J. Staley, his wife, RFD 6, and the Liberty Trust Company, mortgagee. The deposited check in this case was only for $85.

Collections At $578,000

The office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House had its busiest day of the month yesterday when a whopping $578,000 was collected.

That figure was half as much as had been collected in all of the previous days in June. That total as of closing time yesterday was $1,660,000.

One major reason for the heavy collection was that three large corporations paid their state and county taxes yesterday. These returns came from the Celanese Corporation of America, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Heavy collections are anticipated today, tomorrow and Monday, the last three for taxpayers to get the five per cent discount on county taxes. In July the discount becomes four per cent.

Wednesday's collections amounted to $130,000.

Divorce Granted

Mildred B. Roland has been granted a divorce in Allegany County Circuit Court from Carl C. Roland.

Fireworks Banned By State Law

Legal Display Planned At Park

It's going to cost you if you are caught selling or setting off fireworks in Maryland on or before Independence Day, July 4.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday he has received information from Charles S. Jackson, state insurance commissioner of Maryland, that all fireworks within the state are forbidden by law unless approval is received from the commissioner.

Under the law, Chief Parker said, fireworks of every description—including firecrackers, rockets, sparklers and even paper caps—are banned unless such approval has been obtained.

Bert Caldara of Mt. Savage will be in charge of the display, which will last about 45 minutes. Necessary permits and insurance have been obtained.

An individual violating the law by possessing, discharging or selling fireworks is guilty of a misdemeanor, and is subject to a fine of not more than $50.

Anyone selling fireworks in violation of the provisions of the law will be subject to a fine of not more than $200 for each offense.

Permits for special displays are issued by the commissioner after proper investigations are made and a certificate of insurance must be filed, payable to the commissioner, as collateral in the event of injury or property damage.

With enforcement of the Fireworks Act, loss of life has decreased and there have been few accidents as a result of burns and explosions, Chief Parker said.

Vandegrift Favored For Armory Job

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland National Guard recommended Thursday that the John I. Vandegrift Construction Co. of Cumberland be awarded a contract to build a new National Guard armory at Cumberland.

Col. Chester Simmons, construction engineer, said the recommendation will be forwarded to the National Guard Bureau in Washington. If approved there, the contract will go to the Maryland Board of Public Works for its ratification next July 14.

The lowest base bid of $340,000 was made by the George Construction Co. However, Col. Simmons said that because of the alternates the low base bid would not necessarily be the lowest overall figure.

The third bidder was the George F. Hazelwood Co. with a base bid of $348,879.

Marines Lift All Quotas On Enlistments

The Marine Corps has removed enlistment quotas for July and August, and S/Sgt. Robert J. Grayson, local Marine Corps recruiter said he will accept applications during those two months from all qualified young men and women.

This marks the first time since last year that enlistments for the Marine Corps have been unlimited, he recalled.

Of particular interest to high school graduates who plan to spend this summer at home, the Marine Corps is offering a delayed enlistment program. Young men and women who are interested and want to be guaranteed a place in the Marines, may enlist now and go on active duty up to 120 days after date of acceptance.

Deadline Approaches For July 4-H Camp

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold yesterday reminded Allegany County 4-H Club boys that the deadline for applications for the annual Tri-County 4-H Camp is Tuesday, July 1.

Mr. Arnold said that 18 county boys have made reservations for the camp so far. Boys from Garrett and Washington counties also will attend the week-long camp starting July 13 at Pleasant Valley, the Western Maryland 4-H Center.

The assistant agent said that he is expecting more boys from the three counties to apply than spaces are available, which means that applications will be considered on a first-come first-served basis.

Helmick Obtains Building Permit

Curtis Helmick, Buchanan Avenue, Bowling Green, yesterday obtained a building permit for a dwelling equipped with a septic tank in Election District 6.

Estimated cost of the project is $7,000.

Three other permits for a garage, tool house and addition to a dwelling also were issued yesterday.

PE Schedules Cornerstone Laying Rites

Work Progressing On $300,000 Center

A cornerstone laying ceremony for one of the buildings in the Potomac Edison Company's new $300,000 Service Center in the South View Addition has been scheduled for 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, according to Garland L. Johnston, manager of PE's Cumberland District.

This ceremony will be for the service building and storage, which also will be equipped with second-floor office space.

Three officials of the Potomac Edison Company are scheduled to be here for the Tuesday morning ceremonies, according to Mr. Johnston. A. J. Bowen of Hagerstown, director of district operations for PE, will officiate at the cornerstone laying.

Also planning to attend are P. H. Byer, mechanical engineer, and H. H. Starchman, operational vice-president, both also from Hagerstown.

Work on the two buildings in the service center was started by the John I. Vandegrift Company, local contractor, about May 1. The line department and service garage is almost ready to be placed under roof. It is a one-story structure.

The two brick and concrete block buildings will be situated in a block bounded by Fourth Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and the Jane Frazier Village.

At the annual PE board of directors' meeting Monday, D. E. Stultz, PE president, reported that work here is progressing on schedule and it is hoped to have the buildings ready for occupancy on or about the first of next year.

12,000 Visit PPG Plant In 3 Days

William P. Lawrence, director of industrial relations at Works Seven, said company officials were well pleased with the turnout.

Mr. Lawrence said a breakdown of the crowd showed the biggest day was yesterday, when 6,000 persons took advantage of the open house tours.

On Wednesday, 4,000 visitors made the mile-and-a-quarter walking tour of the many buildings of the ultra-modern plant to view the glassmaking operation.

Family Day was held at the plant Tuesday to give the employes and their families an opportunity to view the facilities at the plant. Over 2,000 persons toured the plant on Family Day.

Visitors to the plant were given the opportunity to see the entire glassmaking process from beginning to end.

Company officials also expressed their thanks for the cooperation of the public, and said they were happy that so many persons and organizations were able to visit the plant, as future visits will be restricted.

Legion Of Moose To Elect Sunday

Elmer Smith of Frostburg, Noble North Moose, said the business meeting is called for 2:30 p. m. Nominations and election of officers will highlight the meeting, followed by the installation of officers and a class initiation ceremony.

William S. Miller of Keyser, herder, said members are expected to attend from Cumberland, Frostburg, Piedmont, Keyser, Romney and Moorefield.

Local Girls Leave Monday For Sunshine Camp Visit

Twenty-five little girls who underwent physical and dental examinations yesterday qualified for a two-weeks vacation at Sunshine Camp with the compliments of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

The deserving children were screened by the Associated Charities office and will begin their summer fun on Monday at the camp site located just off MacDonald Terrace.

Members of the Kiwanis Club will take the children to camp by auto and will leave from City Hall at 9 a.m. Monday.

William H. Johnson, chairman of the committee in charge, said a couple of weeks ago members of Boy Scout Troop 13, sponsored by First Presbyterian Church, cleaned up the camp site and their reward was a wiener roast at the end of the day.

The Kiwanians will meet at the camp during the second week and have lunch with the children. Two girl counselors will be chaperones and a full schedule of events has been planned for the girls.

Mr. Johnson said it is the aim of the local club to have members visit at the camp each day and spend sometime with the children. The camp, which was formerly a tuberculosis sanitarium, has been a summer project of the Kiwanis Club since 1940.

Camp director is George K. Conway, who is a teacher at Allegany High School.

What Price Election?

County Candidates Spent $18,506 To Win Or Lose

Some 76 campaign expense reports have been filed with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, and they show total expenditures of $18,506.52 in preparation for the May 20 primary election.

The latest report came in yesterday from Thomas F. Conlon Jr., who as a Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates was unopposed in the primary election. There are only five Demo candidates for the six House seats, so they automatically were certified to the November 4 general election. He spent only his $25 filing fee.

All except one of the 63 candidates whose names appeared on either the Republican or Democratic primary ballot have filed reports with Mr. Boden. The exception is Lee Marple, who ran fifth in the Republican race for county commissioners. Three were nominated.

Five others who were unopposed in the primary and presumably spent only their filing fees did not file reports. They included Howard P. Loughrie, Democratic candidate for sheriff; William C. Walsh and William L. Wilson, who were delegates to the State Democratic Convention, and George A. Boch, the fifth Democratic candidate for House of Delegates, and Mr. Boden, who is unopposed for re-election.

Republicans Spent More

The reports showed that Republicans spent a total of $12,220.17 and the Democrats $6,286.35. A total of $8,515 in contributions was reported which would indicate that the candidates themselves forked over almost $10,000 of their own money in the campaign.

Most valuable job, judging from the expense reports, is Allegany County's seat in the State Senate. The two Republican candidates reported spending a total of $1,653.27, or an average of $826.63. Senator Charles M. See, who won the nomination, reported spending $707.37, while Delegate George R. Hughes Jr. listed expenditures of $945.90.

The next highest price tag was on the sheriff's job. The two Republican candidates spent a total of $905.50, an average of $452.75. Sheriff Edward R. Muir listed expenditures of $416.50 and William E. Orr Jr. showed $489.

The Price Tag

The 11 reporting Republican candidates for county commissioners showed total expenditures of $4,956.35, which puts an average price tag on this race of $450.58. Here's how they reported their expenditures: William A. Wilson, $1,042.50; James Orr, $956.54; W. A. Strother, $800.62; Simeon W. Green, $549.30; John J. Smith, $301.56; Harold L. Drew, $266.80; Charles N. Hill, $265.90; Glenn R. Davis, $263.15; Robert C. Hohing, $189.69; Okey E. Michael, $163.01; Louis V. Shinnamon, $157.28.

A total of $3,306.25 was reported spent by the 16 Republican candidates for the House of Delegates, which makes an average of $206.64 for each. Here's the way they ranked in expenditures:

Harold D. Brooks, $378.25; Walter E. Mueller Sr., $349.37; Fred B. Driscoll, $276.05; Lester B. Reed, $272.95; David J. Williams, $268.75; Estel C. Kelley, $239.20; Irvin Charles Alexander, $236; Lee C. Barnett Jr., $219.54; Robert Lee Jeffrey, $207.56; Noel Speir Cook, $189.94; C. William H. Baer, $154.60; Jonathan Sleeman, $135; Thomas N. Berry, $120.51; John M. Robb, $90.28; Harry T. Warnick, $85.25, and Jack I. Mullen, $83.

The five Republicans who vied for the three nominations for judges of Orphans Court spent a total of $373.78, an average of $74.76 each. They included James O. Marshall, $108.38; William C. Abbott, $97.13; J. French VanMeter, $59.30; James G. Hadley, $56.97, and Hugh Stevenson, $52.

Investment Without Return

One unusual aspect of the campaign was that candidates for the Republican State Central Committee spent money for a job which pays no salary. In the past four years a number of committee members have been appointed to the House of Delegates and other paying positions. Although six spent only their $10 filing fee, the total expenditures of the 14 were $446.99, an average of $31.92 each.

Here's the way they stood:

Woodrow W. Gurley, $115.60; Edward T. Evans Jr., $68.27; Victor M. Hebb, $50.44; Ernest B. Treat, $46.68; Thomas W. Williams, $40; Harry E. Shobe, $27.50; William Bantz, $19.50; Leonard D. Miller, $19; and Melvin S. Sloan, Edgar M. Lewis, Thomas Elias, J. Kenneth Morgan, Jerry G. Clise and J. Irvin Martin, $10 filing fee each.

County Treasurer James W. Bishop, Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart and State's Attorney James S. Getty, all unopposed in both the GOP primary and the general election, listed only $25 filing fee expenditures.

Lewis J. Ort, as treasurer for U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, reported contributions of $610 and expenditures of $503.03.

Veterans Take Part In Revue At Westernport

Firemen's Drill Planned Tonight

Local and area veterans' organizations took part in a colorful street parade last night in Westernport and Piedmont in conjunction with the third birthday of the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps of Victory Post 155, American Legion of Westernport.

The revue was headed by color guards of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve here and of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion of Ridgeley.

The Drum and Bugle Corps of Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion of Cumberland was in the line of march, followed by members of the Grantsville American Legion Post and Legion officials, including John Sloan, commander of the Department of Maryland.

Frostburg legionnaires and members of the VFW were next in line, followed by members of Fort Cumberland Post 13 and the Blue Angels Drum and Bugle Corps.

Four Spanish-American War veterans, Norris Bruce, Charles Ross, Fred Wiseman and Gideon Reitz, honored by the Legion Post of Westernport, shared the spotlight in the parade along with Miss Elaine Metcalf, "Miss Blue Angel," and Margie Shaw, "The Little Queen."

Lonaconing, Cresaptown, Keyser and Westernport firemen have indicated they will participate in a drill exhibition today at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Park in Westernport.

A first prize of $75 and a second prize of $25 will be awarded. The grand feature parade has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

City Collects 98 Per Cent Of Tax Levy

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said yesterday that 98.6 per cent of the tax levy of Cumberland, including taxes on real and personal property, was collected by May 31 this year.

During the 11 months of the fiscal year, 85.6 per cent of the tax levy and miscellaneous income levy of the city have been collected.

Mr. Gibson pointed out that expenditures for normal city operations are running rather close to those of the same period last year.

By May 31, 1957, some 86.8 per cent had been expended in comparison to 84.2 per cent for this year. An adjustment eliminates sewage treatment operations which were not in last year's budget.

Income from general licenses including liquor and business licenses sold by the state and regulatory licenses of the city are slow in coming in, although a major portion has been received since May of this year.

Income tax money was received this month, he said, and auto licenses revenue is still lagging.

Auto Driver In Bike Accident Released

Alex Buck, of RFD 1, Auburn, Maine, driver of an auto which collided with a bicycle on Henderson Avenue Wednesday injuring the cyclist, Paul Stickley, nine, of this city, was questioned yesterday at the state's attorney's office and released.

No charges were filed against the driver, authorities said, since the accident appeared to have been unavoidable. The youngster, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Stickley, 227 South Mechanic Street, sustained a fractured skull, according to attaches of Sacred Heart Hospital, who said the lad is "getting along fine."

Local Police Get Reports Of Thefts

The theft of a quantity of iron, including Army gears, was reported to police yesterday by a local junkyard dealer.

Police received a complaint from the Miller Junkyard at 1415 River Avenue, that between closing time Wednesday and yesterday morning someone took an undetermined amount of iron.

The complainant said wheel cogs, Army gears and sash weights were taken. As far as it is known they are the only Army gears in the area. The iron was marked with yellow chalk in the form of an X, police said.

A breaking and entering was reported by the occupant of 114 Polk Street, who said someone forced open the front door between 6 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. on Wednesday.

A small cupboard and sewing machine was ransacked although nothing apparently was taken. Moore Motor Sales on North Centre Street, notified police that sometime Wednesday morning someone jacked up a car and removed a right wheel and tire.

The car had been towed to the lot for storage. Several other cars were tampered with, although nothing apparently was taken.

Two other local residents said that two hub caps were removed from their cars which were parked on Fairview Avenue and South Allegany Street during the past several days.

Only Two Seek Road Positions

Few employes of the Allegany County Roads Department apparently are interested in taking the promotional examination offered by the Civil Service Commission for two top positions in the roads department.

Mrs. Joan S. Burke, secretary to the commission, yesterday said that she had only one application for each of the jobs. Positions at stake are the county roads supervisor's post and the job as foreman of the roads crew in the eastern section of the county.

J. Walker Chapman is resigning from the supervisor's post and Roy Smith of Little Orleans is retiring as foreman.

Applicants have until 4 p. m. Tuesday, July 1, to apply for the two promotional examinations.

Council Candidate Reports Expenses

Cecil C. Clark, who was an unsuccessful candidate for City Council in the June 3 city election, yesterday submitted a report to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, showing that his expenditures totaled $110.

Besides his $25 filing fee, Mr. Clark reported spending $50 for printing and $35 for advertising. He is the third councilmanic candidate to submit such a report.

West Virginia Tax Assessors Meeting Today

Emergency Session Called At Capitol

Frank A. Hott, assessor for Mineral County, and J. Harold Felton, assessor for Tucker County, are among the West Virginia county assessors called to Charleston for an emergency meeting with state tax officials to discuss the impact of two recent decisions of the State Supreme Court.

The Associated Press at Charleston reported the meeting called by State Tax Commissioner John A. Field Jr. is scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) in the House of Delegates chamber at the capitol.

Of principal concern will be a June 17 Supreme Court decision which re - emphasized a provision of the state constitution: "No one species of property from which a tax may be collected shall be taxed higher than any other species of property of equal value."

The other court decision, handed down the same day, threw out as unconstitutional a tax law enacted by the 1957 Legislature. The act had authorized county boards of education to impose a tax on the recording of property transfers to raise money for schools.

Equal Taxation Principle

The decision reaffirming the principle of equal taxation has far - reaching implications for all 55 counties. It reversed a Kanawha County decision involving the stock of the Kanawha Valley Bank of Charleston.

Kanawha Cicuit Court set six million dollars as the actual value of the bank's shares and also fixed the assessed value for tax purposes at six million, 100 per cent of value. The bank successfully complained that this was contrary to the constitution in the neighborhood of 40 per cent.

While the record in the case before the Supreme Court showed the bank stock was assessed at 100 per cent, the same record included testimony by Kanawha Assessor John M. Slack Jr. that the over - all level of assessments in the county was only 40 per cent of value.

The percentage figures tie in with those in the tax commissioner's annual county - by - county property appraisal survey, based on a relatively small sampling of properties in each county.

1957 Survey Is Cited

The 1957 survey would indicate the inequality complained of in the Kanawha case is statewide. The survey showed a statewide average of 88 per cent for Class I property, which includes bank stock, compared with percentages of 39 for Class II, 49 per cent for Class III and 44 per cent for Class IV.

Class I property carries the lowest tax levy rate of the four property classes. The direct loss of revenue from lowering Class I assessments to bring them in line with the survey - indicated percentages for the other classes would not be as serious as the effect on state school aid allocations.

Under a 1955 legislative act, counties must have this year's assessments of property other than that owned by public utilities up to 45 per cent of the value indicated by the appraisal survey. Failure to do so brings corresponding losses in school aid grants.

The required level next year

Girls State Elects Officers

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The American Legion Auxiliary's 13th annual Girls State Thursday elected a Hagerstown girl as governor and set up a mock legislature.

Jeanne Damm of North Hagerstown High School was chosen governor by the 162 high school juniors attending the sessions. She ran on the Nationalist party ticket and defeated Carol Latona of Chevy Chase, Federalist nominee.

Other administrative officers are Mary Louise Chesley of St. John's High in Frederick, attorney general, and Paula Prusch of Westminster's Northwest High, comptroller.

Giving the girls instruction in state government procedures were Dels. Myron Bloom and Howard Ankeney of Washington County, J. Waters Parrish, secretary of the Maryland Senate, and Lee Benson, assistant director of the Depatrment of Legislative Reference.

The delegates have been studying government processes all week. Friday they'll continue their experiment in state government and will journey to College Park Friday night for a social visit to Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion.

DR. JOHN A. STEHLEY

Dentist Retires After 44 Years In Profession

A local dentist, who became interested in dentistry at the age of 14 when he began working in his father's laboratory, has retired after 44 years in the profession.

Dr. John A. Stehley, who maintained an office at 1 Decatur Street for many years, thought at first he would like to be an engineer, and completed a year of study in the School of Engineering at West Virginia University.

But back in those days, he said, the prospects of a secure future in the field of engineering were not encouraging, so he decided to follow in his father's footsteps.

He enrolled in the School of Dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania, where his granddad, the late Dr. John A. Stehley, of Harrisburg, Pa., had completed his studies to become a physician.

In 1914 he completed the three-year course, and after receiving his degree as doctor of dental surgery, added his name to the shingle of his father, Dr. Frazier P. Stehley, on North Centre Street.

He and his father worked together until the father's retirement in 1926. A brother-in-law, Dr. W. R. Sollers, also practiced dentistry with them.

A brother, the late Dr. Roszel Stehley, practiced in Fairmont, and an uncle, the late Dr. Haldiman Stehley, had a practice in Keyser for years. At present a niece, Dr. Virginia Stehley Davis, is a dentist in Germantown, Pa.

Dr. Stehley is a member of the American Dental Association, the Maryland State Dental Association and the Allegany-Garrett Counties Dental Society, having been president of the organization one year.

He is also a member of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks.

Looking back over his 44 years of drilling, filling and extracting teeth, Dr. Stehley believes the greatest strides in dentistry were the introduction of novocain, a local anesthetic; and X-ray equipment.

He is married to the former Martha E. Sullivan of Saxton, Pa., and they live at 502 Frederick Street. For the past 38 years he and his wife have taken time off during the winter for relaxation in Florida.

Condemnations, Damage Suits Docketed Here

Two minor condemnation suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission along with a $1,000 suit for damages brought by a Hagerstown woman.

Margaret Long, RFD 3, Hagerstown, filed the $1,000 damage suit against Gerald Ruckman, 457 Waverly Terrace. In her declaration, filed by Attorney Thomas N. Berry, Mrs. Long charged that a collision in the dual highway segment of U. S. Route 40 within the Hagerstown city limits demolished her car on May 25.

Mrs. Long said that her son, Eric Long, was driving her car east-bound on Route 40 when Ruckman, also driving east, made a left turn from the right-hand lane causing the collision which demolished her car.

One of the condemnation suits, filed for the state agency by Attorney Robert MacDonald Bruce, is against George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, Johnstown, Pa., who own property on Park Heights off the south side of U. S. Route 40.

The SRC seeks about 2,160 square feet owned by the Johnstown couple for an easement area for an outlet ditch in conjunction with improvements to Route 40 from the Mt. Savage Road to Long. The agency deposited a check for $565 with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, as representing a fair price for the needed property.

The other condemnation suit, filed by Attorney Milton Gerson, concerns about 150 square feet on the south side of Route 40 just beyond its intersection with Route 36, the Mt. Savage Road. Defendants in this action are Ernest C. Staley and Levada J. Staley, his wife, RFD 6, and the Liberty Trust Company, mortgagee. The deposited check in this case was only for $85.

Collections At $578,000

The office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House had its busiest day of the month yesterday when a whopping $578,000 was collected.

That figure was half as much as had been collected in all of the previous days in June. That total as of closing time yesterday was $1,660,000.

One major reason for the heavy collection was that three large corporations paid their state and county taxes yesterday. These returns came from the Celanese Corporation of America, the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Heavy collections are anticipated today, tomorrow and Monday, the last three for taxpayers to get the five per cent discount on county taxes. In July the discount becomes four per cent.

Wednesday's collections amounted to $130,000.

Divorce Granted

Mildred B. Roland has been granted a divorce in Allegany County Circuit Court from Carl C. Roland.

Deadline Approaches For July 4-H Camp

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold yesterday reminded Allegany County 4-H Club boys that the deadline for applications for the annual Tri-County 4-H Camp is Tuesday, July 1.

Mr. Arnold said that 18 county boys have made reservations for the camp so far. Boys from Garrett and Washington counties also will attend the week-long camp starting July 13 at Pleasant Valley, the Western Maryland 4-H Center.

The assistant agent said that he is expecting more boys from the three counties to apply than spaces are available, which means that applications will be considered on a first-come first-served basis.

Helmick Obtains Building Permit

Curtis Helmick, Buchanan Avenue, Bowling Green, yesterday obtained a building permit for a dwelling equipped with a septic tank in Election District 6.

Estimated cost of the project is $7,000.

Three other permits for a garage, tool house and addition to a dwelling also were issued yesterday.

Fireworks Banned By State Law

Legal Display Planned At Park

It's going to cost you if you are caught selling or setting off fireworks in Maryland on or before Independence Day, July 4.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday he has received information from Charles S. Jackson, state insurance commissioner of Maryland, that all fireworks within the state are forbidden by law unless approval is received from the commissioner.

Under the law, Chief Parker said, fireworks of every description—including firecrackers, rockets, sparklers and even paper caps—are banned unless such approval has been obtained.

The eighth annual display of fireworks in Cumberland will be held at dusk July 4 at Constitution Park by the Recreation Department.

Bert Caldara of Mt. Savage will be in charge of the display, which will last about 45 minutes. Necessary permits and insurance have been obtained.

An individual violating the law by possessing, discharging or selling fireworks is guilty of a misdemeanor, and is subject to a fine of not more than $50.

Anyone selling fireworks in violation of the provisions of the law will be subject to a fine of not more than $200 for each offense.

Permits for special displays are issued by the commissioner after proper investigations are made and a certificate of insurance must be filed, payable to the commissioner, as collateral in the event of injury or property damage.

With enforcement of the Fireworks Act, loss of life has decreased and there have been few accidents as a result of burns and explosions, Chief Parker said.

Vandegrift Favored For Armory Job

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland National Guard recommended Thursday that the John I. Vandegrift Construction Co. of Cumberland be awarded a contract to build a new National Guard armory at Cumberland.

Col. Chester Simmons, construction engineer, said the recommendation will be forwarded to the National Guard Bureau in Washington. If approved there, the contract will go to the Maryland Board of Public Works for its ratification next July 14.

The overall Vandegrift bid was $351,080, which included several additional alterations to the base bid of $346,089.

The lowest base bid of $340,000 was made by the George Construction Co. However, Col. Simmons said that because of the alternates the low base bid would not necessarily be the lowest overall figure.

The third bidder was the George F. Hazelwood Co. with a base bid of $348,879.

Marines Lift All Quotas On Enlistments

The Marine Corps has removed enlistment quotas for July and August, and S/Sgt. Robert J. Grayson, local Marine Corps recruiter said he will accept applications during those two months from all qualified young men and women.

This marks the first time since last year that enlistments for the Marine Corps have been unlimited, he recalled.

Of particular interest to high school graduates who plan to spend this summer at home, the Marine Corps is offering a delayed enlistment program. Young men and women who are interested and want to be guaranteed a place in the Marines, may enlist now and go on active duty up to 120 days after date of acceptance.

Festival This Evening

St. Luke's Lutheran Church will hold a strawberry festival today at 5 p. m. on the church grounds. In the event of rain the festival will be held in the church building.

Local Girls Leave Monday For Sunshine Camp Visit

Twenty-five little girls who underwent physical and dental examinations yesterday qualified for a two-weeks vacation at Sunshine Camp with the compliments of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

The deserving children were screened by the Associated Charities office and will begin their summer fun on Monday at the camp site located just off MacDonald Terrace.

Members of the Kiwanis Club will take the children to camp by auto and will leave from City Hall at 9 a.m. Monday.

William H. Johnson, chairman of the committee in charge, said a couple of weeks ago members of Boy Scout Troop 13, sponsored by First Presbyterian Church, cleaned up the camp site and their reward was a wiener roast at the end of the day.

The Kiwanians will meet at the camp during the second week and have lunch with the children. Two girl counselors will be chaperones and a full schedule of events has been planned for the girls.

Mr. Johnson said it is the aim of the local club to have members visit at the camp each day and spend sometime with the children. The camp, which was formerly a tuberculosis sanitarium, has been a summer project of the Kiwanis Club since 1940.

Camp director is George K. Conway, who is a teacher at Allegany High School.

PE Schedules Cornerstone Laying Rites

Work Progressing On $300,000 Center

A cornerstone laying ceremony for one of the buildings in the Potomac Edison Company's new $300,000 Service Center in the South View Addition has been scheduled for 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, according to Garland L. Johnston, manager of PE's Cumberland District.

This ceremony will be for the service building and storage, which also will be equipped with second-floor office space.

Three officials of the Potomac Edison Company are scheduled to be here for the Tuesday morning ceremonies, according to Mr. Johnston. A. J. Bowen of Hagerstown, director of district operations for PE, will officiate at the cornerstone laying.

Also planning to attend are P. H. Byer, mechanical engineer, and H. H. Starchman, operational vice-president, both also from Hagerstown.

Work on the two buildings in the service center was started by the John I. Vandegrift Company, local contractor, about May 1. The line department and service garage is almost ready to be placed under roof. It is a one-story structure.

The two brick and concrete block buildings will be situated in a block bounded by Fourth Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and the Jane Frazier Village.

At the annual PE board of directors' meeting Monday, D. E. Stultz, PE president, reported that work here is progressing on schedule and it is hoped to have the buildings ready for occupancy on or about the first of next year.

12,000 Visit PPG Plant In 3 Days

An estimated 12,000 area residents visited the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's modern plant at North Branch during the open house program Wednesday and yesterday.

William P. Lawrence, director of industrial relations at Works Seven, said company officials were well pleased with the turnout.

Mr. Lawrence said a breakdown of the crowd showed the biggest day was yesterday, when 6,000 persons took advantage of the open house tours.

On Wednesday, 4,000 visitors made the mile-and-a-quarter walking tour of the many buildings of the ultra-modern plant to view the glassmaking operation.

Family Day was held at the plant Tuesday to give the employes and their families an opportunity to view the facilities at the plant. Over 2,000 persons toured the plant on Family Day.

The plant was formally dedicated on Tuesday afternoon at ceremonies attended by plant and civic officials.

Visitors to the plant were given the opportunity to see the entire glassmaking process from beginning to end.

Company officials also expressed their thanks for the cooperation of the public, and said they were happy that so many persons and organizations were able to visit the plant, as future visits will be restricted.

What Price Election?

County Candidates Spent $18,506 To Win Or Lose

Some 76 campaign expense reports have been filed with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, and they show total expenditures of $18,506.52 in preparation for the May 20 primary election.

The latest report came in yesterday from Thomas F. Conlon Jr., who as a Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates was unopposed in the primary election. There are only five Demo candidates for the six House seats, so they automatically were certified to the November 4 general election. He spent only his $25 filing fee.

All except one of the 63 candidates whose names appeared on either the Republican or Democratic primary ballot have filed reports with Mr. Boden. The exception is Lee Marple, who ran fifth in the Republican race for county commissioners. Three were nominated.

Five others who were unopposed in the primary and presumably spent only their filing fees did not file reports. They included Howard P. Loughrie, Democratic candidate for sheriff; William C. Walsh and William L. Wilson, who were delegates to the State Democratic Convention, and George A. Boch, the fifth Democratic candidate for House of Delegates, and Mr. Boden, who is unopposed for re-election.

Republicans Spent More

The reports showed that Republicans spent a total of $12,220.17 and the Democrats $6,286.35. A total of $8,515 in contributions was reported which would indicate that the candidates themselves forked over almost $10,000 of their own money in the campaign.

Most valuable job, judging from the expense reports, is Allegany County's seat in the State Senate. The two Republican candidates reported spending a total of $1,653.27, or an average of $826.63. Senator Charles M. See, who won the nomination, reported spending $707.37, while Delegate George R. Hughes Jr. listed expenditures of $945.90.

The next highest price tag was on the sheriff's job. The two Republican candidates spent a total of $905.50, an average of $452.75. Sheriff Edward R. Muir listed expenditures of $416.50 and William E. Orr Jr. showed $489.

The Price Tag

The 11 reporting Republican candidates for county commissioners showed total expenditures of $4,956.35, which puts an average price tag on this race of $450.58. Here's how they reported their expenditures: William A. Wilson, $1,042.50; James Orr, $956.54; W. A. Strother, $800.62; Simeon W. Green, $549.30; John J. Smith, $301.56; Harold L. Drew, $266.80; Charles N. Hill, $265.90; Glenn R. Davis, $263.15; Robert C. Hohing, $189.69; Okey E. Michael, $163.01; Louis V. Shinnamon, $157.28.

A total of $3,306.25 was reported spent by the 16 Republican candidates for the House of Delegates, which makes an average of $206.64 for each. Here's the way they ranked in expenditures:

Harold D. Brooks, $378.25; Walter E. Mueller Sr., $349.37; Fred B. Driscoll, $276.05; Lester B. Reed, $272.95; David J. Williams, $268.75; Estel C. Kelley, $239.20; Irvin Charles Alexander, $236; Lee C. Barnett Jr., $219.54; Robert Lee Jeffrey, $207.56; Noel Speir Cook, $189.94; C. William H. Baer, $154.60; Jonathan Sleeman, $135; Thomas N. Berry, $120.51; John M. Robb, $90.28; Harry T. Warnick, $85.25, and Jack I. Mullen, $83.

The five Republicans who vied for the three nominations for judges of Orphans Court spent a total of $373.78, an average of $74.76 each. They included James O. Marshall, $108.38; William C. Abbott, $97.13; J. French VanMeter, $59.30; James G. Hadley, $56.97, and Hugh Stevenson, $52.

Investment Without Return

One unusual aspect of the campaign was that candidates for the Republican State Central Committee spent money for a job which pays no salary. In the past four years a number of committee members have been appointed to the House of Delegates and other paying positions. Although six spent only their $10 filing fee, the total expenditures of the 14 were $446.99, an average of $31.92 each.

Here's the way they stood:

Woodrow W. Gurley, $115.60; Edward T. Evans Jr., $68.27; Victor M. Hebb, $50.44; Ernest B. Treat, $46.68; Thomas W. Williams, $40; Harry E. Shobe, $27.50; William Bantz, $19.50; Leonard D. Miller, $19; and Melvin S. Sloan, Edgar M. Lewis, Thomas Elias, J. Kenneth Morgan, Jerry G. Clise and J. Irvin Martin, $10 filing fee each.

County Treasurer James W. Bishop, Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart and State's Attorney James S. Getty, all unopposed in both the GOP primary and the general election, listed only $25 filing fee expenditures.

Lewis J. Ort, as treasurer for U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, reported contributions of $610 and expenditures of $503.03.

Four Spanish - American War veterans, Norris Bruce, Charles Ross, Fred Wiseman and Gideon Reitz, honored by the Legion Post of Westernport, shared the spotlight in the parade along with Miss Elaine Metcalf, "Miss Blue Angel," and Margie Shaw, "The Little Queen."

Lonaconing, Cresaptown, Keyser and Westernport firemen have indicated they will participate in a drill exhibition today at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Park in Westernport.

City Collects 98 Per Cent Of Tax Levy

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said yesterday that 98.6 per cent of the tax levy of Cumberland, including taxes on real and personal property, was collected by May 31 this year.

During the 11 months of the fiscal year, 85.6 per cent of the tax levy and miscellaneous income levy of the city have been collected.

Mr. Gibson pointed out that expenditures for normal city operations are running rather close to those of the same period last year.

By May 31, 1957, some 86.8 per cent had been expended in comparison to 84.2 per cent for this year. An adjustment eliminates sewage treatment operations which were not in last year's budget.

Income from general licenses including liquor and business licenses sold by the state and regulatory licenses of the city are slow in coming in, although a major portion has been received since May of this year.

Income tax money was received this month, he said, and auto licenses revenue is still lagging.

Some appropriations indicate excess expenditures. However, most of them are due credits before the end of the year which will compensate for overdrawn amounts.

Alex Buck, of RFD 1, Auburn, Maine, driver of an auto which collided with a bicycle on Henderson Avenue Wednesday injuring the cyclist, Paul Stickley, nine, of this city, was questioned yesterday at the state's attorney's office and released.

No charges were filed against the driver, authorities said, since the accident appeared to have been unavoidable. The youngster, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Stickley, 227 South Mechanic Street, sustained a fractured skull, according to attaches of Sacred Heart Hospital, who said the lad is "getting along fine."

Local Police Get Reports Of Thefts

The theft of a quantity of iron, including Army gears, was reported to police yesterday by a local junkyard dealer.

Police received a complaint from the Miller Junkyard at 1415 River Avenue, that between closing time Wednesday and yesterday morning someone took an undetermined amount of iron.

The complainant said wheel cogs, Army gears and sash weights were taken. As far as it is known they are the only Army gears in the area. The iron was marked with yellow chalk in the form of an X, police said.

A breaking and entering was reported by the occupant of 114 Polk Street, who said someone forced open the front door between 6 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. on Wednesday.

A small cupboard and sewing machine was ransacked although nothing apparently was taken. Moore Motor Sales on North Centre Street, notified police that sometime Wednesday morning someone jacked up a car and removed a right wheel and tire.

The car had been towed to the lot for storage. Several other cars were tampered with, although nothing apparently was taken.

Two other local residents said that two hub caps were removed from their cars which were parked on Fairview Avenue and South Allegany Street during the past several days.

Only Two Seek Road Positions

Few employes of the Allegany County Roads Department apparently are interested in taking the promotional examination offered by the Civil Service Commission for two top positions in the roads department.

Mrs. Joan S. Burke, secretary to the commission, yesterday said that she had only one application for each of the jobs. Positions at stake are the county roads supervisor's post and the job as foreman of the roads crew in the eastern section of the county.

J. Walker Chapman is resigning from the supervisor's post and Roy Smith of Little Orleans is retiring as foreman.

Applicants have until 4 p. m. Tuesday, July 1, to apply for the two promotional examinations.
